HAIL, HAIL, THE GANG'S AT HAMILTON

Planes and people covered the flight line at Hamilton Air Force Base yesterday as a record crowd, estimated at 60,000 by base officials, turned out to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Air Force. (Other photos, page 8.) Observers reported Highway 101 traffic in the base area was lined up north and south in the early afternoon prior to the feature attraction of the day, a demonstration by the Thunderbirds, precision flying team.

B52s Hit Key Port In North

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52s guided by precision radar dumped tons of explosives today on Communist supply areas on the outskirts of the North Vietnamese coastal city of Vinh, 145 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), military sources reported.

It was the furthest the B52s have ever penetrated in North Vietnam and the first time they have struck targets north of the DMZ in four years. They have steered clear of the north until now because of the Surface-to-Air (SAM) missiles to which they are vulnerable.

North Vietnam has sent thousands of troops across the border into South Vietnam and pilots flying over North Vietnam have reported long lines of tanks, supply trucks and more and more anti-aircraft guns and missile launchers strung out along Highway 1 north of the DMZ.

U.S. 7th Fleet destroyers and cruisers moved close inshore to bombard Communist concentrations with their naval rifles and missiles, and the U.S. command said two destroyers were hit by Communist shore batteries. No casualties were reported.

The military sources sid the B52 strikes were ordered personally by President Nixon as part of the retaliatory air strikes against the invasion into Quang Tri Province in the extreme northeastern section of South Vietnam. Monsoon rain and clouds prevented fighter-bombers from hitting the target areas today.

Vinh, capital of Nghe Province, is the birthplace of Ho Chi Minh, the late North Vietnamese president who fought for 20 years to "liberate" all of Indochina. It is North Vietnam's second most important port after Haiphong and pilots said it was jammed with war material.

Before today's B52 strike U.S. Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers had pounded the SAM sites in hundreds of raids. The military sources said the decision to send B52s against Vinh indicated the smaller fighter-bombers had been successful in eliminating the SAM threat.

None of the B52s has been downed by a SAM yet but one was damaged this weekend by shrapnel from an exploding SAM over Quang Tri Province and landed safetly at Da Nang.

Dispatches from Quang Tri today said a Communist tank attack had been beaten back with heavy losses after it drove to within a mile of Quang Tri City, but in the south, just to the northwest of Saigon, North Vietnamese forces captured another district capital.

Military sources said South Vietnamese troops withdrew from Bo Duc, 85 miles northwest of Saigon, under intense Communist pressure. Bo Duc is five miles northeast of abandoned Loc Ninh, and a flareup of fighting there indicated more Communist troops had poured across the border from Cambodia.

Earthquake Buries Thousands In Iran

Deaths May Total 4,000 In 250 Mile Long Area

TEHRAN (UPI) — A cataclysmic earthquake struck southern Iran today, leveling the crude adobe farming huts in dozens of villages and burying thousands of people in the rubble. A witness said it hit "like the end of the world on Judgment Day."

Manouchet Pirouz, Governor General of Fars Province where the earthquake struck along a 250-mile long area, said between 2,000 and 4,000 persons were killed and perhaps more. The area is about 610 miles south of Tehran.

(In Rockville, Md., the National Earthquake Information Center said the quake registered 7.0 on the open-ended Richter Scale but witnesses from the area said the quake had an intensity measure of 9.5, which would be one of the heaviest on record.)

Helicopter rescue teams flew to the area and began pulling bodies from beneath the debris. The Shah of Iran ordered six army planes to the area and sent his brother, Prince Mahmoud Reza, to the province to assist in relief operations.

"This was a disaster no one could ever imagine," one witness who returned from the scene said. "It was just like the end of the world on Judgment Day."

"We saw a woman with two of her children in her arms being pulled out dead from under rubble," the witness said. "There was even a woman who had just delivered a child. It was a gruesome sight."

Officials said most of the dead were women and children left behind in their homes as their men went to the fields before dawn.

The quake struck at 5:37 a.m. local time (9:07 p.m. EST Sunday.)

Initial rescue reports said at least five villages were almost totally razed by the quake. They included Karezin, Ghir, Hengam, Mobarakhad and Tange-Roum.

The hardest hit villages were mostly adobe and straw hut farming hamlets. The quakes was felt in larger towns and cities but damage was less because of the stronger structure of the buildings.

Witnesses said farmers who felt the quake in the hills rushed back to the villages to find their whole families lying dead beneath their collapsed homes.

"Men were crying like little kids," one witness said. "Some groans were heard from injured women and children still alive."

Marin, S. Sonoma Voters Make Choices Tomorrow

Marin and Southern Sonoma voters will settle 33 nonpartisan contests for municipal office in 12 cities tomorrow. Also on the ballot will be bond issues in Mill Valley and Rohnert Park, a Sausalito park plan referendum and a Fairfax zoning controversy.

In unincorporated Lucas Valley, residents will vote on a bond issue proposed to acquire open space.

San Rafael and Petaluma, both charter cities, will not have municipal elections tomorrow.

Polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Election results will be tallied at precincts, then reported to the county elections departments. Paper ballots rather than the computer-counted punchcard ballots will be used, probably resulting in a long night of counting in cities where there are many council candidates.

Here is how the election contests shape up for the various cities:

BELVEDERE — Five candidates for three city council seats.

CORTE MADERA — Five candidates for two city council seats.

FAIRFAX — Nine candidates for three council seats; three candidates for treasurer. Fairfax citizens will also decide whether the 23.5-acre Marin Town and Country Club, threatened with apartment development, should be rezoned to preserve it for park and open space use.

LARKSPUR — Seven candidates for three council seats.

MILL VALLEY — Six candidates for three council seats, plus a $275,000 bond issue intended to build a new fire station in East Mill Valley.

NOVATO — Eleven candi-

Bay Suspect Walks Into FBI's Arms

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—A tall, husky man inadvertantly walked into the arms of FBI agents Sunday night after he allegedly attempted to hijack a Pacific Southwest Airlines Boeing 727 following a formula nearly identical to one used by a hijacker two days earlier.

FBI agents subdued the would-be hijacker at Lindbergh International Airport here after he startled authorities by agreeing to leave the aircraft to pick up himself maps and weather information he had de-

Hijack Money Found In Suspect's Home

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The FBI today announced recovery of $499,970 in the home of the sky-diving college student held for the hijacking of a United Air Lines jet last week.

The disclosure came in a list submitted by the FBI to the U.S. magistrate on the results of a Sunday search of the Provo, Utah,home of Richard Floyd McCoy Jr., 29, a Vietnam veteran majoring in law enforcement at Brigham Young University.

Agents had dug up McCoy's backyard during the search, but the money was found in a box taken from his brick home. Among other items reported seized at the home were:

—A green military-type flight suit with two aerial flare cartridges in the pockets, and a second flight suit.

—A blue and white parachute with red trim and a black parachute harness.

—Two helmets, one crash type and one military jump style.

—A pistol and holster and clothing, which were in the box with the money.

—Two electric typewriters and a brown striped sport coat.

The UAL hijacker was given a $500,000 ransom in the escapade which started Friday over Colorado and included a landing in San Francisco and a bailout over Provo.

FBI agents took four boxes and two suitcases from the McCoy home Sunday, saying they had "evidence" but refused to disclose if the money had been found.

McCoy taught Sunday School last year for the Mormon church, and a teen-age student

$3.5 Million Claim In Moratorium

Berkeley developer Edward R. Fitzsimmons and four co-owners of 162 acres on Wolfback Ridge have filed a claim for $3.6 million against the City of Sausalito.

Fitzsimmons, who has been seeking city approval of a development on the property for two years, said he planned to file a claim for damages against the city after the Sausalito City Council declared on March 28 a moritorium on subdivisions until April 29, 1973.

During that meeting City Atty. Leland H. Jordan told the council the city cannot declare a piece of property open space without compensating the owners for their land.

Fitzsimmons and his partners, his wife Elizabeth, Frank W. Lynch and his wife, Ellenora C. Lynch and Dorothea Melchers, claim the $3.5 million represents a fair market value for the land and $100,000 has

New Voter Registrants Total 154 After 'Hyde Park At Pepperland'

By JAY GOODWIN

Start with a new voter registration drive at Pepperland; add half a dozen rock bands, assorted singers and an improvisational theatre group; line the walls with booths for candidates and special interest groups; sprinkle the hall with orating politicians atop Carnation milk cartons; and what do you have?

You have the "Hyde Park at Pepperland" voter registration drive, which attracted about 1,000 teen-agers to the San Rafael dance hall Saturday afternoon.

Representatives from every conceivable cause and campaign turned out to speak with the young voters, distribute literature, hawk a button or two and, perhaps, grab some new recruits. (See photo, page 9.)

When it was all over 154 new voters had registered. Of these, 115 signed up as Democrats, 16 as Republicans, and 14 declined to state a party affiliation.

The total fell far short of an optimistic guess, early in the day, by Peter Meyer, county elections officer.

"I'm looking for 1,000 new voters," he said. "But from all indications, these young people are no more interested in elections than their parents." It seemed to be more important to them that they get the privilege of voting, rather than actually using the priviledge."

Betty Sturz, a coordinator for the all-day event, detected a "latent enthusiasm" for politics among young people. "A lot of them would like to register as non-partisans," she said. "But when they learn that they have to join a party to vote in the primaries, they sign up with the parties. As soon as they learn about the issues that are on the ballot along with all the candidates, they become very interested."

In mock local and national elections, Sen. George McGovern outpolled all his rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination with 58 votes. Runner-up was Shirley Chisolm with 26 votes.

Throughout the day, candidates for the Legislature, county board of supervisors and Congress hopped up on one of five Hyde Park styled "soap boxes" placed throughout the hall. From one to fifty people gathered around the speakers

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

New Treaty Started

GENEVA (UPI) — Legal experts began work today on a new space treaty which would ban use of the moon for military purposes.

Such a treaty was proposed by the Soviet Union at the last meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

The 28-nation legal subcommittee of the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space, is drawing up the terms of the accord. The 11th session which began today lasts until May 5.

Most delegates were confident that agreement will be reached although they said the drafting of legal articles and later approval by the major committee and the General Assembly probably will take two to three years.

Donation Dryer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new law that requires public disclosure of political contributions to federal campaigns probably will "dry up" single donations of $50,000 or more, according to Herbert Alexander.

Alexander, author of the book "Money in Politics," helped write the regulations for implementing the Federal Election Campaign Act that took effect Friday. It limits the amount of money that can be spent by candidates for Congress, president and vice president and requires candidates to reveal the names and occupations of contributors.

Alexander said that if the law had been in effect last year, International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.'s offer to contribute between $100,000 and $600,000 to the Republican National Convention would have been disclosed.

Ex-Virginia Gov. Battle Dies

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — John S. Battle, 81, governor of Virginia from 1950 to 1954, died yesterday in a nursing home. He had been ill for two years and suffered a stroke last Friday.

Battle

Battle, who called his education program his greatest contribution to the Commonwealth, is to be buried in Monticello Memorial Park today.

Shortly after his inauguration in 1950, his program, called the "Battle Fund," was passed by the General Assembly, where he had been a member for 20 years.

Virginia built and improved classroom facilities for more than 135,000 students during Battle's term.

After leaving office, he practiced law for several years, and served in the late 1950s as a member of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

Hunters Grounded

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Airborne polar bear hunters have been grounded for good by the Alaska Fish and Game Board which banned hunting the big white bears from the air.

The new regulation passed Saturday bans using aircraft in any manner as an aid in taking polar bears or in transporting the animals' hides or parts.

"The public is sick and tired of what's been happening in the aerial hunting of polar bears and it's time the Fish and Game Board took action to remedy the situation," said Board Chairman Oscar Syson.

Gallo Mourned

NEW YORK (UPI) — The young widow of Mafia figure Joseph "Crazy Joe" Gallo sat in stunned silence alongside his polished metal casket Sunday as mourners paid their last respects and quickly left the funeral home.

Plainclothes officers outside kept a close watch on everyone who entered the Guido Funeral Home, not far from Gallo's South Brooklyn headquarters.

Gallo, gunned down early Friday while celebrating his 43rd birthday in a restaurant in the "Little Italy" section, was to be buried today in Greenwood Cemetery after a service at the funeral home.

Iraq-Soviet Pact

BEIRUT (UPI) — Iraq has allied itself with a major power for the first time since it pulled out of the Western Baghdad Pact 14 years ago and adopted a left-leaning neutrality. Its new ally is the Soviet Union.

Under the green dome of the grandiose Republican Palace in Baghdad, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Iraqi President Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr signed a document Sunday that linked their nations in a 15-year treaty of friendship and cooperation.

Kosygin ended his five-day official visit to Iraq today and returned to Moscow.

Insurance Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Commerce Committee meets this week to decide what to do — if anything — about reforming auto insurance.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., planned to press for adoption of their national no-fault insurance bill.

But even if their proposal overcomes stiff opposition by the administration, much of the insurance industry and a powerful segment of the legal profession, the bill stands little chance of becoming law this year.

Under the Hart-Magnuson bill, accident victims would be compensated for their injuries and their lost income by the insurance company covering the vehicle in which they were riding or which struck them.

Johnson Improved

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Dr. J. Willis Hurst said Sunday that Lyndon B. Johnson is showing "some signs of improvement" xut added that the former president's heart has suffered "permanent damage."

The heart specialist, however, said that it was safe for him to leave Johnson's bedside and return to his duties at Emory University in Atlanta.

Hurst treated Johnson, 63, after his first heart attack in 1955 and flew here Friday when the second occurred.

"Now is a safe time to go. Otherwise I would not go," Hurst said. He said Johnson's condition was "satisfactory with some signs of improvement."

Hurst stood by his prognosis of an 80 per cent chance of recovery for the former president.

James F. Byrnes Succumbs At 92

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI)— Flags flew at half staff at the White House and state buildings today in memory of James Francis Byrnes, one of the nation's most versatile and honored statesmen. He died at his home Sunday at 92.

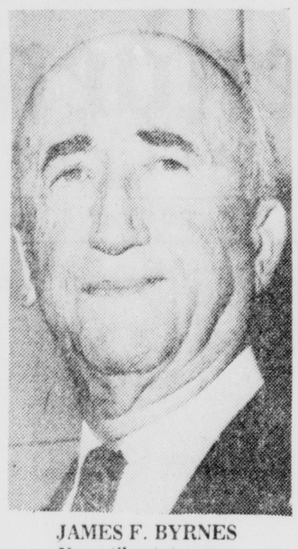
The body of the former Supreme Court justice, "assistant president," secretary of state and governor was to lie in state at the rotunda of the statehouse for 24 hours preceeding noon services Wednesday.

Byrnes, hospitalized three times in recent years, had been in declining health during the past few months. He died at 1:30 p.m. Sunday with his wife Maude and his private nurse at his side.

Byrnes served as "assistant president" under Franklin D. Roosevelt and was a key figure in mobilizing the nation for World War II and negotiating postwar treaties.

Byrnes had been named to the U. S. Supreme Court by Roosevelt in 1941 but a year later became head of the Office of Economic Stabilization at the President's request. In 1943 he shifted to head the war mobilization office and was dubbed "assistant president for the home front."

The short and dapper Byrnes was born May 2, 1879, a child of a recently-widowed mother at Charleston, S. C. He dropped out of school at 14 to help support his mother and launched his public career as a small-town prosecutor after teaching himself law.



JAMES F. BYRNES
Versatile statesman

He was elected to the House in 1910 and moved to the Senate in 1930, where his friendship with Roosevelt, then governor of New York, prospered.

Shortly after Roosevelt died, Byrnes became secretary of state under President Harry Truman, a post he held for 567 days filled with travel to 10 international conferences, numerous confrontations with the Russians and tough peace treaty negotiations.

Byrnes was secretary of state when the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan, and attended the Potsdam conference with Truman.

Sen. Hughes Admits He Has Smoked Marijuana

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, a member of the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, said Sunday that he had tried marijuana while in the Army during World War II and that "it had absolutely no effect on me"

"Marijuana is not new and it is used, as most Americans do not realize, by many business people, by many prominent people in America who suffer no ill effects from it," Hughes said.

"I think a part of the pain of what we are doing today is the fact that it is forcing us to review our total drug consumption, including alcohol, and that is very difficult for many of us to do."

Hughes, a former alcoholic, is chairman of the Senate Special subcommittee on alcoholism and narcotics. In its recent controversial report, the Marijuana Commission recommended a policy of discouragement by the government along with further liberalization of laws governing possession and use, but not sale of marijuana.

Hughes said that "for one simple reason" he endorsed that position.

"I don't want to unleash in our society another intoxicant that may or may not have the effects alcohol has had in our society," he said. "In fact, I'd like to see a policy of discouragement adopted in relation to alcohol because of the devastating effects that it has."

Scott Link To Scandal 'Rubbish'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott says any attempt to link him to a housing scandal here is "absolute rubbish."

The Philadelphia Sunday Inquirer, in a copyrighted story, said Scott helped Theodore Clearfield, a real estate broker and speculator convicted of fraud, to regain mortgage guarantees from the Federal Housing Authority (FHA) and the Veterans Administration (VA).

Clearfield's VA backing was suspended after his fraud conviction in 1962. His FHA license was not suspended until 1969, because the FHA was not notified of the VA suspension until that year, the Inquirer said.

The newspaper said Scott interceded in Clearfield's behalf following the FHA suspension, and both the VA and FHA licenses were reinstated later in 1969.

Scott said, "The attempt to implicate me in a housing scandal is absolute rubbish."

One of Scott's administrative assistants in Washington said Clearfield dealt directly with the VA.

The Inquirer said Scott wrote a letter in 1969 to Robert C. Coons, assistant director of the VA's loan guarantee division in Washington.

According to the Inquirer, Scott's letter referred to the "unfortunate circumstances" involved in Clearfield's 1962 conviction and stated, "I would appreciate your favorable consideration of having his name removed from the present restriction, if you feel this can properly be done."

Catholic Ultimatum Issued To Britain

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—The Roman Catholic civil rights movement today gave Britain 20 days to meet its demands or face "massive and nonviolent opposition."

A spokesman for the Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association told a news conference the association would consider defying a British ban and resuming the marches and demonstrations that have caused violence here.

Kevin McCorry, press officer for the association, said Britain must free interned Catholics, pull its troops off the streets where they are searching for Irish Republican Army (IRA) gunmen, and give Catholics the same civil rights Englishmen have in England.

"If at the end of this month there are no real moves toward the ending of internment, withdrawing troops to barracks and creating democracy in the north, then we will have no alternative but to lead the people again in massive and nonviolent opposition to continuing tyranny', he said.

McCorrq joined the city's Catholic bishops in condemning the violence of the IRA.

But he said Britain's abolition of the Protestant dominated Northern Ireland Parliament and imposition of direct British rule had failed to bring any real progress toward peace and justice.

In one violent incident Sunday, six youths and two young women dragged a five-months pregnant Catholic housewife from her Belfast home, beat her with sticks, coated her with red paint and feathers and strapped her to a lampost, police said.

Rappa's Views On Sausalito Police Flap

The comments of Leonard Rappa, candidate for Sausalito City Council, were accidently omitted from a report in Saturday's Independent-Journal presenting the views of candidates on the Sausalito Police Department.

Rappa had this to day:

"From my personal experience, I think the police are doing a good job, although I've heard complaints from many people that they are getting citations they feel they don't deserve. As an attorney I was not terribly upset by the (grand) jury report because I knew the department had no opportunity to present its side to the jury or cross-examine witnesses.

"But the charges made by former Officer Michaelsen of falsified reports are very serious and, if true, constitute conspiracy and criminal fraud."

(San Rafael policeman Richard C. Michaelsen, a former Sausalito officer, spoke out against department policies in a letter to the Sausalito City Council and has charged the department falsified reports.)

"An immediate investigation is needed and I think the council's investigating committee should include representatives from each of Sausalito's five geographical neighborhoods," Rappa said.

Chile stretches for 2,600 miles along South America's western coast.

McCOY

he had said "all he ever talked about was sin." McCoy, who told classmates at Brigham Young University that he "wanted to make his dent on the world by uncovering organized crime," was held without bail at Salt Lake County jail.

He was arraigned Sunday on charges of air piracy and interfering with an airline crew member. U.S. Magistrate A. M. Ferro declined to grant bail because of the seriousness of the crime, which carries a maximum penalty of death.

McCoy was accused of hijacking the United Air Lines 727 with 96 persons aboard over Colorado Friday and forcing it to land in San Francisco. The hijacker, who carried two guns, a grenade and plastic explosives, allowed 91 passengers to leave the plane after the airline paid $500,000 ransom. Then he allegedly forced the pilot to fly over Provo, about 40 miles south of here, where he bailed out with the suitcases full of money.

A casual conversation with a friend about skyjacking and the concern of his sister-in-law over his absence from home Friday evening turned suspicion on McCoy, the FBI reported.

The friend, Utah Highway Patrolman Robert Van Ieperen, said McCoy talked to him a few weeks ago about how a successful hijack could be pulled off.

The FBI, in a complaint filed with Ferro, said McCoy's handwriting was "identical" with the printing on a note retained by a stewardess during the hijacking and that a passenger on the plane had identikied the suspect's picture as that of the skyjacker.

McCoy appeared tired but unruffled during his appearance before the magistrate. His only comment to newsmen about the arraignment was: "It's embarrassing, let's face it."

McCoy was described by both friends and neighbors as an unassuming man living with his wife, Karen, a Welfare Department employe; and their daughter, Chante, 5, and son, Richard, 2, in a small brown brick house a few blocks from the BYU campus.

His major at BYU was law enforcement and his goal was to become a lawman who would "make his dent on the world by uncovering organized crime." A classmate called him an "organized crime freak" who wanted to break up the Mafia.

His hobbies were flying and parachuting. An instructor at a skydiving center where McCoy had made 30 to 40 jumps described him as an "inexperienced" diver who had never made a night jump.

Controversial Developments Will Be Aired

The Corte Madera Planning Commission, meeting today at 7:30 p.m., will discuss two controversial developments, both now located on unincorporated land which will be annexed to the city.

Because of their location, neither the Madera del Presidio development on Highway 101 nor John Ribiero's Tamal Vista Boulevard project come under the jurisdiction of the city planning staff. Both will have "courtesy public hearings."

The Madera del Presidio project has sparked threats of a Corte Madera referendum, and the Tamal Vista Boulevard project has raised the ire of adjoining property owners.

VOTERS

— four or five at a time — for short talks and the question-and-answer periods which usually followed.

Unlike the orators in London's Hyde Park, however, the Pepperland candidates were neither heckled nor cheered.

The small clusters of teenagers remained polite and attentive but essentially unmoved.

Allan D. French, a congressional candidate from the 6th District, reacted to the format like most other candidates.

"I love these soap boxes," he said enthusiastically. "You can get down and really talk intimately with a small group of people. Sure, some of them don't understand the more technical aspects of what I've said, but they can make a judgement about whether or not I'm honest or trustworthy."

Thomas T. Storer, an independent candidate for the same seat, was the only speaker to express displeasure with the soap box format.

"My job as a candidate is to get my ideas across to as many people as I can," he said. "I didn't like the soap boxes because there were 400 people in the hall when I stood up I only reached 15 of them."

James Dougan, supervisorial candidate in the 4th district, looked a bit uncomfortable atop his red milk carton. After his audience of a dozen listeners broke up, he revealed, "This kind of thing is completely new to me. But it has its place. An event like this exposes youth to divergent points of view. I'm for it."

The young people listened to the political appeals and cheerfully accepted the literature they were handed, but were obviously more interested in the music. Clover, Alice Stuart and Sanke, Frank Biner Band, and Wiffen Puff were the day's attractions. Along with folksingers Betsy Chapman and Rita Abrams, and The Wing improvisational theatre, they kept the crowds entertained all afternoon.

The event was sponsored by the New Voter Education Coordinating Council of Marin, an umbrella organization that comprises about a dozen local civic groups. The council began planning Saturday's activities in December.

Pepperland was rented for $300 and other expenses were less than $400. All of the entertainment was provided voluntarily.

Amidst the booths, and milling people, and homemade crafts and literature-strewn floors, it could be heard: "This is really fun, we should do it more often."

District Board Meeting Tonight

The Dixie School District board, meeting at 8 p.m. today, will hear a report on reducing the teaching staff.

The district has 14 more teachers than positions for next year, and a lottery has been scheduled for April 19 to determine seniority of those teachers who started work on the same day.

Board members will also receive the initial wage proposal from the Dixie Teachers Association, calling for a salary schedule increase of 3.6 per cent, at an estimated cost of $77,000 to the district.

The board will consider spending $2,300 for timber form playground equipment at the Dixie School, $900 for softball backstops at both Dixie and Oak View schools and $800 for an extension of encing at the Santa Margarita School.

'World Affairs' Session Tonight

The College of Marin will open a six-part series on "World Affairs" tonight with a lecture by political science professor Dorothy Ritchie on "President Nixon's Peace Proposal."

All lectures will begin at 8 p.m. at the Tamalpais Retirement Center, Greenbrae. There will be an admission charge.

Upcoming topics include the President's economic policies, primary and presidential elections, the Middle East crisis and American foreign policy.

Ross Trustee To Take Budget Look

Ross School District board, meeting today at 7:45 p.m. in the school library will discuss a $635,000 budget proposed for next school year by Supt. Thomas A. Anderson.

It will also meet in closed session to instruct Anderson on teacher requests for a 5.5 per cent salary increase and other benefits totaling between $29,000 and $54,000.

manded for a flight toward Miami.

"He doesn't appear to be the smartest hijacker I've heard of," one official said.

The FBI identified him as Stanley Harlan Speck, 31, of San Francisco. Police there said a man by that name was on two years probation for a disorderly conduct conviction in January.

The hijacker commandeered the jet shortly before its landing here as flight 942 from Oakland, and demanded four parachutes and $500,000.

The suspect, wearing Navy-type blue fatigues and with blond hair reaching to his shoulders, was apprehended as he walked down the ramp a few minutes after the 85 passengers aboard were released.

Authorities said the hijacker claimed to be armed with a pistol and a hand grenade and initially communicated to the crew only through notes, as a hijacker had done aboard a United Airlines jet commandeered Friday. In both instances $500,000 and parachutes were demanded.

PSA officials said a stewardess and at least one passenger saw the hijacker enter a restroom in the rear of the plane about 15 minutes before its scheduled landing. When he emerged, he handed the stewardess a note announcing the hijack and stating his demands for the parachutes and ransom.

The stewardess carried the note to Capt. Arthur Steck of San Diego, who radioed the hijacker's demands ahead.

Airline officials, working with the FBI, replied that they did not have that much cash on hand and it would be difficult to assemble on a Sunday.

Learning this, the hijacker released the flight's 85 passengers and demanded the maps and weather information for a flight toward Miami, saying he personally would pick up the material at the bottom of the ramp.

Ground crewmen were preparing to refuel the aircraft when the suspect descended the ramp and was apprehended by agents mingling among the workmen.

PSA president J. Floyd Andrews, security director Steve Gardella and five FBI agents wearing airlines jackets were hiding behind the ramp and wrestled the suspect to the ground.

"He apparently didn't see me," Gardella said. "I went for his legs."

San Francisco police records showed that Speck was arrested Jan. 26 on a charge of disturbing the peace at San Francisco General Hospital.

told UPI correspondent Kim Willenson in Da Nang that victories by South Vietnamese forces Sunday meant the Communist offensive in the Quang Tri area had been "stopped." Lam, military commander of the northern sector, said they will try again but now "they are defeated. We have stopped their invasion of Quang Tri."

Despite his optimistic statement front dispatches said North Vietnamese sent 500 regulars backed by tanks to within 150 yards of a strategic bridge on Highway 1 at Dong Ha, barely a mile north of Quang Tri, before being driven off by South Vietnamese Rangers.

And military sources in Saigon said they were not qualified to report that the Quang Tri offensive had been stopped.

The Communist offensive killed five Americans and wounded 25 in weekend fighting.

Fourth Inmate Stabbing Of Year Reported

The fourth inmate stabbing of the year occurred early this morning at San Quentin, according to prison Information Officer Joseph O'Brien.

Louis Valenzuela, 26, from Los Angeles County, was stabbed in the back at 6 a.m. while going to breakfast through the rotunda of the east block, O'Brien said. Valenzuela walked to the prison hospital, where he was reported in satisfactory condition with a six-inch wound.

O'Brien said a prison-made weapon had been used, and recovered in the rotunda, but no suspect was in custody.

Valenzuela was serving a one-year to life sentence for lewd and lascivious conduct, O'Brien said, and was due for parole consideration next week. Valenzuela had been at San Quentin since May 21, 1968.

been spent over the last two year in unsuccessful attempts to develop the property.

In the claim, five attempts to develop the land are outlined, all ending in failure, dating from April 1970 to the present.

The claim also says the "real purpose" of the moritorium "was and still is to stop any development on Wolfback Ridge and to deny claimants their full use and enjoyment of said property without just compensation."

The five also say Sausalito Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt knew during the two-year period that the Lynch couple were "subject to foreclosure proceedings on their interest" in the property and "by affidavit assisted creditors against" them in U.S. District Court.

The five claim the adoption of the ordinance was "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable."

In an accompanying press release, the five say "While claimants recognize that Sausalito may have a legitimate interest in preserving open space in its ridge land, the answer does not lie in unreasonable and illegal ordinances directed against the claimants, who must now allow their land to remain unusable for an indefinite period.

"If Sausalito wishes to dedicate the land for open space then it should be prepared to pay for the cost of such action. That is the crux of the complaint herein."

The freeze on development of the land was voted by council, unanimously to give city staff time to make a complete inventory of remaining undeveloped land in Sausalito and prepare an acquisition plan for some of the open space.

Council indicated developments which do not conflict with city plans to acquire open space may be sanctioned through the variance process.

The city in the past has voted to pay for open land.

Angela Davis Trial Delayed

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Court was delayed in the Angela Davis trial today by a conference between attorneys and Judge Richard E. Arnason.

Arnason said the trial session might be delayed "for some time." He gave no reason.

Prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. was scheduled to call more witnesses to the 1970 Marin County Courthouse shootings. Harris has questioned 18 witnesses so far and said proceedings were going considerably faster than anticipated. pickup faster than anticipated.

Raymond Vogel Drowns In Bay Boating Mishap

Raymond N. Vogel, member of the Kentfield Fire Protection District board and local businessman, drowned Saturday in a boating accident in the Golden Gate. Three companions were saved.

Those rescued by a private boat after their 16-foot boat capsized were, Vogel's son, Thomas, 13, of the family home at 11 Ash Avenue; his brother-in-law and owner of the boat, Albert Gadoury, 51, of 27 Bayview Terrace, Mill Valley; and a friend, Russell Fabian, of 830 B Street, San Rafael.

The fishing party left Sausalito to Yacht Harbor about 7:30 a.m., Gadoury said. It was about 11 a.m. when the boat was hit by a big wave and capsized off Fort Point, he said.

Vogel started swimming toward some nearby rocks, his son, Thomas, reported. He had almost reached the rocks when a big wave hit him and he was not seen again, Thomas said.

The three survivors were clinging to the overturned boat when they were picked up by an unidentified private boat and taken to Fort Point.

The Coast Guard found Vogle's body about 11:30 a.m. It was taken to the San Francisco coroner's office and then to Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Vogel, 41, was born in Willimantic, Conn. He and his family moved to California in 1957. He moved to Kenftield the following year and was assistant fire chief of the Kentfield Fire Department until he resigned in 1970 after being reduced from assistant fire chief to lieutenant. He started his own building maintenance business at that time.

On Feb. 10, Vogel was appointed to fill a vacant seat on the Kentfield Fire District board.

He is survived by his wife, Elsie; three sons, Grant of Fairfax, and Daniel and Thomas at home, and his mother, Veronica Nardi of Connecticut.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

ELECTION

dates for three city council seats.

ROSS — Five candidates for three council seats.

SAN ANSELMO — Eight candidates for two council seats; two for treasurer.

SAUSALITO — Eleven candidates for three council seats. Only one candidate has filed for city treasurer, but voters also must decide whether the traditionally elective office should be made appointive. Another measure on the city's ballot asks whether the voters want a proposed ordinance that would require a citizens' advisory election before carrying out any portion of the park plaza plan prepared by consultants in 1970. The future elections would decide the improvements that would be financed, and other issues.

TIBURON — Three candidates for two council seats.

COTATI — Seven candidates for three council seats.

ROHNERT PARK — Ten candidates for three council seats, and a $195,000 bond issue intended to improve city parks.

County Service Area 13 of Lucas Valley will ask its voters to decide whether the district should sell bonds up to $315,000 to purchase 285 acres, owned by Thomas A. Nunes, for preservation as open space.

Planned Area On Agenda

The Fairfax City Council tonight will consider adoption of an ordinance prezoning the proposed Canon Village and Tennis Club from first residential to planned development district.

The 85-acre parcel is part of the 175 acres included in the northwest annexation. Master plan for the proposed 128-unit development was approved Feb. 14.

The council will also receive nominations for "outstanding senior citizen of the year."

Guns Found In Burning House

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Police confiscated two rifles they found while investigating a fire in the home of a woman whose son-in-law had been executed mysteriously on the driveway of the house.

The search started Sunday when a blaze erupted on the roof of Mrs. Joan Hammer's house while she and 40 persons were inside.

Suspecting arson, patrolmen surrounded the area, but firemen said the flames resulted from a burning paper which flew from a fireplace and landed on the wooden roof. There was only minor damage.

Mrs. Hammer's daughter, Elizabeth, was the wife of slain James Carr, friend and admirer of black revolutionary George Jackson. Carr was shot and killed last week and so far there has been no arrest.

Tam Election Requirement To Be Waived

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The final step in freeing Tamalpais High School District from the necessity of holding a unification election in June will be taken Thursday by the state Board of Education here.

The board last November passed a resolution of intent to exempt the Tam district from the mandatory election, but the exemption could not be issued until the effective date of an enabling act which passed last year's Legislature. That date was March 4.

Granting of the exemption is scheduled as the third of a series of items at the 10 a.m. session of the state board Thursday in the State Resources Building auditorium.

Later on Thursday, Wilson C. Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, will recommend approval of an additional $862 in federal urban-rural grant for Sausalito School District.

School Panel Will Look Over Budget

The Marin County Schools Personnel Commission, meeting at 8 o'clock today, may adopt a smaller budget than the county schools administration believes it needs.

According to Personnel Director Thomas B. Lowry, the three-member commission may adopt a $20,000 budget, cut from $21,000 at its March 13 meeting.

Lowry said 80 per cent of the budget is earmarked for salary and fringe benefits for him and his secretary, the rest for operating programs. He said this year the commission has consistently operated below budget levels, and next year's budget has been cut.

Asst. County Supt. Robert E. Spain said the commission, which has been in operation less than a year, would be billed for pro-rated services such as printing costs, copying and telephone services, sometime in June, and might need the money.

To Study Welfare, Assemblyman Says

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman John Burton, DSan Francisco, says an investigation will be launched into an auditor general's report that the state Social Welfare Department hired 32 attorneys last year without authorization. Hobbs, deputy director of operations for the department has denied that there was any unauthorized hiring.

Burton said Sunday an Assembly Ways and Means subcommittee which he heads will begin a probe of the department's budget "within the next few days."

Hearing Set In Arson Case

Preliminary hearing for Jon Christian Ballard, 35, of Fairfax, on a charge of arson has been set for Friday.

Ballard, who has pleaded innocent, was arrested Jan. 13. He allegedly tossed a Molotov cocktail at the home of another Fairfax man with whom he had a heated argument minutes before.

The charge was dismissed Feb. 18 after a witness refused to testify, but later refiled.

Martinelli Ranch Development Opposed

The Inverness Improvement Association board has passed a resolution opposing any development of the Martinelli Ranch near Point Reyes Station as "incompatible with surrounding rural areas," according to president Howard Waite.

He also said the group believes development should be confined within Point Reyes Station until the town's open space is filled.

Plans were announced in January to develop a 260-acre portion of the Martinelli Ranch into 54 small "ranches" of about three acres each.

The county board of supervisors last month voted to rezone 60,000 acres of West Marin ranchland, requiring minimum lots of 60 acres per homesite. Hazel Martinelli, wife of the farm's owner, Elmer, said today she understood the rezoning would not affect development of the 260 acres.

Warrant Out In Drug Case

A bench warrant has been ordered issued for Donald Gilliam, 27, of San Rafael, who failed to appear in Marin Superior Court yesterday for sentencing on a heroin sales conviction.

Judge Thomas F. Keating ordered the warrant on Gilliam, who was convicted by a jury in Keating's court last month.

Gilliam was arrested for two sales allegedly made 13 months ago, but acquitted of one sale.

Gilliam was reportedly unable to be in court because he is hospitalized.

Radical Attorneys Still Skeptical Of 'System' After Soledad Trial

By RICHARD M. HARNETT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The acquittal of the "Soledad Brothers" by an all-white jury has not caused any great apparent revival of faith in the "system" by radical attorneys and those they represent.

The "Soledad Brothers," two black convicts accused of killing a guard, were found innocent of all charges March 27. The case had been bitterly denounced by black militants and leftists from its outset as a straight political railroading.

"Most of you have doubted the system," Judge S. Lee Vavuris told the spectators in his heavily guarded courtroom as they cheered the verdict. "But now you know that it really works, and if anyone can come up with a better system, I'd like to see it."

Attorneys who represent radical defendants don't necessarily agree.

Attorney Charles Garry, defense counsel for the Black Panthers, said in an interview that Angela Davis will be acquitted also, because the case against her is "even weaker" than that against the Soledad Brothers.

"But for every Angela Davis, for every Soledad case, or Huey Newton, you have got thousands and thousands of people in prison who don't belong there," Gary said.

Garry said the Soledad case was "another example of a flimsy case with no evidence at all" with which the state was "tantalizing the community for 2 1-2 years."

The Soledad Brothers were cleared of killing a prison guard only because "the jurors had courage enough to withstand the political, emotional, psychological pressure" brought by the prosecution, he said.

Even though acquitted, the defendants John Clutchette and Fleeta Drumgo "are still in prison, are still in jail," Garry noted, saying he expects the state to delay as long as possible the release of Clutchette, who was eligible for parole two years ago.

Garry believes the "political" cases are created by state officials, working with the FBI "to keep the pot boiling."

"If I had my way, we would make a lot of radical changes in this country, from A to Z. We would eliminate prisons altogether and have hospitals for treatment of persons with emotional troubles ... Until you do that, you are going to have more killings, more prison breaks, more violence."

Floyd Silliman, the young Salinas attorney who defended Clutchette, said the Soledad trial "illustrates the wisdom of trial by the people and not by the government."

Silliman, 30, lost the rest of his law practice in Salinas because of his part in the trial, and suffered heavy financial losses because he was not a court-appointed counsel and still could not withdraw.

But he said he was committed to the case and had no regrets.

From such verdicts as those, in Soledad, and the cases of Huey Newton, Bobby Seale and the Panther 21, in which the prosecution failed to get convictions, Silliman said district attorneys should take a lesson. "It seems to me the point is that its time prosecutors started lining up and doing what is expected of them—to weed out cases that never should be brought to trial instead of actually, as in this case, purchasing testimony for prosecution."

The Soledad verdict was "not a vindication of the entire judicial system," Silliman said. "It just meant that there are 12 good people in San Francisco."

Check Case To Superior Court

A San Francisco man accused of buying a Porsche at a Mill Valley auto agency with a bad check has been bound over to Marin Superior Court.

Robert M. Newman, 56, has pleaded innocent to charges of grand theft and possessing a bad check, but must appear in superior court April 19 for arraignment.

Police said Newman bought a 1971 sports car from Mill Valley imports March 4 with a $4,029 check. His bank in Chicago said he had written more than $90,000 worth of checks on an account of only $800.

Red Hill Principal Is Named

Ivan D. Chappell, San Anselmo School district superintendent, has been appointed by the district board as interim principal for Red Hill School.

Chappell will serve the remainder of the school year, he said. The school has been without a full time principal since the death of Donald Shaw.

The board at its meeting Thursday night also reviewed a $2,001,639 preliminary budget presented by Chappell, but delayed action until April 27.

Chappell said that anticipated income for 1972-73 is $1,909,806, creating a projected $91,000 shortage. The new budget would contain no new proposals such as more staff or increased expenditures, Chappell said.

The preliminary budget is based on no new money being received from the state, Chappell said. However, he added, "it is possible the state will come through with some new money to help out."

Realtors Want Commission

Art store owner Jerome Flax gave the Town of Ross a valuable Benny Bufano statue when he sold his home there Jan. 4, but a real estate firm claims it wasn't treated quite so generously.

Tradition forbids women of the Big Namba tribe on Malekula Island in the New Hebrides from being seen by their husband's brothers, says National Geographic.

Coldwell, Banker and Co. filed suit in Marin Superior Court Thursday claiming Flax had not paid its $16,500 commission.

The giant real estate company claims that it found a buyer for Flax's $275,000 mansion at 101 Lagunitas Road and asks the court to order the commission paid with interest.

Students To Travel Among The Indians

Ten Marin County high school students and two student teachers that will take them a month-long pilgrimage more than 3,700 miles to learn first-hand about Indians living and dead.

The students attend the On Location school at Redwood High School. Co-ed Tinka Gordon said before departure the group will receive class credits for its journey, which will combine sociological studies of present-day Indian life with visiting the ruins of the Southwestern tribes' long past.

Undaunted by last-minute failure to find a sponsor to lend them vehicles for their adventure, the teen-agers talked parents into lending family autos.

"We had hoped to travel in a bus or one or two vans, but we'll crowd four into a car" with all their camping gear, co-ed Tally Wren explained.

The students met en masse with parents Tuesday evening to go over the details of the trip they've been planning since January. The teen-agers said the adults appeared satisfied — and some even wished schools had offered them similar opportunity in their day. One of the student teachers has considerable experience in desert travel.

"We'll camp free in national parks all the way," added student Paul Haas.

Based on their extensive reading, the On Location students decided they want to visit a Navajo reservation in Arizona, stop at Gallup, N.M., known as "Indian Capital of the world," then on to the concentrations of Pueblo tribes and museums in Alburquerque and Santa Fe before swinging east to the historic Oklahoma Indian area.

"If we get interested in one aspect of the trip, that's what we'll study," noted Tom Guerin. They plan to stay with a friend in Tulsa, Okla., about April 24, then return via Kansas, Colorado and Utah to meet another, smaller On Location group headed by Duncan McSwain that plans to visit California's North Coast area late in April and early in May.

The teen-agers will make twice-a-week telephone calls to Tally Wren's parents, the Bennett Wrens of Tiburon. Wren is a Fairfax School District official. They also plan to send the Independent-Journal a series of reports during their trek.

Students making the trip are Miss Wren, Megan Walker, Guerin, Deb Cushman, Haas, Jay Lehman, Patti Chalender, Beth Brown, Miss Gordon and Stan Rainey.

AIR FORCE BIRTHDAY SHOW JAMMED

On the ground and in the air Air Force men put on a show yesterday that attracted what is believed to be a record crowd to Hamilton Air Force Base. The occasion was an open house observing the 25th anniversary of the Air Force. Cars jammed Highway 101 in the vicinity and base officials estimated the turnout at 60,000. During the day people viewed activities such as (right) members of the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron, demonstrating rescue techniques on a 31-foot plywood tower, or inspected equipment as the crowd (left) gathered to enter the massive tail of a C-141 Starlifter, huge cargo plane, of the 63rd Military Airlift Wing and explore its cavern-like interior.

Townhouses Are Firmly Opposed

I. Thomas Zaragoza, candidate for the Corte Madera Town Council in tomorow's election, has taken a firm stand against the massive Meadowsweet Station townhouse development.

The Independent-Journal erred in Saturday's report in Marin Magazine on Corte Madera candidates when it said Zaragoza had opposed high-density development in general terms, but had taken no stand on the Meadowsweet proposal.

Zaragoza has not only objected to high desnity in general and the Meadowsweet project as presently planned, but has made of these a cornerstone of his campaign fight.

Candidate Takes Exception To Letter To I-J

William G. Fleckles, Larkspur city councilman who is a candidate for re-election tomorrow, took exception today to a statement in a letter to the editor in Friday's Independent-Journal.

The letter, by Beth Reilly of Larkspur, said that at a candidates' night Fleckles took credit for good deeds done by the city council some of which "passed practically over his dead body."

Fleckles said the list he read at the candidates' night was drawn from official minutes of city council meetings since he joined the council in May, 1968. He had not opposed any of the measures for which he claimed credit, he said.

Youth Surrenders In Assault Case

A Larkspur youth said to have escaped from military police after they found him and a group of persons in a bunker at Fort Baker surrendered to Corte Madera police a few hours later, a military spokesman reported today.

Steven J. Delaney, 19, of 30 Tamalpais Avenue, was to appear before a U.S. magistrate in San Francisco today to answer to charges of assault, disturbing the peace and resisting arrest. Two other persons, Catherine Delaney of the same Larkspur address and Robert J. Downing of Daly City, were arrested Saturday at the same time by the military police, the spokesman said.

A group of persons was in the bunker about 12:30 a.m. Saturday when military police went by on patrol. An undetermined number fled, but officers captured the three. Delany refused to give his identification to officers, the spokesman said, and started fighting. When officers were taking him off military property after subduing him, he escaped, but at 4 a.m. surrendered to Corte Madera police and was turned over to the Army.

The spokesman said he did not know what the group was doing in the bunker. The other two arrested were also to appear before the magistrate on charges of disturbing the peace.

Brazil declared its independence from Portugal Nov. 15, 1889.

ROCK AND REGISTER ORDER OF THE DAY

Man Bruised During Highway 101 Accident

David Loring Richards, 32, of Marin Motel, San Rafael, was to see his own doctor for bruises received in an accident at 11:40 p.m. Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported yesterday.

Richards, northbound on Highway 101 north of San Rafael, swerved into the fence at the side of the highway when he reached on the floor of his car to get a burning rag, patrolmen reported.

Road & Track selects the Jaguar XJ6 as one of the world's 10 best cars.

Here's what Road & Track says: "When we first drove the XJ6 we said it was 'uncannily silent, gloriously swift and safe as houses.' We still like that description. It is also wonderfully comfortable in a traditional British way and certainly one of the best-handling sedans in the world as well. It has a hunky, planted-on-the-road look no other production sedan has and despite being entirely different from its predecessors it looks purely Jaguar..." Here's what we say: You owe it to yourself to find out why the Jaguar XJ6 was selected as one of the world's 10 best cars. Come in and we'll be glad to arrange a test-drive.

FBI Probes Accounts In San Anselmo Bank

Revelation that the checking account of a Corte Madera man was exposed by his bank to scrutiny by the Federal Bureau of Investigation today brought announcement that starting July 1, all banks will be doing the same thing to clients.

Richard Stark, 29, an artist and patron of radical causes discovered recently that his checking account at the San Anselmo branch of the Wells Fargo Bank had been reviewed by FBI agents.

He opened the envelope with his monthly statement and found an inter-department memo wrapped around his checks. The memo, which bank officials said was included in the envelope by mistake read: "This memo is to authorize you to read checks to the FBI before sending the statement to the customer."

Lawrence Hoge, a spokesman for Wells Fargo Bank, explained, "Sometimes if a guy flashes a badge, they'll come right through here. No employee is going to run to those thick memos to see if they can talk with him."

The bank spokesman said that as of July 1, all bank transactions exceeding $10,000 will be recorded on microfilm and forwarded to the Internal Revenue Service, in compliance with recently issued Treasury Department regulations.

"I presume these records will be made available to the FBI," Hoge said.

The Treasury Department regulations were received at Wells Fargo Bank last week, according to Hoge, confirming a report published in the Independent-Journal on March 1 that checking account surveillance was underway.

Stark, who lives at 122 Willow Avenue, Corte Madera, is the beneficiary of a trust fund set up years ago by his mother. He has conferred witp his lawyer about a possible lawsuit against Wells Fargo bank for breach of contract and invasion of privacy.

When Stark first discovered the misplaced memo, he was glad to find out, said his roommate, Richard Schwartz: "He was overjoyed. A lot of people, who aren't aware that the FBI does things like this, can now be aware of it."

Stark has been furding radical organizations and causes since 1964. Most recently, he sponsored the White Panther Party in Marin County and gave his home as its headquarters.

As a result, it came as no great surprise to him to learn that he was being watched.

In reaction to the disclosure, Wells Fargo Bank has circulated a staff memo to all its branches reminding its employees not to release financial information to government agents until July 1 unless there is a court order.

The bank has also notified the FBI, according to Orion A. Hill, chief auditor, that it will not monitor accounts in the future without a subpoena or a valid written order.

Election Returns

Election returns will be broadcast on radio station KTIM-FM (100.9) starting at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow from Civic Center election headquarters, with station manager Hugh Turner conducting the broadcast.

Petaluma Boy Killed On Highway

A 7-year-old Petaluma boy was killed yesterday when struck by a car at 12:25 p.m. on Old Redwood Highway, south of Ely Road, Petaluma.

Robin Rich Jr., 757 Goodwin Avenue, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital.

The Sonoma County Coroner's Office said the boy was walking south on the west shoulder of the road with two girls. Witnesses said he broke free from the grasp of one of the girls and darted into the path of a car driven by John M. Best, 27, of Santa Rosa.

He was the son of Robin and Evelyn Rich Sr.

He was born in Messa, Ore. and moved to California with his family four years ago and to Petaluma six months ago.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Schumachers Colonial Chapel, Auburn.

Navigator's View Of China Visits

By FRANK FARRARA

Capt. Donald E. Nelson, an Air Force reservist with the 452nd Tactical Airlift Wing at Hamilton Air Force Base, probably has been America's most frequent visitor to the People's Republic of China in recent months.

As a navigator with Saturn Airways of Oakland, Nelson has flown four trips, carrying the portable television station used to transmit live coverage of President Nixon's visit.

"Three trips to Shanghai and on the last one we got to Peking," he said Saturday during a break in his reserve duty. By the last trip "it was a great deal as if we had gone back to say, Milwaukee, where we had developed some pretty good friends."

The Chinese he met were warm and friendly, but it was "hard for them to understand why we want to have heavy political influence 6,000 to 7,000 miles west of the United States, he said.

The U.S. has started to solve the China problem by opening communications and the second step, he said, is to accept "the reality we cannot dictate geopolitical structure in areas 7,000 miles away."

As for U.S. influence in Southeast Asia, Nelson wondered how the U.S. would react if the situation were reversed and China "tried to dictate in Cuba and the Dominican Republic . . . off our shores."

DONALD E. NELSON
Flies to China

Referring to past days when the U.S. had gunboats sailing Chinese rivers, Nelson commented: "We would look very poorly at Russian gunboats going up our rivers."

Nelson, who has navigated flights to many sectors of the world from the ice landing field at Spitzbergen, east of Greenland, to Central Africa, said: "We are more poorly educated in geography than any advanced nation."

China has 750 million people "and yet what do we know?" he said. "I don't think one half of one per cent of Americans know the way they (the Chinese) say their nation's name. They say 'chung-ko,'" Nelson said, but he wasn't sure of the spelling.

Nelson, a geography major who couldn't find a job teaching geography, said that "Geography to me is alive . . . people, their hopes and dreams, loves and dying."

In schools, geography is usually taught by someone "uneducated in that area or someone who has no enthusiasm and talks about how many barrels of oil or principal export products and the kids fall asleep."

On his trips to China, he said the Chinese were as friendly, if not more friendly after President Nixon's visit as they were before.

"There were a lot old enough to remember when commerce was open with the West," he said. He learned a few phrases in Chinese and when he used them, "the people would light up," he said.

Nelson praised presidential adviser Henry J. Kissinger as one of the best geopolitical advisers "we've ever had," and said this is the year for improving communications and relations with Russia and China.

He learned of his first flight to China a day before the takeoff he said. "They had another navigator set to go and they couldn't reach him," he said.

Saturn got the job of carrying the portable television station, owned by Howard Hughes, because its Super Hercules cargo aircraft, civilian modification of an Air Force plane, was the only type that could carry the station, he explained.

The station transmitted the pictures to the satellite, which sent them back to the United States.

Nelson flew to China last month to return the equipment to the U.S.

"We also took the television station to Persia for the 2,500th anniversary," he recalled.

As for the Super Hercules, he said, "It can get in anywhere and only needs a short runway. We've landed oil drilling equipment to an ice air strip in Spitzbergen and to places in Central Africa" where they don't have regular air strips.

On his trips to China, a Chinese navigator and radio operatorotook over on the stretch from Shanghai to Peking, "like a harbor pilot taking over," he explained.

Nelson, a bachelor from Alameda, declined to give his age saying: "It's one of my idiosyncracies."

Bluegrass For Soledad Inmates

SOLEDAD, Calif. (UPI) — A bluegrass band from Las Vegas, N.M., entertained about 500 inmates at Soledad State Prison Saturday, the first outside entertainment in more than a year at the racially troubled institution.

Members of "Sweetgrass" played their mountain-type music featuring banjos for about an hour before the cheering inmates.

"You might say the band had a captive audience," said Robert Anderson, prison recreation supervisor.

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

12 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, APRIL 10, 1972 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Why Your One Vote Is Really Important

The story that led page one of the Independent Journal on April 16, 1952 — 20 years ago next Sunday — started out this way:

"Reorganization of eight city councils in Marin last night was highlighted by the one-vote election of John J. Wiley to the Belvedere City Council . . .

"A full house watched the Belvedere City Counci tabulate 11 absentee ballots which gave Wiley a total of 173 votes to William Bailey's 172, although Wiley had trailed by three votes in the original count."

THAT STORY SHOWS why one vote — your vote — is so important in the municipal elections to be held tomorrow in 10 of Marin's cities, as well as in Cotati and Rohnert Park in southern Sonoma County.

The Belvedere election of 20 years ago was not unique in having a one-vote winner. It has happened within the last decade in Fairfax. And there are other instances here in Marin.

Anyone who says, "Why should I bother to vote? My one vote doesn't count for anything," is dead wrong. It is all those "one votes" that elect a governor of California or a president of the United States. But nowhere else does each vote loom so large as in the local elections.

Conversely, nowhere else does the failure to vote play such an important — and unfortunate — role.

There is far less glamor to the city council campaign than to those for governor or president — even when there are 11 council candidates, as in Novato, or 10 (actually 11 on the ballot but Peter Bowen has withdrawn) as in Sausalito. And because there is not the glamor, not the constant television exposure, not the polling and the endless speculation that attend state and national campaigns, too many citizens forget to vote in their municipal elections. This rots representative government at its grass roots.

THERE ARE CONTESTS in every one of the cities holding elections tomorrow. Belvedere and Corte Madera each has five candidates for three council positions; Fairfax, eight (plus a ninth, Edward T. Duncan, who has withdrawn but still appears on the ballot) for two council posts, and three aspirants for city treasurer; Larkspur, seven for three posts; Mill Valley, six for three; Novato, 11 for three; Ross, five for three; San Anselmo, eight for three council positions and two vying for treasurer; Sausalito, 10 for three; Tiburon, three for two; Cotati, six for three; Rohnert Park, 10 for three.

It matters which of these candidates get elected. The actions they take when in office will affect every resident of their cities. So every resident should have a voice in who gets the offices.

That voice is the ballot. Use it.

Bird Tapes And Records

A friend recently asked us if we knew where he could buy a record of common Marin County birds so he could learn to identify their songs. We didn't know. But we think we do now.

The Laboratory of Ornithology at Cornell University, 159 Sapsucker Woods Road, Ithaca, N.Y. 14850, has been collecting bird songs and other sounds of nature for over a generation. They put out records and tape cassettes of various kinds and will send a free catalogue on request. We just bought our first cassette — songs of North American Thrushes with commentary by Roger Tory Peterson — and are delighted with it.

REPUBLICAN INFIGHTING

Aspirant For Bagley's Job Counts His Allies Too Soon

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

This is going to come as an awful shock to the conservative friends of Robert D. Weinmann, but he put his foot in his mouth when some persons got the hint from him that he had the support of Paul R. Haerle.

He not only does not have Haerle's support, but Haerle is supporting Weinmann's arch foe in the Republican primary election in the Seventh Assembly District, incumbent William T. Bagley.

THE CERTAIN SHOCK to Weinmann's friends will come from their clear memory of close political agreement between their candidate and Haerle. Certainly no one forgets the bitter enmity with which Bagley and Haerle regarded one another for years.

Their mutual hostility peaked when Haerle was Gov. Ronald Reagan's appointments secretary. Until at least last year, it was almost axiomatic that if you were a member of the governor's loyal staff, you were no friend of the maverick assemblyman from Marin.

That this all has changed sharply is clear in a hot letter Haerle has written Weinmann advising him that Haerle has abandoned his previous neutrality in the local contest.

Haerle, now secretary of the Republican State Central Committee, conceded that he and Bagley "have disagreed in years past, but those disagreements are well over the dam and my experience in Sacramento and since has convinced me that he is an extraordinarily energetic legislator who well represents Marin. Specifically, but by no means exclusively, he has been of considerable assistance to the governor in his efforts to achieve meaningful tax reform in California."

HAERLE, A STRAWBERRY resident, ate Weinmann alive for "totally improper" suggestions that he had Haerle's "unofficial" support.

"I have reconsidered my initial position of neutrality," Haerle wrote, declaring, "I am now advising you just as explicitly as I can that I am supporting Assemblyman Bill Bagley for reelection."

His letter to Weinmann concluded curtly: "I trust that you ngw are in no dbout as to my sentiments in this matter."

Weinmann assured us that Haerle's letter was "a misunderstanding," but the letter left no doubt who had misunderstood.

TOUGH PROBLEMS have to be solved before bus commuters get an exclusive freeway lane in the evenings over the Waldo Grade. Originally promised for May 1, it probably won't get started until August.

Repaving and widening of the four-mile stretch of freeway just started last week, and will take months to complete. Only then can holes be drilled along the entire length of one lane for pylons to separate northbound buses from southbound traffic.

Also, a toll gate in the middle of the toll plaza will have to be rebuilt so the big buses can get into the left lane safely.

Another problem may come in the banking of the reverse lane, which is inclined the wrong way. Hold on, but don't hold your breath.

Many Do Not Act Like Citizens At All

Patriotism is a product that you cannot sell to those who ignore it, and the Constitution does not provide for first and second class citizens, so there is no argument with that point, but there are far too many Americans of today that certainly do not act like second or even third class citizens, when it comes to loyalty to their country, and those are the ones who are too narrow minded to care about patriotism or anything else except their own welfare, and they consider patriotism a lot of hogwash.

We all must remember that patriotism is everybody's business and our country will come back to an even keel, when the basic truth is realized and we have more love for our country and flag, and we become a troubled nation only when too many Americans believe that no obligations and no one can "cop out" and be a true American.

Too many have worked hard attempting to destroy our beautiful country, while others have fled the country to keep from fulfilling their duties as Americans, and they are the ones that cannot face the challenge or crisis in their lvies, so the question arises as to whether or not our present generation will be able to preserve and cultivate the God given heritage they have received.

Short cuts do not exist and those who are waiting for a marvelous new nation to develop to their liking, it will not work.

Today's generation do not realize all the trials and tribulations, the hard work and the sweat of their brow, the hardships endured by our forefathers and mothers, who fought for their lives to exist, to build this nation to be one of the strongest and richest nations yet, and this nation has never been a "yes men," and the Americans are a nation of reasonable people who remain free and do freely, and that is what makes us tick.

Remember that we can celebrate the current turn of events secure in the knowledge that common sense will prevail and that true Americans have been and will continue to be the ones who ensure that this nation will long endure.

Sheriff's Department Spurns Volunteer Help

Three years ago when we first moved to Marin County, my husband volunteered his services to the Marin County Sheriff's Reserve. Having served over 15 years as a volunteer deputy sheriff in San Mateo County, rising to rank of sergeant, having lectured on riot control, and other law enforcement subjects, he felt he had a contribution to make in his spare time to law enforcement in Marin County.

Several phone calls to the sheriff's department office over a period of time resulted in absolutely no response. Knowing his disappointment, and curious to see what response I would get, I recently called the sheriff's department office myself. The reply of the deputy on duty at the time was, "They're full up." When I protested that they couldn't be too active if they weren't interested in a volunteer with my husband's experience, he said, "They're as active as they want to be."

With the great increase in the incidence of crime —in Marin County as elsewhere — it seems incredible to me that one would get this kind of response from what is supposed to be the Reserve arm of the County's major law enforcement body. What makes for such appalling apathy??

Maybe one of your readers knows the answer to that question.

Tenure For Teachers: It Will Be Changed: Question Is 'How?'

(Reprinted from Wall Street Journal)

Until recently it was considered inappropriate to question the wisdom of tenure for teachers. Within the profession, tenure —guaranteeing that teachers cannot be fired except for cause, and only after lengthy hearing procedures — was widely regarded as a bulwark of academic freedom. And even non-educators agreed that teachers at the university level who held unfashionable views, but otherwise were qualified and capable, needed protection from arbitrary dismissal.

But both attitudes have been slowly changing. And although 42 states still have tenure laws for teachers in their public colleges, high schools and elementary schools, several legislatures have been discussing whether to abolish or modify those laws.

THE PRO-TENURE position continues to lean heavily on the academic freedom argument. By and large, proponents insist that tenure is necessary to prevent ideological purges and bloodletting on campuses, that it is a cherished and essential protection for the teaching profession.

That argument has prevailed for most of this century, affirmed by local education associations no less than by the American Association of University Professors. And, on the university level at least, the argument for free inquiry is respectable and compelling.

That argument is far less compelling for teachers of primary and secondary schools, where research and intellectual innovation are scarcely central to the educational process. A candid member of Maryland's board of education put the argument in practical terms when he said that the tenure law's practical effect has been to prevent school boards from weeding out incompetent teachers during the past 25 years, when there had been a teacher shortage, but now that there is a surplus the state has the opportunity to clean house.

AT EVERY LEVEL from the university downward, for that matter, it has been possible for teachers after a brief probationary period to settle into lifetime careers of an intellectual vacuum, at the expense of their students and the taxpayers. . .

Beyond that, the threat that tenure has historically countered, the inflamed legislature or intolerant trustee, is no longer the chief menace to freedom of inquiry on campuses today. The threat comes istead from the university community itself, in the form of obloquy visited on professors who take such unpopular positions as supporting the Vietnam war, Richard Nixon or American society in general, and of the hooliganism to which the resulting atmosphere has so often contributed.

PERHAPS ON OCCASION tenure is some protection against this threat, but in fact it seldom seems to work that way. It did not prevent MIT from refusing to allow Walt W. Rostow to return to its faculty because he had sinned by advising the Johnson administration for too long a period. Nor was tenure much help to the number of professors who have been hounded from their campuses by verbal and even physical abuse from student radicals.

If the faltering steps universities have taken to end such abuses are the true measure of their regard for academic freedom, it's hard to see how they can rely on academic freedom arguments to protect their privileges. In any case, tenure seems increasingly irrelevant, and in the long run the issue is not whether it will be changed but how.

Wisconsin Vote Shows Mood Of Protest Growing Stronger

Wisconsin's political message — what does it mean? Clearly it means that the mood of protest is growing. It dominated the latest Democratic primary.

The two principal protest candidates — McGovern nd Wallace — were the beneficiaries. For the first time in any of this year's primaries, the voters nearest to the political center were in a minority.

Together McGovern with 30 per cent of the vote and Wallace with 22 per cent won 52 per cent of the vote while Humphrey, Muskie and Jackson, the political centrists, got only 39 per cent.

WHAT ARE THE VOTERS PROTESTING? They are protesting just about everything, and this is a warning to all politicians including Nixon.

They are protesting the Vietnamese war and what they feel to be unresponsive government, double-talk and promises without performance, high prices and high taxes.

WHO'S ON THIRD BASE? Among the Democrats, nobody. McGovern is benefited the most. He becomes a serious candidate but not a probable winner. Muskie is hurt the most. He becomes a greatly weakened candidate and a probable loser. More than ever, Humphrey looms as the Miami compromise.

NIXON IS HOME FREE. For renomination, that is. There never was really any doubt about it, but Wisconsin is the visible clincher. The anti-Nixon vote for left-wing McCloskey nd right-wing Ashbrook shrank to a mere 2 per cent.

UNITED STATES MOVING OUT OF SOUTHEAST ASIA. During the past 24 months, the United States has withdrawn 525,000 men from Southeast Asia. This is the Nixon doctrine in action, reducing our military presence abroad. It may be a risk to the peace but probably the only way to build up indigenous forces of self-defense.

MOSCOW SEEKING TO MOVE INTO SOUTHEAST ASIA. Russia is renewing its project to draw tha nations of Southeast Asia into a Soviet-dominated "collective security system."

Goal: to replace American influence with Soviet influence and to checkmate China. It tried this ploy once before and the Asian nations didn't buy it. Some of them want America out but they don't want Russia in.

PEKING HAVING SECOND THOUGHTS? The Chinese have been saying for years "Yankee go home." Now that the Yankees are going home in large numbers, they show signs that they don't want us to go too fast.

They are far more concerned about Russia than about the United States. One of the first things the Chinese mention to foreign visitors is that there are 41 divisions of combat -ready Soviet Union troops on China's borders. This fact dominates Chinese foreign policy more than anything else.

DILEMMA OF THE NIXON DOCTRINE. The President is very conscious that in seeking to reduce the nation's overinvolvement in peacekeeping, there is danger of underinvolvement — in Asia, in Europe, in the Middle East.

He sees the ingredients of overconfidence in the making and wants to guard against it.

If the Democrats keep on feuding the way they have in recent weeks and the economy keeps on improving the way it has in recent weeks, it might look like a Republican runaway.

Nixon doesn't see it that way. He figures a Humphrey-Kennedy or a Kennedy-Humphrey ticket would be formidable.

ECONOMIC SIGNS ARE MORE FAVORABLE. Gross national product is steadily rising. So is business investment. New housing starts are exceeding all predictions.

Nonpolitical professional analysts see accelerated growth reducing unemployment and lowering inflation.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Democrats' Also-Rans Should Drop Out Of Competition

WASHINGTON — John Lindsay, who from the start was a crasher rather than an invited guest in the Democratic Party, nevertheless has put on a late display of social grace, which should serve as an example to others in the presidential competition.

He has quit. So should Henry Jackson, Eugene McCarthy, Sam Yorty, Shirley Chisholm, Patsy Mink and Wilbur Mills — right now, before another ballot is run.

And, promptly after the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries, two weeks from now, Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie should count their votes carefully and, unless they finish those two trials in a dead heat, the low man between them should quit, too.

After that, the Democratic primaries would take on some meaning, the political trend among party members in 1972 would emerge from the current chaos, and the primary process might strengthen instead of ripping apart whatever chance the party has to defeat Mr. Nixon in November.

WHILE NO GROWN-UP should expect the remaining candidates thus to put their party before their own ambitions, they must at least consider these truths made clear by the Wisconsin returns:

The widely lamented (or acclaimed, depending on who speaks) "polarization" of the Democrats does not exist in reality. It is a product of the multiplicity of choices available to the voters in both Florida and Wisconsin, and specifically of the Republican crossover allowed in Wisconsin.

That crossover accounted for a high fraction of the Wallace vote (up to half, by some estimates) and a considerable share of the McGovern turnout. Thus, the percentages won by the two front-runners in Wisconsin, ideologically at the poles of the party, must be discounted severely in measuring their appeal strictly within the Democratic Party.

Admittedly, gauging the crossover is an inexact science. But even when the McGovern and Wallace totals are left where they stand without a discount for crossover, the results show that the relative center of the party still stands as strong as either of its wings.

Put Wallace, with all his GOP votes included, on the right. Add to his percentage the turnout for Yorty and Mills, plus a few of the votes cast for Jackson. The right-wing total comes to less than 25 per cent.

Put McGovern on the left, all his votes counted, and add to his total the returns for Lindsay, McCarthy and Chisholm. It comes to approximately 39 per cent for the left wing.

Put Humphrey and Muskie in the center, and add most but not all the Jackson vote. No one maintains that either of these Democratic mainstream candidates benefited greatly from the crossover vote, yet the center comes out with about 38 per cent.

YOU WILL HEAR argument about just how many points from each minor candidate should be assigned in which direction. But the message is obvious. McGovern has come through as the strongest contender on the left, Wallace is unchallenged on the right, and the center has not made up its mind between Humphrey and Muskie. But, within the party as a whole, there is no mortal left-right division.

In faet, if an artithmetical mean could be struck on the basis of the Wisconsin results, it would place the heart of the Democratic Party where it has remained at least since 1932, despite persistent efforts to drag it off toward one extreme or the other. It remains slightly to the liberal side of the national political center, in the same broad band of the spectrum where the campaigns and policies of Roosevelt, Truman, Stevenson, Kennedy, Johnson and Humphrey placed it, just far enough left to outbalance the rightward tilt of the minority party.

THE FUNCTION of this interminable 1972 primary process should not be merely to decide which remote flank of the Democratic Party is stronger; neither is strong enough to win a general election. If the Democrats have any dream of winning, the primaries should instead determine where within the understood tradition of the party this year's candidate will stand as he challenges an acutely political incumbent President.

The continued presence of half-a-dozen minor candidates whose best hope is an outside shot at the vice-presidential nomination serves only to muddy the voters' choices. That is why Jackson, McCarthy, Yorty, Chisholm, Mink and Mills should immediately join Lindsay, Hartke, Bayh, Harris and Hughes among the dropouts.

Cotati Faces Second Invasion; This Time It's Commuters

Cotati has been known as the city with a split personality since Sonoma State College students invaded the small farming community. Now it may split with a third faction as commuters move in.

For decades Cotati was known as one of Sonoma County's sleepier towns. Everyone was tied to agriculture or ranching. Everyone knew each other, how the crops were doing, and the latest egg production figures.

The town incorporated as a city 10 years ago and things really haven't been the same since. It was only a few years later that the Sonoma State campus sprang up in an oat-field down the street and the invasion began.

Old-time residents saw hundreds of long-haired young people lounging on their street corners and flaunting a new life style. The dress and manners of the newcomers resulted in a form of cultural shock.

TO A MAJOR extent, the students and oldtimers have learned to live with each other. The young people really like the small-town atmosphere of Cotati and the longtime residents who seem to give them a sense of history and a tie to simpler days.

Now comes the commuter. His family is moving from Marin or some other part of the Bay Area to the quiet, country living promised at Cotati's first subdivision, Holiday Park. He will bring still another life style to Cotati.

As the young people have become part of the community and have taken an interest in civic affairs, so will the commuter. While some oldtimers continue to grumble about the rising population and changing character of Cotati, in the end, it may be the newcomers who resent the coming of the commuter the most.

IT SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE, but wristwrestling time is almost upon Petaluma again. On May 20 the musclemen will take over the Veterans Memorial Building for a test of strength and courage.

In recent weeks the wristwrestling "bug" has struck the Petaluma Police Department. To the amazement of rookie cops, Capt. Henry Eslick, only a couple of years away from retirement age, is easily besting all comers. Although smaller than most of the officers, Eslick has beaten men young enough to be his son. He's also walking about a foot taller these days.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Bangladesh Ailing Infant With Amateur Physicians

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

For many of the more than 70 million inhabitants of Bangladesh independence has meant exposure to profiteers, looters, starvation and other ills attendant upon a government in paralysis.

And the fact that some 60 of the world's nations, including the United States, have recognized the new nation does little to ease the agony of its birth.

In Dacca, Prime Minister Sheik Mujibur Rahman receives an endless line of petitioners, each of whom must lay their troubles before him, and makes government decisions down to the smallest detail.

It is not the way to run a government.

UNDER THESE enormous pressures it is little wonder that Sheik Mujib tells visitors he is feeling worn out and ill. Worst of all, he is considered the one man capable of holding Bangladesh together.

Although the United States accorded diplomatic recognition to Bangladesh only belatedly, it has been among the most generous of the world's nations in its offers of aid.

Total aid pledged by all sources comes to about $350 million. Of this, U.S. aid comes to about $100 million, including grains, vegetable ils, emergency shelter supplies and a little more than $35 million to help move emergency food supplies out of clogged ports and into the hands of those facing death from starvation farther inland.

Despite trailing far behind the United States in the total of its aid, the Soviet Union has laken advantage of the U.S. delay in according formal recognition to move far ahead in the propaganda field.

Mujib has lifted the ban on Communism and Soviet-Bangladesh friendship societies have sprung up throughout the country, leading the attack on the United States as an enemy of Bangladesh and backer of Pakistan.

IT HAS BEEN estimated that nearly 230,000 tons of food lie aboard ships in Bangladesh harbors, kept there by a shortage of transport and a web of bureaucratic red tape much of which is attributed to United Nations headquarters in New York.

Toni Hagan is the Swiss head of U.N. relief operations in Dacca. He asked for 30 barges to move food inland and got two.

He estimates $30 million is needed for bridges, culverts and 5,000 trucks to carry food supplies. And as of today, even if additional badly needed food were to arrive, he would have no place to store it.

A difficulty is that most of those attempting to administer Bangladesh are amateurs. Thousands of East Bengal technicians still are being held in West Pakistan, apparently as hostages for future peace negotiatios.

The personality of Sheik Mujib has been the glue which held together Bangladesh's largest party, the Awami League. But the league is breaking down into factions and many of its lesser leaders are accused of open profiteering.

Guerrilla leaders are setting up their own fiefdoms and refusing to surrender their weapons. Leftwing student groups, their sentiments ranging from orientation toward Moscow to Maoism, have joined the jockeying for control.

It's a sick country which needs considerably more than diplomatic recognition to assure survival.

Berkeley Police Disperse Crowd

BERKELEY (UPI) — Street people attempted to turn Telegraph Ave. into a mall—a "festival-like situation" Sunday, but Berkeley police, using a low key approach, broke it up.

Officers said a crowd started throwing water balloons at passing autos about 1:20 p.m. and within an hour 300 persons were blocking the street.

One person was cited for throwing the water-filled balloons and people began pulling newspaper stands and bicycle racks into the street and lighting fire.

A sign that said: "Telegraph Avenue Closed on Sundays" was put in an intersection.

Commander Shot

Nixon 'Would've Disobeyed Court'

PALO ALTO, (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says President Nixon was prepared to disobey if the U.S. Supreme Court ordered him to halt the Amchitka nuclear test in Alaska in November.

The court did not order a halt to the controversial underground test, which was held in the Aleutians, despite objections from environmentalists who feared an earthquake. None occurred.

"The President said to me, 'Even if the Supreme Court ruled that I could not do it I have determined that as commander-in-chief it is my responsibility and I am going to do it anyway,'" Reagan told the California Republican Assembly Saturday night.

Accounting System Overhaul Due Study

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting Tuesday at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, will consider a new accounting system aimed at obtaining an additional $200,000 per year from the federal government.

The plan, proposed by Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, calls for keeping separate record and accounting systems to show the allocation of "indirect costs" to both federally aided and nonfederally aided programs. Indirect costs are generally described as overhead costs.

Mitchell said the new "cost allocation plan" probably will be required of all counties by next year.

He proposes that Marin contract with the accounting firm of Arthur Young and Co. of San Francisco to set up the new procedure.

Immediate cost to the county will be about $37,000 for Young's services and another full time auditor, he said, but added that there is a "stick and carrot."

"The completion of this plan will allow a retroactive claim to be filed back to January 1970, which I would estimate to be about $185,000," he said.

"This new program will actually be of great advantage to Marin County property taxpayers, namely, that we would be able to claim greater federal and state reimbursements as a result of taking into account all indirect costs. . ."

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Agenda also includes:

FLOOD CONTROL — A proposal to disband the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone 9-A, which includes all unincorporated areas of the Ross Valley Flood Control District. The proposal has been submitted by the Zone 9-A advisory board.

POOL HALLS — A proposal to repeal a section of the county's ordinance on pool halls which prohibits persons under 18 from entering. That section of the ordinance was approved in 1947.

CREEK — A proposal to include the lower reaches of Lagunitas Creek, from Point Reyes Station west, under the provisions of the county's tidal waterways ordinance. The ordinance regulates development in tidal areas.

OPEN SPACE — A proposal to amend state law to allow the county board of supervisors to sit as the board of directors of a countywide park and open space district.

Our new 280 SE 4.5 costs almost three times as much as the "average" car. But we think there are 10,000 Americans who can appreciate the difference.

The average car buyer could be taken aback at the price of our new Mercedes-Benz 280SE 4.5.

At over $10,000, it is not only well above average, it is some $2,500 more expensive than the highest priced domestic luxury sedan.

Whether it's worth that difference to you may be answered only by what you expect of a motor car.

The 280SE 4.5 is a touring sedan in the best European tradition.

Designed to provide every motoring comfort for a party of five. And engineered to cope with driving situations that vary from the descending switchbacks of an Alpine pass to the 100 mph cruising speeds of an Autobahn.

A concept so different from that guiding the design of a domestic "luxury" car you may find driving something to do—instead of something that must be done.

Its engine is unlike any you'll find in an American car. An overhead-cam, fuel-injected 4.5 liter V-8.

It has no carburetors. Instead, a computer monitors engine speed and load, temperature and altitude, then electronically meters fuel to each cylinder. This precise method of fuel delivery is the most advanced way of providing efficient, high-speed touring capability.

The fully independent suspension was designed for ruts and bends, not just boulevards and turnpikes. It's so roadworthy, Road & Track contends that "no domestic luxury sedan is even in the same ballpark."

And to match its performance abilities, Mercedes-Benz engineers have equipped it with four power-assisted disc brakes, ventilated in front to resist fading.

The result is an automobile that can perform with equal aplomb on the 174 curves of Nürburgring, or the unwavering ribbon of a thruway.

And an automobile that is further endowed with almost every comfort. Power brakes and steering. Electric windows. Air conditioning and tinted glass. Electrically heated rear window. An AM-FM receiver. Even a central locking system that secures all four doors, the trunk and even the gas port at the touch of a button.

In addition to the 280SE 4.5, Mercedes-Benz builds two other V-8 touring sedans in similarly miniscule quantities.

The 280SEL 4.5 is identical to the SE except that it is longer. Longer in the Mercedes-Benz sense—an increase of four inches that is translated directly into rear-seat leg room.

The 300SEL 4.5 adds air suspension to the list of performance features unavailable on any domestic automobile.

In total, these three high-performance touring sedans will account for less than one of every 400 cars sold in the United States this year.

If you can accept a car that "different," take a thorough test drive. Discover the real differences in a car built to be the best—not the best seller.

Mercedes-Benz of North America, Inc.

"One has to pay through the nose for the best, but for those who can afford it...the 280SE with the V-8, in either the regular or the L version, is the best available today." Road & Track

Bangladesh: A New Nation But Almost In Name Only

By DAVID WINDER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The sheer magnitude of Bangladesh problems — regarded here as comparable to the dislocations of Europe after World War II — is cause for growing international concern.

Basically, the problems are outstripping the solutions with the next six weeks considered critical on the food front.

An aerial view of the densely populated, swampy land laced with rivers would reveal the enormity of the situation:

Thirty million people dislocated by war. More than 1.5 million homes destroyed. Nine million refugees returning from India to rebuild their lives and homes. War damage drastically reducing rail traffic. Key rail and road bridges destroyed.

In addition, food is scarce and prices are rising — a situation exacerbated by poor distribution.

Except for the Bengali euphoria at having won independence and their respect for their prime minister, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, Bangladesh is considered almost devoid of any of the attributes of a nation.

The Pakistani invasion wiped out the country's administration talent.

"The needs are so tremendous, so unbelievable" is how a senior official of one of the United Nations agencies with a close involvement in the problem describes the situation.

In his report of February 15, U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said that additional assistance, in excess of the $565 million targeted for 1972, would be required for the remainder of the year. And that was only to meet the most immediate needs to avert large scale misery and hunger.

Against the projected $565 million target, some $350 million so far has been pledged in cash or kind, most of it in kind.

What has been delivered is far short of that. But how short can't be accurately determined, because some aid is funneled directly through the U.N. some given bilaterally, and the rest through voluntary agencies.

Thus far, donated gain shipments exceeding 100,000 tons have been delivered to Bangladesh ports. Present requirements are at least 200,000 tons a month. The latest weekly tally filed at U.N. headquarters shows present stocks down to only some 240,000 tons.

A shipment with 23,000 tons of wheat left Texas recently but will take 45 to 55 days to reach Bangladesh. A further 48,000-ton shipment will follow from Seattle.

The situation has not been helped by press reports of bickering among agencies, frustrations of U.N. officials on the spot, and charges of inefficiency and bureaucratic delays both in the Bangladesh Government and at U.N. headquarters in New York.

Pressed by the questioner at a news briefing whether the U.N. was denying reports of bungling over relief operations, William Powell, director of information, replied: "No we're not. We're not miracle people."

Conversations among officials at U.N. headquarters, indicate some of the little-known difficulties under which they work.

For instance, some countries prefer to give direct assistance, informing the U.N. afterward. In some cases, the gift is inappropriate. In one case, a European country had the satisfcation of announcing it would send trucks to Bangladesh, but the U.N. was then expected to maintain them.

Delays are bound to happen, moreover, when donor countries impose stipulations on how the money should be spent.

Much of the ralief difficulties center on the urgent need to clear the Bay of Bengal of mines and sunken hulks, consequences of the Pakistan war, so that large relief shipments can be brought in swiftly.

U.S. Recognition But No Aid Vow

By COURTNEY R. SHELDON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — Formal United States recognition of Bangladesh carries with it no new large scale aid programs or guarantees.

But, U.S. officials say, it can make it easier to channel the already sizeable efforts of the United Staes to make the fledgling Bangladesh a viable nation.

There are no illusions here about the immensity of the task. Proper distribution of available food is the most immediate aspect.

Establishing internal order and effective administration is seen as very difficult for a country which was left with few trained officials when it won its independence from Pakistan four months ago.

The beginnings of political opposition to the government of Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman are noted. On the other hand, with the exit of the Indians, the plight of the minority Biharis has not eased. Also, the Indians took with them the West Pakistani prisoners of war.

Beyond these domestic problems is the long-term maneuvering of the big powers for influence and allies in the subcontinent.

But when the broad context is considered, U.S. officials say, the time had become ripe for U.S. diplomatic recognition.

It was based on these developments:

1. Indian troops were withdrawn on March 12 and the return of some to help quell on uprising by tribesmen in the southeast is not considered a reversal.

2. The government of Sheikh Mujib is judged to be in actual physical control of Bangladesh.

3. U.S. officials talked with President Bhutto of West Pakistan before conferring the recognition. Though Bhutto at first retaliated against some countries for recognizing Bangladesh, he has about-faced.

4. World opinion, as expressed in the recognition of Bangladesh by more than 50 nations, establishes Bangladesh as a member of the family of nations.

5. The desire to improve relations with India and nurture the dialogue that is starting gingerly after the U.S. tilted its policy toward West Pakistan in the Indian-Pakistan war.

U.S. officials, in this regard, pointed to the reports out of New Delhi that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was now "in direct touch" with Pakistan.

In the absence of a decision on recognition of Bangladesh, a reported comment of Henry A. Kissenger that if Bangladesh were to become a "basket case" it would not be the U.S.'s basket case, loomed larger than it might have been intended. President Nixon has been actively involved in Indian-Pakistan matters from the start.

The preference of many diplomats is for recognition of a government, whether its political coloration is liked or not, once it has established control.

In this instance, U.S. officials do not have reservations about Sheikh Mujib as a potential political enemy.

Despite the U.S. actions during the war, they are convinced that much good will toward the United States is resident in Bangladesh because of past friendship and assistance.

U.S. officials say that no single factor was dominant in reaching a decision on recognition. It is obvious, however, that the departure of the Indian Army and the alteration of Bhutto's attitude broke the logjam.

In this respect, it was noted that the Soviet Union did not rush forward with its recognition of Bangladesh as speedily as others. Also, the Soviet Union does not send its aid through the U.N.

The People's Republic of China has not made any move toward recognition and very likely will not in the foreseeable future.

U.S. officials do not disclose what Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai said to each other in Peking in February. There is no evidence that the United States is warming up relations with Bangladesh now in concert with any actions by China.

DIRECTOR OF the San Rafaal Cooperative Nursery School, Mrs. Jo Egenberger, works on an electricity project with (from left) Scott Robinette, Karl Thunstrom and Jimmy Betts. After an 18-year search for a permanent site for the school, permission was given two years ago to use the abandoned schoolhouse at San Quentin Village. Both the school and the prison have benefitted, according to Mrs. Egenberger.

QUENTIN PROPERTY

Unlikely Location For Nursery School

By JOAN LISETOR

The children who attend the San Rafael Cooperative Nursery School think that everyone's automobile trunk gets inspected on the way home from nursery school, and that every nursery school has maintenance men who wear blue denim dungarees.

Their nursery school, a cheerful, busy, two-room school on approximately three-quarters of an acre of land, is located inside the gates of San Quentin Prison, and the men in dungarees are minimum security prisoners, who really keep things in shape, according to Susan Torres, a nursery school mother.

Nursery school has been held on the site of the former San Quentin School for two years, after an 18-year quest for a permanent location. The school, which was incorporated in 1948, previously held classes in the old Coleman School, the basement of a private home, the now demolished American Legion Hall in San Rafael and the World War II surplus buildings at San Rafael High School.

"WE WERE in need of a permanent site when a former nursery school family moved to San Quentin Village and discovered that the San Quentin schoolhouse had been abandoned since the mid 1960s," said Jo Egenberger, director of the nursery school for the past 20 years.

With the help of the San Rafael High School District, the State of California and San Quentin Prison, arrangements were made for the nursery school to occupy the schoolhouse.

"Nursery school parents were so delighted that the search for a permanent location had ended that they all pitched in and cleaned up the years of accumulated dust and grime," Mos. Torres explained. "The school runs on a normal keel. It is not bizarre, and there is no fear because we are quite a distance from the actual prison."

"For the men, the nursery school serves in a way as a half-way house," Mrs. Egenberger said.

"IT GIVES men who will soon be paroled an opportunity to have a relationship with children and women. The men love working in the school os much they break their backs to help. The ones who work on the grounds outside stop, look and wave at the children. Many have been in prison a long time and haven't seen women and children in so many years that they are fascinated."

When the weather permits the children romp in the enormous yard.

"They are so scattered it is difficult to realize we have 36 children enrolled," Mrs. Torres said.

Equipment like bicycles and wagons have been donated by parents, some in poor condition, but the maintenance men keep things in perfect order, explained Chris Robinette, another nursery school mother.

Two years of directing a nursery school within the gates of a prison has shown mutual benefits to the school and the prison, according to Mrs. Egenberger.

WITH EQUIPMENT kept in top condition by San Quentin prisoners who serve as maintenance men, San Rafael Cooperative Nursery School children, Scott Robinette and Eric Summa, work on a carpentry project at the nursery school, located inside of the gates of the prison.

Variety Is Word In Dress Lengths

Still don't know what length the dress ought to be? Variety is the word. And how you look in various lengths may depend on the stockings and shoes you wear.

To look taller, for example, designers recommend an unbroken line, regardless of the skirt length. This often is accomplished by keeping one color from neck to toe, stockings and shoes or boots included.

Most Important For Attendants

The most important "do" for bridal attendants is to look their prettiest the day of the wedding. If it's formal or semi-formal the maids wear floor-length or shorter dresses, with short or long sleeves, and a simple cap or hat with or without a short veil.

Mail Courses Report Has Lesson For All

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — A report just published on the use of correspondence schools by veterans is aimed directly at officials of the Veterans Administration. But it carries some lessons for anyone considering taking educational courses by mail.

The report, published by the General Accounting Office, is based on a survey of 1,000 veterans who had taken correspondence courses. It shows that only about one out of every four veterans signing up for such programs actually completed them.

Overa five-year period ending last June, 519,000 veterans enrolled in correspondence courses at a local cost to the Veterans Administration of $156 million.

One of GAO's main concerns is the amount of refunds due because of uncompleted courses. It found that 84 per cent of the veterans who did not complete their courses had paid for uncompleted parts of the courses.

POTENTIAL REFUNDS ranged from $10 to $900, with an average of $180. Yet, according to the report, most veterans did not know they had to request the refunds in order to get them.

The main point of the GAO report, however, lies in the results of certain questions. When asked whether they would have enrolled in the same course if they knew how many veterans actually drop out, only one-third said they would have done so.

Dropout rates were highest for commercial art courses. Some 96 per cent of enrollees quit before completing such courses, according to the GAO survey.

Next highest were accounting and drafting programs; the dropout rate for them was 93 per cent.

Other types of courses and their non-completion rate were:

Electronic technician, 91 per cent; electronic operations, 91 per cent; secondary school courses for high school and college preparation, 90 per cent; engineering technician training, 88 per cent; performing arts, 85 per cent; radio and television broadcasting, 79 per cent; computer technician training below college level, 78 per cent; electronic mechanic and repairman training, 76 per cent; auto mechanics and repair, 74 per cent; other business and commerce, 73 per cent; electrical trades, 70 per cent; air conditioning and refrigeration, 69 per cent; mechanical couses, 63 per cent; protective services, 56 per cent; salesmanship, 44 per cent; real estate and insurance, 36 per cent; and hotal and motel training, 36 per cent.

TO THE EXTENT that the experience of veterans parallels the experience of non-veterans, the GAO report may be instructive to the general public.

A surprisingly large number of people sign up for high-priced courses that are available without charge from local goverment and school programs. Marguerite O. Tollefson, of the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, said she frequently runs across such cases.

In one case, she said, a person signed up for a correspondence course to provide a high school education costing $456 — including a $36 finance charge — without knowing that an equivalent set of courses was available free from the Adult Education Divison of the Montgomery County Board of Education. The full amount was due whether or not the course was completed.

Mrs. Tollefson became involved when the prospective student asked her for help in cancelling the course despite the signed contract. It was too late.

The Fitted Look Makes A Return

Ensembles in spring and summer Paris fashion shows featured short, fitted jackets. Most of these were cut with sleeve in one piece with the back, giving a rounded shoulder line which emphasized the nipped-in waistline.

Flat collars and small lapels tapered to a single button are other marks of the jacket from Paris designers.

Mill Valley P-TA Council Sponsoring Bike Safety

The Mill Valley Parent-Teacher Association Council is sponsoring a bicycle safety week today through Friday because of the great increase in bicycle accidents, according to Mrs. Jack Eatherton, health and safety chairman for the council, who is coordinating the program.

Special events planned will culminate in a "stop-on-a-dime" demonstration put on by the Mill Valley Police and California Highway Patrol at each school. They will also set up a safety check on all bikes brought to school on the day of the demonstration and inspection at each school.

Parents are invited to attend the demonstrations according to this schedule: tomorrow morning, Alto School; tomorrow afternoon, Tamalpais Valley School, Wednesday morning, Marin Terrace School; Thursday morning, Homestead School; Thursday afternoon, Old Mill School; Friday morning, Park School; and Friday afternoon, Strawberry Point School.

During the week children will also see movies about bike safety, and pamphlets appropriate for different age levels will be available for distribution. A Mill Valley shop is cooperating by having a sale on safety related items at 25 per cent off regular prices.

At Edna Maguire Middle School the highway patrol will make a classroom presentation later in the year covering such items as mini-bike use and parents' legal responsibility for children.

Chairmen handling the event in the various schools are Mmes. William Admerand, Alto; Kurt Levi, Homestead; C. R. Woodhouse, Old Mill; James Potts, Park; M. L. Israel, Strawberry; and L. E. La Dage, Tamalpais.

Men's Fashions Described With Two Expressions

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two expressions are being used these days to describe current men's fasions—"the updated classic look" and "contemporary classics." But it takes a new movie laid in Berlin in the 1930s to show exactly what the expression means.

German costume designer Charlotte Flemming put together a set of classic wardrobes for the men in the smash hit "Cabaret" based on the Christopher Isherwood stories of decadent pre-war Berlin and since immortalized on Broadway and in Hollywood.

"Cabaret" started out as Isherwood's Berlin stories, became the play "I am a Camera" by John van Druten and went on to be a long-running musical in New York. Now it has ended up on the screen starring Liza Minelli and Michael York.

Some of the classics include blue blazers, the doublebreasted suit, the trenchcoat, wide brimmed hats, striped shirts worn with plaid ties, three-piece single breasted suits, chalk stripe suits with pleated pants and two inch cuffs, argyle V-neck sweaters and knickers for bicycling.

ALTHOUGH THEY are the styles of the 1910s, when Adolf Hitler was just bringing the Nazis to power in Berlin, many as seen in the picture could be worn today as the epitome of the updated classic that has replaced the recent more flamboyant fashion eras.

It was more than a year ago that people quit talking about the peacock revolution and began speaking hopefully of a return to the classics. As Ken O'Keefe of the Men's Fashion Association (MFA) put it at a fashion seminar last summer, it was "the end of the costume party."

Manufacturers were delighted —it meant the end of producing clothes that would go out of style in a few months, thus annoying and probably losing old customers. But they weren't exactly sure what it meant and there were some cries of alarm.

They were all partly right and partly wrong. Designers currently have taken the best of the classic looks of the '30s and '40s and turned them into wardrobes that combine the best of everything. There are a few white shirts, but most are colored. There are a few button downs, but they are still n the minority.

THE REASON the men's wardrobes in "Cabaret" are so successful is that Miss Fleming captures the feeling of understated elegance — which is what fashion is supposed to be about. She does so for York, who plays the part of poor British language student Brian Roberts. And she does so for Helmut Griem, who plays the part of Baron Maximilian von Heune, who is rich. The same goes for Fritz Wepper who plays the role of Fritz Wendel, who is poor and toys with the idea of becoming a gigolo.

One of the classic costumes worn by York is in an opening scene when he arrives in Berlin wearing a trenchcoat and wide-brimmed hat. Underneath is anothar classic — a three-piece chalk striped flannel suit worn with a long pointed white shirt and striped repp tie.

Griem, as the rich baron, carries it a bit further — a navy blue blazer with classic gray flannel pants, a light colored vest, a white shirt and dark tie. Or in a wide-lapel suit with flapped pockets worn with dark blue shirt and white pinned collar and a figured tie. Wepper is splendid in a straw boater worn with a light three-piece suit.

The costumes are at their best in the leisure scenes. York in one wears a Fair Isle sweater with jacket and matching knickers for bicycling. Griem is neat and tidy in a blue-gray-white V-neck Argyle sweater worn also with knickers. And from time to time they wear dark blazers — the most classic look of all.

Several other chemical reactions take place before these crumbs can be made into a fabric for wear.

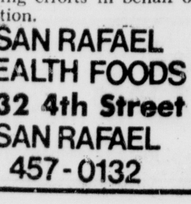
Over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition

HERE'S HEALTH!

by JUNE EMBURY



Today I want to tell you about a new book. It had me so excited, I couldn't put it down before I had finished it! It is "Nutrition Against Disease" by Roger F. Williams.
Dr. Williams is a true scientist, with a deep concern for his fellow man. His wide experience in the field of nutrition gives him the evidence to back up his claims. He has the conviction that nutrition can play a vital role in the prevention of disease and he wants us to attend to our "internal environment" through high quality nutrition.
He claims that the most basic weapons in the fight against disease are the numerous nutrients our bodies need. All nutrients work together in balance, all are needed for health and vitality.
I know, that after you read this book, you will agree with me that Dr. Williams deserves our thanks for his untiring efforts in behalf of nutrition.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Fact Or Fiction, That Night Long Ago Is Best Forgotten

DEAR HELEN:

Most people don't know the blood types which would disprove a paternity suit and prove a paternity suit and that's lucky because other men might find themselves in my predicament.

I'll start from the beginning. Myra and Gene are my friends from high school days. At one time I thought I was in love with Myra but we were both over it by the time she married Gene.

There was only one night when we even remembered the old relationship, and I've never been able to remember just how far it went. That was at a dance when Gene and Myra had a fight and he walked off with another woman. I took her home, we drank quite a lot (I was feeling sorry for myself, too) — and later we all laughed about the one and only big brannigan Myra and Gene ever had.

Which brings me to the present, 16 years later. Their son, Gene Jr., age 15, was in an automobile accident and required blood transfusions. I'm in the lab of the local hospital. In the course of taking blood samples and making analyses, I found out that the boy could not be Gene's son! Possibly their family doctor already knows this, but I'm sure neither Gene nor Myra does. Gene Jr. looks like his mother, but has so many of his father's mannerisms that people think they're dead-ringers for each other. I have never seen a father and son so close.

I know you are thinking that this has got to be fiction. I wish it were! You see, my blood type IS compatible with Gene Jr's. The time element checks (as near as I can recall). But that night 16 years ago is a total black-out for me.

Should I ask Myra, tell Gene, or continue to wonder all my life if my best friend's son is really mine? For two months, I've thought of little else.

If you print this, please do so before May when they will be home from a cruise and reading the paper again. Also I've changed details so that friends won't recognize the family. — PLEASE — NOT A FATHER

DEAR NOT:

I'd say: erase the results of the blood tests from your mind as thoroughly as you blanked out what happened on that long-ago night. There's a strong possibility that Myra or Gene (maybe both) already know Gene Jr. isn't his father's natural son. If this doesn't bother them — and you most definitely don't want to claim the boy — then don't share your suspicions with anyone, except (if you feel compelled) their family doctor. I'm sure he'll keep the secret, too. — H.

NOTE TO READERS: Is this letter fact or fiction? Advice columnists never really know, but my "radar" tells me that if "Not a Father" were fabricating, he'd have carried the story a step further, giving himself a daughter who was in love with Gene Jr. Right? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Our child is hopelessly retarded, deformed; he lies in a crib, almost a vegetable. And he'll never be any better. We have three wonderful, normal children. I can't care for him. Heaven help me, I can't even love him. I have deep pity for him — so much that I wish mercy death were legal. Yet we must make every effort to keep him alive — for what? To remain in an institution where he'll die a slow death?

I never thought much about euthanasia before, but now I know that it is the kindest way. Why can't hopeless cases be mercifully put to sleep, either at birth or as soon as it is definitely determined there is no hope?

And why must incurably ill and suffering people be kept alive when they themselves cry out for death?

Human life is only valuable when it can be of value. People fear that legalized euthanasia would make us the all-powerful judges of who's to live or die. Don't we already do this when we wage war — which dooms some tremendously worthwhile people to death? We do it, too, with legalized abortions.

I know I'll be condemned for wanting my child to die, but I had to say this. Don't answer me, Helen — just print it! — SORROWING MOTHER

Sometimes A Player Stumbles Into The Exciting Vienna Coup

The Vienna Coup, for the benefit of those who haven't been reading the box tops, is a spectacular play in which you set up a high card for an opponent and then squeeze him out of it. (A bit cruel, perhaps, but nobody's perfect.) In the days of whist, only two or three players in the world were expert enough to execute the play. Today we know more about such exotic plays.

WIDE OPEN

South should not have bid two no-trump with the hearts wide open. However, his poor bid gave him the chance to execute a Vienna Coup without even knowing what was going on.

At any rate, South lost the first four heart tricks. On the fourth heart he discarded a diamond from the dummy and a club from his own hand.

West signaled with the nine of clubs on the fourth heart, and East then led the seven of clubs. South wasn't the best player in the world, but he did know his playmates. West was incapable of signaling with the nine of clubs unless he had a high club.

DECLINES FINESSE

South therefore put up the ace of clubs and ran the four spades, discarding the last two clubs from his hand. This left him with the four diamonds. South wasn't trying to do anything difficult. He just hoped that his four diamonds would all turn out to be good.

On the last spade West had to come down to four cards. He had the king of clubs and four diamonds to the jack. What could he discard? Dummy had the jack of clubs, and South had just discarded the queen of clubs.

RUNS DIAMONDS

So West discarded a diamond, and South thereupon took four diamond tricks. West had been squeezed out of his diamond stopper.

North, a fine player, had been watching with great excitement. "Marvelous," he exclaimed at the end of the hand. "A Vienna Coup!"

"Think nothing of it," South demurred. "It was easy."

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids two no-trump, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 9 8 5 2
♥ - A Q 9 8
♦ - 7 5
♣ - 7 5 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three clubs.

This asks partner to show a major suit. If he has none, he bids three diamonds and you will then bid three no-trump.

Vera Zorina: Ready To Play Joan Of Arc Again

By IRA KAMIN

Vera Zorina sat by herself in a Veterans Memorial Building dressing room yesterday, while some 250 musicians and singers were gathering on stage for a rehearsal of tomorrow evening's performance of Honegger's "Jeanne D'Arc Au Bucher" (Joan of Arc At The Stake).

Miss Zorina has performed this work countless times, with many major orchestras throughout the world. She has recorded it twice, in English and in French. She was in its 1950 American debut with the New York Philharmonic.

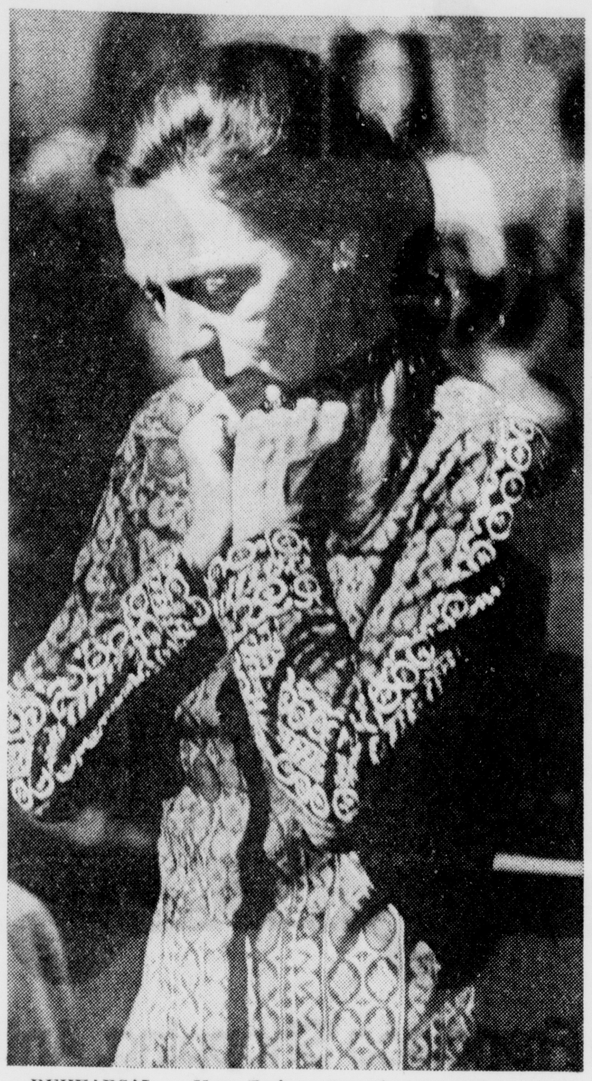
Still, she was as nervous and fidgety as one who needs cue words hidden in her fist while narrating the role of Joan. But she doesn't need any prompting for the role. She has her part memorized — and everyone else's, to boot.

Miss Zorina is a small, slender, attractive woman who might be approaching 60, but, if so, is doing it with verve. She isn't telling.

She was born in Berlin as Brigitta Hartwig. She left Germany for England and France at 13 to train as a ballerina and ended up with the Russian company, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

"That's how I got the name I have now," she said. "Everyone had to have a Russian name. They handed me a list of 20 names to choose from, and I took the only one I could pronounce."

The next phase of her career began in London where she was asked to do a musical comedy, "On Your Toes." This she did. What followed were 10 Hollywood musicals under contract to Samuel Godlwyn, ("I hated movies," she said. "I hated sitling around all day waiting for the production.") There were also leading Broadway roles in musicals of the 1940s, like "I Married An Angel," and more serious roles, like Ariel in Margeret Weston's production of "The Tempest."



REHEARSAL — Vera Zorina, star of stage and screen, immerses herself in the mood and character of Joan of Arc facing the stake. Miss Zorina was rehearsing yesterday for tomorrow night's performance sponsored by the Marin Symphony Association at the Veterans Memorial Building.

The more serious side has been developed since then. Besides narrating the role of Joan, she has directed seven operas and would like to do a movie with Ingred Bergman.

Five of the operas were done with the Santa Fe opera company. The other two were done with the New York City opera company.

She and her husband, Goddard Lieberson, a senior vice-president of CBS, have homes in New York City and Santa Fe, and when she's not traveling around the world doing Joan, they spend the rest of the year in Norway, the birthplace of her mother.

She has given up the rigorous ballet training, and now keeps her shape by playing tennis.

As it came time for her to join the rest of the comapny for rehearsal, she chewed her nails and her eyes girlishly darted around the small dressing room. "I'd like to do some introspective roles; I guess that's why I'd like to work with Bergman. The question is, would he like to work with me?"

She then quietly, anonymously, walked on stage, hidden in the tumult of the Marin Symphony Orchestra tuning up and 200 singers of Contra Costa College, the Carmel Bach Festival Chorus, the Special Children's Chorus from Marin Country Day School and St. Luke's Episcopal Church. It was the start of a long, rough rehearsal under Sandor Salgo's baton. She took her seat next to Scott Beach, who will read the part of Brother Dominic, her legs shaking, her whole body restless.

Then the piece began, and Miss Zorina stepped to the microphone. As if she wrote the part herself, Miss Zorina became Joan, as she surely will tomorrow when the curtain rises for the audience at 8:30 p.m. in this ambitious undertaking sponsored by the Marin Symphony Association.

Soprano Bogard Returns

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Last night's special concert of the candlelight series at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley was not only the Bach-to-Mozart group at its best but a gala welcome back to soprano Carol Bogard, with devotees voming from all over the Bay Area to hear her again.

Singing better than ever ans still as beautiful as a blond Botticelli Venus, Miss Bogard, who had been soloist with the group for six years, left five years ago to go on to build international reputation. Since then she has developed other facets of her talent and her voice is stronger, but she remains the superlative interpreter of Bach and Handel or any baroque music.

No singer I have heard can produce such liquid trills and handle highly ornate embellishments with such consummate ease while sustaining tone.

Response of the audience of some 200 people was enthusiastic but not as tumultuous as it used to be in Brown's Hall, where the Homestead Valley community holds its regular series. However, this could be largely explained by the formal concert setup of the clubhouse instead of the usual cabaret arrangement of Brown's Hall with the audience seated at candlelit tables sipping wine or coffee.

The effect was nostalgic as Miss Bogard thrilled her audience with four of the numbers that were favorites during the time she sang regularly with the Bach-to Mozart ensemble.

She opened the concert with the aria "Destero D'all Empie Dite" from Handel's "Amadige," and once again was heard the incomparable beauty of Edward Haug, though at times the trumpet was a little too loud. Also impressive in this work were the trumpet and oboe passages with the latter played by Raymond Duste.

Even more brilliant was the soprano-trumpet combination in the aria "Let the Bright Seraphim" from Handel's "Samson." But the piece which drew most rave comments was the aria "Ah, Spietato," also from "Amadige," in which Miss Bogard produced an incredibly fine spun and long sustained pianissimo in the highest register and was emotionally deeply moving.

Her final number, the famed Bach Cantata 202 (wedding") was a triumph of gaiety and instrumental suppleness of technique.

Other numbers on the program were a quartet for clarinet and strings by Karl Stamitz featuring Frealon Bibbins and the quartet for strings no. 14 in E flat K. 428 by Mozart. In the Stamitz Quartet violin, viola and cello deserved much credit, but Bubbins' clarinet-stole the show with his usual virtuoso performance, particularly in the final rondo. The Mozart Quartet was played for the most part with fine balance but lacked elan.

Other members of the Bach-to-Mozart group performing were George Nagata and Donna Salarpi, violins; Asbjorn Finess, viola; Teressa Adams, Cello; and Erika Matthes, Harpsichord.

Temple's Exhibit 20 Deserved More Than One Night Stand

By LAURA DEVENDORF

A show as fine as Congregation Rodef Sholom's Exhibit 20, which both opened and closed at a Saturday evening meet-the-artists party, deserved more than just a one-night stand.

Touted as a museum quality show, it largely lived up to its billing. However, this presentation of numerous works by twenty outstanding Marin artists and craftsmen did not constitute an art show in the usual sense, which is why its limitations were forgiveable.

Used, now, for the second year as a fund raiser for the Temple's permanent art collection, Exhibit 20 had the unique feature of being subsidized in advance through the use of artist's sponsors and patrons, plus contributions from other sources. Consequently, the evening show was more of a festive, beautifullly adorned celebration. And while sadly few were able to share it, that sort of thing just doesn't run for weeks on end.

Those who did attend were able to see quite a number of works by each of the participating artists. These were talents rarely seen at local festivals, talents ordinarily enjoyed only piecemeal on appearance in local shows.

At exhibit 20, you could, for example, have the lavish experience of over half a dozen Gayle Luchessa soft sculptures. They hung in lumps of yarn-wrapped knobs, cascaded in golden ropes or erupted sedately from the static environment of wall hangings.

You could see several subtle variations on a theme in Fritz Rauh's sponge-like painted patterns where colors changed fluidly almost the way light does on coral beds in shallow sea water. Or you could sample several selections from Eleanor Bender's Indian motif print series which, while stark in design, are as lush as velvet in their hazy, metallic colors.

Few ideas or styles were repeated. There was the enduring marble calm of Ralph O'Neill's abstract sculpture and the natural serenity of Ernest Braun's photographic blow-ups of cool spring grass and flowers. There was a searching uncertainty in Kent Rupp's skulls and organs isolated in chunks of black, red or white, or watched by a figure cast against the same. And there was the certainty of nature in Phillis Taplitz' architectural landscapes.

Most artists of this stature continue to grow and change. Change has always shown in Ada Garfinkel's work, and here it came across as a simplified use of space, a crisper and almost spring-like sense of color and freshness in her drawings and paintings. In Gwen Stone's collages it appeared in swarms of tiny, similar objects like formations of flying birds in colored space.

Orther artists in Exhibit 20 included Carol Herschleb, June Lederman, Warren Logan, Alton Raible, Martin Stoelzel, Catharine Gibson, John Ihle, Othello Michetti, Charlotte Patera, Dale Rausch and Tony Williams, altogether, a feast of local talent with a much too limited opportunity for consumption.

Central Marin Boys' Club Office Opens

The Central Marin Boys' Club has opened an office at 830 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael and hired Hubert Voight as fund raiser and Barbara Parks as secretary.

It has set a general meeting for noon Friday at the San Rafael Elks Club to select a general campaign chairman, large donations chairman and a permanent steering committee.

The Central Marin Boys' Club was organized last month, with a goal of $500,000 to be raised for a central club, possibly in San Rafael and smaller clubs in the central part of the county.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Gretchen And Goblins' Is Great For The Kids

By KAY KSANDA

It's goblins and wicked people at the castle of King Karl the Cruel, and it happens Saturday afternoons through the month of April at the Mill Valley Center For The Performing Arts.

It's kiddie theater, with a "darkest before the dawn" plot in the production of "Gretchen And The Lonely Goblin," by Mary Brauer. It's rated "G," and though it is goshawful for adults it's great for the kids. They sing, squeal, and go "yeeagh!"

The production is by a new group called Children's Theater, mostly Mill Valley residents, who plan to tour their shows around the Bay Area, much like the Actor's Workshop. Their portable sets are small, clever, and clear. The costumes are fresh, and the acting by the eight adults and three youngsters is good.

The actors obviously have a great time. Two little well-scrubbed kids wander into the forest where they meet giggly Gretchen (Marney McArthur) in a snappy dirndl outfit with red bows in her hair, and false eyelashes on her lids. She tends the pigs for King Karl the Cruel. She used to grace the castle, but she giggled all the time, so the king threw her out. The rest of the people in the castle are either wicked or woebegone.

"GRETCHEN AND THE LONELY GOBLIN," a children's play with story by Mary Brauer and music by Richard Bartaman. Directed by Don Stubbs; producer, Bill Teed for The Children's Theater. Costumes, Carolyn O'Neil; asst. director, Maria Vaughan; lighting, Robert Schafer, choreography, Ellen Ernest; sets, Peter Dryfus, Art Blumn; pianist, Lynn Twist; drums, Eric Morris. CAST: Melissa, Dori Baber or Mara Fath; Charlie, Dean Schulman or David Potovsky; Gretchen, Marney McArthur; King Karl, Reginald Weeod; Prince Wilhelm, David Silverman; Mapmaker, Bill Teed; Mathilde, Benita Truman; Gosta, Myra Breen; Thump, David Ames; Goblin, Craig Scott; Laughter, Laurie Truman.

In the deep dark forest there's a goblin (Craig Scott) who's up to no good. He negotiates a tade with the king, i.e., his dingy dark forest for all the kingdom's laughter. Gretchen escapes, but all the rest stay put, and sing a ditty about how grim it all is. Also, Laughter (Laurie Truman) isn't doing too well in the forest with a polka-dotted goblin. There's a lot of "Oh, alas, alack!" which shows the kiddies just where the world is at without laughter, especially in a drafty castle.

Performances are Saturdays, April 8, 22, 29, at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m., 267 Buena Vista Ave., Mill Valley.

MUSIC REVIEWS

Budding Talents Are Displayed

By ROBERT M. NESS

Virtuoso pianist Vincent J. DeRosa joined the scholarship winners of the Marin County Branch of the Music Teachers Association in a display of budding talent before a capacity audience Saturday night in the Choral Hall at the College of Marin.

Guest artist DeRosa, a high school senior from Los Angeles, brought an impressive list of prizes, scholarships, and honors with him. For three consecutive years he has taken first prize in the International Recording Competition of the National Guild of Piano Teachers. He has also appeared as soloist with numerous orchestras.

His program Saturday consisted of the Bethoven "Moonlight Sonata," Debussy's "Images, Book I," and Chopin's B Minor Scherzo —an impressive group of pieces to say the least.

It was in the virtuosic portions of the program that DeRosa shined the brightest. That monstrous last movement of the Beethoven had the rhythmic drive and power of an avalanche.

His most sensitive playing came in the Debussy. Surging dynamics and precise technic gave these "Images" a sensational musical impact.

The Chopin Scherzo illustrated the depth of DeRosa's unusual technical facility, but didn't quite make it as a musical expression.There was a lack of continuous thought behind the performance.

Of the scholarship winners, Thomas Macfarlane's performance of Schumann's "Fantasiestucke, Op 12" revealed him to be an exceptional musical talent. Though not possessing the same technical facility and flamboyancy as DeRosa, Macfarlane demonstrated a more careful and sensitive musical expression in his performance.

Patrick Terry's performance of Poulenc's "Toccata" was authoritative and musical, as was Leslie Anderson's performance of the complex, contrapuntal Bach "French Suite in G Major."

Donna Sakima played the flamboyant "Impromptu, Op. 90, No. 4" of Schubert with an exceptional sense of dynamics and phrasing.

The only nonpiano winner performing was Michael Mulryan, who gave a facile performance of the Kuchler "Concertino in D" for violin and piano. The remaining winners were younger pianists.

Ken Burton gave a manly rendition of Beethoven's "German Dance in D;" Kirin Coburn whipped through the Allegro in F major by Haydn; John Vonk handled C.P.E. Bach's "La Caroline" with ease; Dana Miranda Phillips' performance of Grieg's "Grandmother's Minuet" sparkled with humor; Marina Michaelian played the Waxman "Water Music" with feeling; and Abigail Burton, with a great deal of authority, performed a Haydn "Vivace."

This was the second scholarship benefit recital featuring a Yung Artist' Guild member by the Marin Chapter of the Music Teachers Association. The proceeds will go towards next year's scholarship program.

Seven Music Major Soloists Spark Fast Moving Production

Last night's Concerto Concert presented by the College of Marin was one of the most exciting and fast moving college productions of the year.

Seven soloists — all music majors at the college — joined conductor John Myers and the College-Community Orchestra in movements from major solo works before an enthusiastic capacity audience at the college's Fine Arts Theatre.

The most overpowering performance came from trumpeter Stephen Salgo, a student of Joseph Alessi, who performed the Allegro from the Hummel Trumpet Concerto. Salgo played with a crystal clear tone and took advantage of every chance to articulate phrases with dynamic shadings and contrasting textures. Most striking was the authority and confidence he exhibited. He seemed to know exactly what he wanted and exactly how to get it.

Robin Williat is a flutist with a style of her own. A very beautiful sensuous work by Chaminade, "Concertino for Flute and Orchestra, Op. 107" was given a musical expression usually not associated with the instrument. She was able to get a large range of dynamic levels and actually create textures of considerable variety. Miss Williat, a student of Jean Chandler, seems completely oblivious to the expressive limitations of the flute.

The sparkling third movement of the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto was aptly performed by Mary Helen Weinstein, the concertmaster of the orchestra and student of Charles Meacham.

Another violinist, David Poteet, performed the Allegro from the Mozart Third Violin Concerto. Though somewhat nervous at the beginning, he went on to exhibit a beautiful tone and sensitive understanding of the music. The virtuosic cadenza at the end was thrilling.

Clairellen Waldeck, well known for her operatic and musical appearances at the college, sang Michaela's heartrendering "Je dis, que rien" from the second act of Bizet's "Carmen."

The Allegro from the Richard Strauss Concerto No. 1 for horn was played by Kevin Omi. Despite the horrendous, technical demands and typical Straussian leaps, Omi played with confidence and musical fluidity.

Pianist Carol Krueger performed the Allegro Movement from the Third Kabalevski Piano Concerto with vigor to conclude the evening.

While there was a fair share of rough spots in these performances, on the whole the performing calibre was remarkable. Myers and the orchestra were in top shape last night. The strings in the Strauss, the horns in the Bizet, and the whole orchestra in the Chaminade were particularly excellent. The obvious musical enthusiasm that went into each work made this concert one of the highlights of the College of Marin's musical season. R. N.

Lucas Valley Road Accident: One Hurt

"Take a look at Larkspur. It's getting harder to see the Creek, and some slopes are already scarred with unsightly development. Larkspur must change direction and tighten up control of the remaining undeveloped areas. The city must adopt a sense of urgency and act now to solve its problems."

DeMont Takes 3rd In AAU Swimming Meet At Dallas

By PAUL CANE

What can you say about a skinny, 15-year-old Terra Linda schoolboy who can swim faster than all but a couple of the college men in the United States?

Even coaches Peter Daland of USC and James "Doc" Counsilman of Indiana are speechless when it comes to discussing Rick DeMont.

DeMont knocked 20 seconds off his previous best time Saturday to place third in the 1,650-yard free-style in the National Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Championships in Dallas, Texas.

The 5-foot-11, 140-pounder covered the distance in 15:36.0, 54 hundreths of a second behind second-place Mike Burton, 24, and only a few bodylengths short of defeating American record holder John Kinsella of Indiana U.

"Oooh, I'm a stud now," DeMont chortled gleefully following his amazing performance.

DeMont is with the Marin Aquatic Club under coach Don Swartz, but competed unattached in this meet because he is engaged currently in the high school swimming program.

Should Rick repeat or better this third place performance at the U.S. Olympic Trials in August, he would qualify to represent America in the Summer Games in Munich, Germany.

In his heat of eight swimmers, DeMont trailed the entire field for nearly 400 yards. He said, however, that this is his strategy — to swim the race progressively faster, instead of going out quickly and tiring out.

"I just cruise easily for the first 500, then I step it up from there," he related. "This way, I don't start to really hurt in my stomach until long after the other guys do. I felt really good until around the 1,200-yard mark.

"I hope to make the Olympic team," he mused on the plane flight back from Texas. "Hopefully, I will improve at a faster rate than the college guys, but I will really have to crank at the Trials — people will swim incredible races there."

High school swimming competition in Marin County, Rick declares, "is bush." For example, a girl swimmer from Southern California (Kim Peyton) has swum the 200 free faster than anybody in the MCAL has done this year — 1:52 (the fastest MCAL time for men in 1972 is 1:54).

It is customary, at big meets like the national championships, for competitors to shave all the hair from their bodies, a practice which Rick employed for the first time in Dallas. "The feeling of slickness that you get makes you feel good; and when you feel good you can always swim well," DeMont confided.

Rich, a junior, is not certain of his college choice at the moment, but is leaning toward USC. "The Trojans have a great program and a fine coach in Daland," DeMont feels.

Two other best-ever performances wrapped up the Nationals Saturday for the Marin A.C.

Jo Hislop, a 17-year-old San Rafael High junior, improved her own 1,650-free time by 20 seconds to 18:07, but did not place.

Denise Ham, a senior at San Rafael, lowered her 200-yard individual medley time to 2:15.5, although she, too, failed to qualify for the finals.

Nicklaus Masters Victor

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)— Grudgingly — because just thinking about it almost caused him to blow a Masters championship that he had in the bag — Jack Nicklaus conceded today it is now "possible but not very likely" that he can complete the first professional "grand slam" in golfing history.

"I'd say the odds have gone down from about 100,000 to 1 to about 1,000 to 1," laughed Nicklaus, shrugging those big shoulders under the green coat that he earned for the fourth time as winner of the Masters.

"But it's too soon to really be talking about the chances. If I can win the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, Calif., in June, and if I can win the British Open at Muirfield in July, then will be the time to talk about my chances of completing it by winning the PGA.

"You know, the talk about the grand slam made it much tougher for me to win the Masters this time," Nicklaus added, and now the 32-year-old super star of the links wasn't laughing. "It was like putting an anvil on my shoulders."

"The speculation about the slam is good and fine," he hastened to add. "The trouble was I got to believing it myself and that adds to the pressure on me. It was very hard to relax and play with all of that on my mind."

Nicklaus very plainly showed the pressure in the last nine holes of Sunday's final round as he collected three bogeys and saw a five-stroke lead cut down

TORO, TORO, TORO — Two female skippers for the tiny El Toro class boats battled the waters of San Francisco Bay Saturday in the 19th annual "bullship" race from Sausalito to San Francisco. Lynn Selback (6965) of the Lake Merritt Sailing Club of Oakland did not finish in the top 30, but Jocelyn Nash (7007) of the Richmond Yacht Club was 11th.

'Bullship' Winner A Woman

Nancy Farnum of the Fremont Yacht Club Saturday became the first woman in 12 years and only the second in history to win the "bullship" race from Sausalito to San Francisco, negotiating the nine-mile course in approximately one hour and 10 minutes.

The 19th annual race, for El Toro class boats only eight feet in length, was sponsored by the Annual Bullship Regatta Association, and had 79 entries.

Mrs. Farnum's victory was the first since Lynn Murphy of the Lake Merritt Sailing Club of Oakland won in 1960, and broke the three-year winning streak of Henry Jotz of San Francisco. Jotz did not finish in the top 30.

Another woman, Shirley Small of Lake Merritt, finished second. There were only six women in the field.

Mark Briggman of the San Jose Sailing Club, past North American champion in the El Toro class, came in third, and was the first man to finish. Walt Ratcliff of Berkeley was fourth and Dennis Silva of Oakland fifth. Both belong to Lake Merritt. The maiden voyagers' perpetual trophy was won by Dave Edwards of the Richmond Yacht Club.

There were no capsizes reported, despite the risky course across the Golden Gate.

College Baseball Race Led By Cal

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The University of California Bears were perched on top of the Pacific-8 Southern Division Baseball standings today as a result of sweeping three games from UCLA in the opening series of the league season.

Southern California and Stanford had been favored to battle it out for the division lead but they split their doubleheader Saturday to give the Cardinals a 2-1 edge in the series.

After pounding out a 4-2 win over the Bruins Friday, California came back Saturday to sweep their doubleheader 4-2 and 4-1. Gary Hernandez, who had homered for the Bears on Friday, got another four-bagger in the first game Saturday but went hitless in the second game. That ended a Pacific-8 record streak of 18 games in which he had hit safely.

Stanford, ranked No. 1 in the nation, scored a 2-0 victory Friday and then took the opener Saturday by a 2-1 score. But the Trojans, defending NCAA champions, came back in the nightcap on Tim Steele's sixth inning, two-run homer to score a 3-2 win.

UCLA and Southern California travel north this weekend with the Trojans meeting the Bears Friday and in a doubleheader Saturday while UCLA has three games with Stanford.

Tars In 2-Mile Relay Win

The College of Marin two-mile relay team of Joe Kinn, Steve Silvey, Paul Norman and Jeff Westerberg won its event at the Sacramento State College Relays Saturday with a time of 8:17.1.

The four-mile relay squad of Vian Collier, Joe Mouille, Lee Hotchkin and Mike Arago set a school record but finished second at 17:58.8. Ken Blasingame finished fourth in the 120-yard high hurdles at 15.4. No team totals were kept.

The Tars will resume Camino Norte Conference dual meet competition Friday against Contra Costa College in San Pablo.

NBA OPENER

Buck Defense Stops Lakers In Playoffs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Milwaukee Bucks reminded everyone Sunday they are the defending champions of the National Basketball Association —not the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Lakers enjoyed the best season ever by an NBA team in 1971-72, winning a record 69 games including an incredible 33 in a row, and many have all but conceded this year's championship to Los Angeles.

But the Bucks showed the Lakers Sunday they aren't about to give up their title without a fight. Playing one of their strongest defensive games of the season, the Bucks crushed the Lakers, 93-72, to take a 1-0 lead in their semifinal playoff series.

In other action, Boston won its quarterfinal series with Atlanta, four games to two, by whipping the Hawks, 127-118; and New York moved ahead 3-2 in its quarterfinal series with Baltimore by beating the Bullets, 106-82.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 33 points for the Bucks in the their rout of the Lakers, but the story of the game was Los Angeles' horrid shooting from both the field and the free throw line. The Lakers, normally one of the league's top shooting clubs, connected on less than 25 per cent of their field goal tries and on only 50 per cent of their free throws. They scored only eight points in the third quarter and their 72-point total was the second lowest in NBA playoff history since the 24-second clock was installed in 1954-55. The lowest total was 71 points by Syracuse in the 1955 playoffs.

"We don't need too much to fire us up because we're the champs," Abdul-Jabbar said when asked if the Bucks were more emotionally involved in this game because they were playing the Lakers.

The Lakers will get a chance to even the score Wednesday night at home. The series then shifts to Milwaukee for the third and fourth games Friday night and Sunday.

Boston won its game with Atlanta on the strength of a 55.6 field goal shooting average and

Redwood '9' Gets Share Of Lead

Gene Frey of Redwood High School came within one batter of pitching his second no-hitter of the season as he hurled the Giants into a share of the Marin County Athletic League lead with a 3-1 victory over San Marin Saturday night at Albert Park.

With two men out in the seventh inning, pinch-batter George Hoberg of San Marin lined a clean single over the second baseman's head to ruin Frey's gem.

Frey who does not lead the league in luck, pitched seven no-hit innings March 27 against Hoover of Fresno in a tournament only to lose, 2-0, in eight.

Redwood bunched three runs in the fourth inning. Mike Connor singled, stole second, and scored on Bob Brown's ground-rule double. Daryl Edralin singled Brown home, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch, and came in on a catcher's throwing error.

San Marin's only run was unearned, the result of two errors and a passed ball.

The victory left Redwood tied for first place with Drake and San Rafael at 2-0. San Marin is tied for fourth with Novato at 1-1.

Frey, a junior right-hander, struck out 12 men and walked four. He whiffed out the first two men in the seventh inning, and after Hoberg's single, fanned the final batter as well.

Federal Help In Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The baseball strike which has snarled the opening of the season remained deadlocked today after a two-hour meeting of player and owner representatives with the government's chief labor mediator.

J. Curtis Counts, Director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said after the session that the talks had been productive in spelling out the issues but no progress had been made toward reaching a settlement on the dispute over pensions.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players' Association, and John Gaherin, representing the owners, returned to New York after meeting with Counts. They plan to report to their respective sides and possibly will meet again together later in the day.

Counts brought both sides together in his labor department office after President Nixon expressed hope the 10-day strike could be settled and regular season play begin.

Miller said he was hopeful that the dispute could be ended. But when asked if today's bargaining discussions brought settlement closer, he replied, "I can't say that they did."

Gaherin also said he as "always hopeful" of ending any labor dispute and added: "I think Mr. Counts' involvement has been helpful and I'm glad he is taking an interest in this case."

Miller expressed disappointment that the mediation meeting had not "made the kind of substantive agreement that leads to a solution."

Gaherin on behalf of the owners said he thought the dispute would be "soluble with the assistance of Mr. Counts."

Penguin Playoff Hopes End, 2-0

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sudden death was very, very sudden for the Pittsburgh Penguins Sunday night.

Pit Martin's goal after only 12 seconds of play in the sudden death overtime-the quickest sudden death goal in National Hockey League history—enabled the Chicago Black Hawks to defeat the Penguins 6-5 and sweep their best-of-seven West Division playoff quarterfinal.

Martin slammed a shot off the skate of Pittsburgh defenseman Tim Horton and the puck skidded past goalie Jim Rutherford for the deciding score after Bobby Hull had registered a three-goal "hat trick" to rally Chicago from a 4-2 deficit.

"The puck hit my skate and went into the net," said a dejected Horton. "It wasn't very complicated. I saw it coming but it was just one of those things. Believe me, if I could have gotten out of the way, I would have. I think I was mesmerized there or something."

Pittsburgh erupted for four goals in the second period to take a 4-2 lead but Hull collected his second and third goals and brother Dennis hit his first of the playoffs in the third period to pull the Black Hawks to a 5-4 advantage. Bob Leiter's goal at 17:52 tied the game.

Chicago will now meet the winner of the New York-Montreal series, in which the Rangers took a 3-1 advantage Sunday night with a 6-4 victory. Boston stopped Toronto 5-4 to take a 3-1 lead in their East Division series while St. Louis nipped Minnesota 3-2 to tie their West Division series at two games apiece.

NBA DRAFT

Loyola Center Martin Heads List

NEW YORK (UPI)—LaRue Martin, a skinny 6-foot-10 center from Loyola of Chicago who distinguished himself this season with back-to-back impressive showings against superstars Bill Walton of UCLA and Jim Chones of Marquette, is expected to be the first player taken today when the National Basketball Association conducts its annual college player draft.

The Portland Trail Blazers, the worst team in the NBA this season, earned the right to choose first in the draft by winning a coin flip with the Buffalo Braves, and the Blazers announced over the weekend they plan to select Martin, a lithe 200-pounder who averaged 1:.5 points and 15.7 rebounds per game this season.

The draft will be held via telephone hookup at the office of Commissioner Walter Kennedy and will begin at 1 p.m. EST.

Harry Glickman, executive vice-president of the Trail Blazers, said the club had thought of going for 6-1 junior forward Robert McAdoo of North Carolina, a second team All-American who qualified for the draft under a hardship ruling. But the Trail Blazers backed off when they learned McAdoo had signed with Virginia of the American Basketball Association.

"We could afford McAdoo," said Glickman, "but we couldn't afford the legal liabilities in terms of possibly losing him to the other league. At best, the team which takes McAdoo has a 40 per cent chance of losing him. You might take that kind of gamble on a Lew Alcindor, but not for a Robert McAdoo."

While Martin's name was relatively unknown outside the Midwest, the scouts consider him one of the better big men among this year's senior class. He was especially good in the games he played against All-Americas Walton and Chones.

"He's very active under the basket, very quick and an intimidator," said Stu Inman, the Blazers' player personnel director.

On the whole, this year's draft is considered by pro scouts to be among the thinnest in recent years in terms of overall talent. Most teams feel they will be lucky to get "any" quality players after the first round.

The 17 teams will draft in inverse order according to how they finished during the regular season, except that four clubs —Atlanta, Cincinnati, Golden State and Baltimore —all lost their first round picks last September when they selected hardship draft players.

Houston also is without a first round pick. The Rockets had the No. 4 pick in today's draft but traded it to Phoenix Saturday in exchange for center Otto Moore. A year ago Moore had been obtained by the Suns from Detroit in exchange for a first round draft pick, which the Pistons will exercise today.

Buffalo will choose second and the Braves may go for either Tom Riker, a 6-10 forward from South Carolina, or Brian Taylor, a 6-4 guard from Princeton. Taylor, like McAdoo, is one of eight eligible hardship cases in this year's draft.

Cleveland, which had the No. 1 pick a year ago and took Austin Carr, will draft third followed by Phoenix, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, Seattle, New York, Detroit, Boston, Chicago, Milwaukee again and Los Angeles. The Bucks get two first round choices as a result of a trade made with Houston earlier this year.

Among the players expected to go high in the draft are centers Greg Northington of Alabama State and John Gianelli of Pacific; forward Travis Grant of Kentucky State, Bud Stallworth of Kansas, Bill Chamberlain of North Carolina; and guards Freddie Boyd of Oregon State, Harold Fox of Jacksonville, Jim Price of Louisville and Paul Stovall of Arizona State.

Most of the top seniors in the college ranks have already been drafted by the ABA and another brutal signing war between the two leagues is expected. The ABA has already signed Chones and 7-foot David Brent of Jacksonville to pro contracts, and both players had a year of collage eligibility remaining.

49ers Lose Hindman To Retirement

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Defensive lineman Stan Hindman of the San Francisco 49ers is retiring from pro football at the age of 28 to pursue a career in art.

The 6-3, 243-pounder from Mississippi stepped in as a starter in his first year as a pro in 1966. He spent two seasons nursing injuries and another on the bench.

"I really don't think I'll change my mind," said Hindman. "I told (coach) Dick Nolan to go ahead and plan for this year as if I won't be there."

2nd Spot Fight Set In Prep Net

By LEW CODDINGTON

The real battle will be for second place in Marin County Athletic League tennis this year.

Redwood High School has reached the point where it generates news only if it loses — and it hasn't made much news lately. The Giants have won four straight MCAL titles, 51 consecutive league matches, and uncounted gasps of awe from rival coaches.

The league season will open tomorrow with a full schedule of four matches. Redwood will be at Terra Linda, 3:30 p.m.; Tamalpais at Drake, 3:30 p.m.; San Marin vs. Marin Catholic at College of Marin, 3:30 p.m.; and Novato at San Rafael, 4 p.m.

There is no end in sight to Redwood's dynasty. In fact, Redwood's No. 1 player is a sophomore, Dan Tierney, who is already considered well above the other players in the league. "He will probably go back East later this year to seek national recognition," said coach Stan Buchanan.

Buchanan is new at the Redwood helm. He took over for Glen Dickey, who is on leave. Buchanan's tennis coaching experience previously was confined to a co-ed team in Vallejo.

Buchanan heads a large phalanx of new coaches, including the world's most experienced rookie, Bob Fitzhenry at Drake. The veteran former basketball mentor never coached tennis until he took over for Reynolds Crutchfield this year.

Also new are Ed Fuchs at Marin Catholic, replacing Bill Thiercof, who moved on to College of Marin; Hart Smith at Tam, replacing retired George Gustafson; and Chris Ahern at Terra Linda, replacing Francis Lum.

In addition to Tierney, Redwood has Steve De Martini, Gary Walter, Mark Rodnick, and a good freshman, Henry Jacobson. And more. "We're strong all the way down to No. 12," said Buchanan.

The depth will help Redwood take advantage of a change in format this year. Teams will play five singles matches (plus two doubles), instead of the three singles and two doubles last season.

Drake, a leading candidate to be "best of the rest," also will benefit from the five-singles rule. The Pirates have "the finest turnout we've ever had — 40 kids," in Fitzhenry's words, giving them enviable depth. Drake blends experience, with first-singles player Greg Kalemba a senior, and youth, including a good freshman named Gene Lechelt.

Terra Linda has no seniors, but plenty of talented underclassmen, making Ahern optimistic about the present and ecstatic about the future. His No. 1 player, Doug Carlisle, is a freshman, and the second man, Jamie Lee, is a sophomore.

Tamalpais has only three seniors on its squad, one of whom is Bob Goldfien, a good No. 1 player. John Liff is developing rapidly as a sophomore. "We have a good chance for second," Smith says.

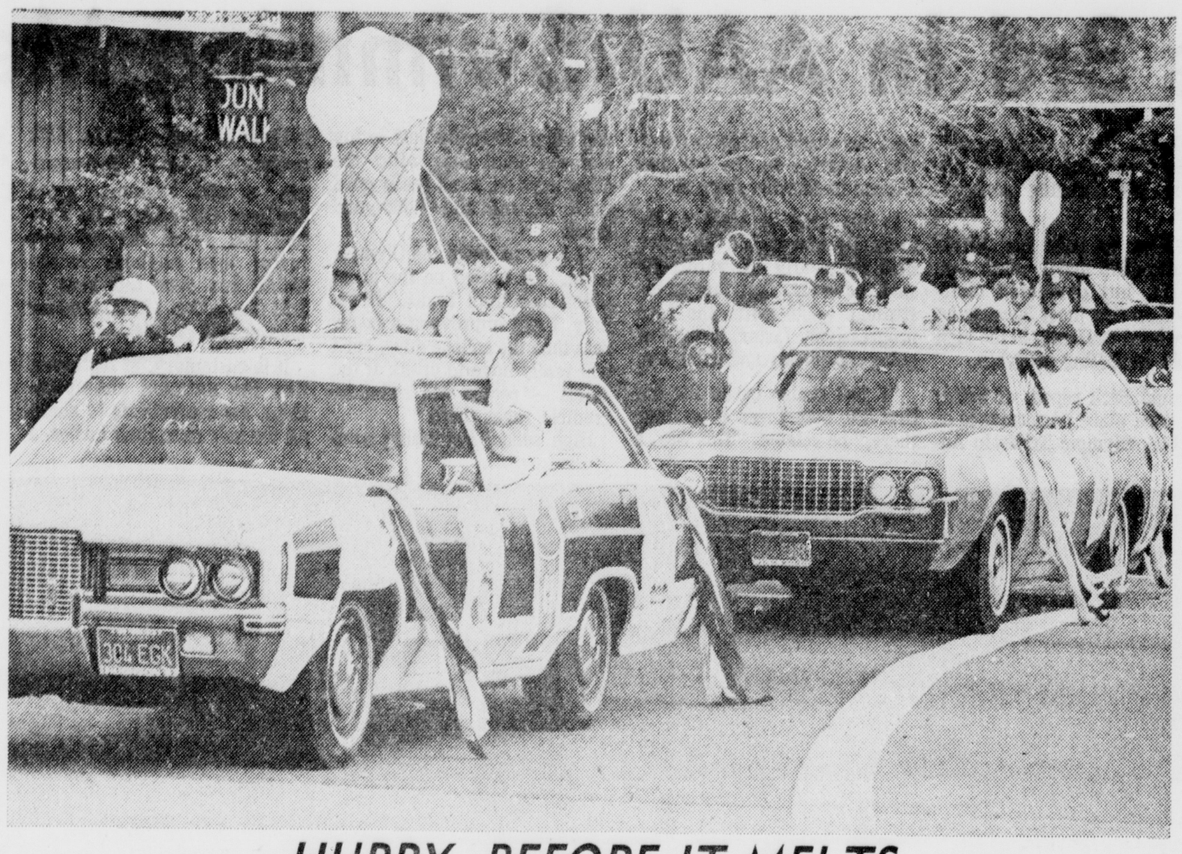
San Rafael also has a team made up predominantly of underclassmen, excpet for the top two players, Dave Bacon and Steve Sockolov. "We probably will be in the middle somewhere," says Coach Milt Hain.

Marin Catholic likewise will depend on youth. "We have no seniors, and just four players up from the junior varsity," said Fuchs. Tony Trembley currently is playing No. 1 for the Wildcats. Marin Catholic tied Drake for second last year at 10-4 (Redwood was 14-0), but the entire varsity graduated.

Novato and San Marin tend to gravitate toward the bottom of the league in tennis. "The kids up here don't play the game the year around," said Novato coach Jim Caranica. "They don't belong to the Belvedere Tennis Club or any of those."

San Marin's Rick Whitney reports an upswing in tennis enthusiasm at his school, which never has won a league match. "We only had seven or eight kids out last year," he said. "Now we have 19."

San Marin and Novato both will be inexperienced. Stuart Swabacker currently is playing No. 1 for Novato, while Joe Lusk is San Marin's top player.



HURRY, BEFORE IT MELTS

One of the cars in the Terra Linda Athletic Association parade Saturday was decorated with a favorite of young baseball players everywhere, a huge ice cream cone replica. Nearly 500 boys and girls and their parents participated in the parade which started at the Terra Linda fire station and ended at Vallecito Junior High School's baseball field. The regular Terra Linda Athletic Association baseball season will start next Saturday.

Spitz Wins 3 In Dallas Swim

DALLAS (UPI)—Mark Spitz and Susie Atwood got most of the rave notices in the wake of their respective three gold medals apiece in the National AAU Short Course Swimming Championships, but teenaged Barbara Shaw could care less. She got what she came after.

The 18-year-old Apple Valley, Calif., high school senior who swims out of the Riverside, Calif., Aquatic Association, came to the meet with one idea in mind —the record of :52.10 in the 100-yard freestyle held by Jane Barkman of Philadelphia's Vesper Boat Club.

She got her chance in the finals on the fourth and final night of the meet Saturday. She won the event, but only tied Miss Barkman's record.

"That's what I was going for," she said. "I got a real late start and I think that late start is what spurred me on. It made me want it even more."

Miss Shaw got still another chance later in the evening and made the most of it. She swims the leadoff leg on the Riverside 400-yard freestyle relay team.

Her team wound up a disappointing fourth nearly two seconds behind the winning Santa Clara Swim Club' 3:35.11, but it wasn't Miss Shaw's fault.

She got away to a great start this time and posted a :51.6 opening leg. That counts as a new American and meet record, AAU officials announced later, because rules say first legs of relay events may be considered for records.

"I really wasn't thinking about the record that time," Miss Shaw said.

Staub Stars As Suburban Sweeps Pair

Outfielder Dennis Staub, hitting like his major-league namesake Rusty, belted six hits in seven trips to the plate (including a home run) and drove in five runs to lead Suburban Auto of San Rafael to a doubleheader Sweep Saturday night.

Suburban defeated Concord, 9-4 and 11-8, in Golden Gate League softball action at Hayward Park in San Francisco, boosting its GGL record to 3-1 and over-all log to 10-4.

Staub and pitcher Morey Swarm each hit homers in the opening game. In the nightcap, Suburban surrendered four runs in the top of the first inning, but retaliated with 10 in the bottom of the frame.

Pole Vault Record Set By Isaksson

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

AUSTIN, Tex. — The world record of 18-1 set in the pole vault Saturday by Sweden's Kjell Isaksoon came under — to say the least — unusual circumstances.

Isaksson, a handsome, 24-year-old, had quite a bit going against him when he cracked the old mark of 18-0 ¼set two years ago by Chris Papanicolaou.

First as Isakkson loped down the runway in the closing moments of the 45th Texas Relays, he was looking straignt into a setting sun. And there was a strong wind blowing, which Isakkson said later was blowing crossways as he dashed toward the bar.

Then there was the vaulting pit itself. The pit was set close — seemingly dangerously close — to a chain link fence which runs around one end of Memorial Stadium.

But Isakkson said none of those factors concerned him. And apparently he was not bothered, either, by the members of the Texas Longhorn football team who clattered out on the Astroturf in preparation for a scrimmage that wound up their first week of spring training.

a 41-point first quarter. The Celtics shot an incredible 6[illegible] per cent in the first half as they had their patented fast break going at full speed.

Dave Cowens and John Havlicek each scored 26 points to pace the Celtics, who will meet the winner of the Knicks-Bullets series in the semifinals. Pete Maravich scored 37 points for Atlanta

The Knicks, who had lost seven consecutive playoff games at Baltimore, finally broke that string with a superb defensive effort. The Knicks broke the game open in the third quarter by outscoring the Bullets, 27-12.

The series shifts back to New York Tuesday afternoon.

Trout Restocking In Marin Waters

Three Marin County reservoirs — Phoenix, Lagunitas and Bon Tempe — were scheduled to be restocked with catchable size trout this week, the Department of Fish and Game announced today.

The department reminded anglers that water levels are low in many lakes and reservoirs in the state and stocking will be suspended if conditions become unsuitable for trout.

"The session has been productive in as far as clarifying an understanding of what the problems are. We are recessing so that both Mr. Miller and Mr. Gaherin can discuss developments with their principals and hopefully come back for further discussions that would lead to a solution."

The federal mediator said he was willing to meet as early as tonight with the two men either in Washington or New York to pursue settlement efforts.

Denver Defeats Indiana

DENVER (UPI) —The Denver Rockets have managed to hold their own with the Indiana Pacers on the backboards in their best-of-seven American Basketball Association quarterfinal playoff series and as a result have extended the series to the limit.

The Rockets, who were not considered a serious threat to the Pacers at the beginning of the series, evened their match at three games apiece Sunday night by whipping the Pacers, 106-99, behind the rebounding of Julius Keye and the shooting of Byron Beck.

Keye grabbed 18 rebounds as the Rockets swept the backboards, 59-44, and Beck scored 24 points to lead a balanced attack.

The deciding game in the series will be played at Indianapolis, Ind., Thursday night with the winner advancing to the Western Division finals against Utah.

In the Eastern playoffs, the New York Nets, who hold a surprising 3-2 edge over Kentucky in their best-of-seven quarterfinal series, meet the Colonels at Uniondale, N.Y., tonight, and a victory would send the Nets against the Virginia Squires in the East finals.

Indiana trailed throughout its game with Denver but drew to within three points in the final quarter only to have Beck cool the rally with a three-point play with two minutes left to play.

The Rockets got 19 points from Ralph Simpson, 16 from Dave Robisch and 15 from Larry Brown in their balanced offense. Mel Daniels led Indiana with 26 points and 23 rebounds.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

What You Might Want Done If You Have A Big Refund Coming

If you have a big refund because you are entitled to a lot of itemized deductions like taxes on your home, interest on your home, heavy medical expenses, etc., you can file a new form W-4, Schedule A, with your employer based on your 1971 tax return and your withholding for 1972 will be reduced by the amounts that you claim.

If you think this applies to you, be sure to get Schedule A, W-4, and read the nstructions carefully and complete it exactly according to the instructions and chances are your take-home pay will be increased.

If you incurred no income tax liability for 1971 and don't believe you will incur any tax liability for 1972, then you should get Form W-4 E, Withholding Exemption Certificate, read the instructions carefully, and if they apply to you complete this form exactly as per the instructions and give it to your employer.

You will not have to file an income tax return for 1972 unless your income will be at least:

Single individual, $1,700; Single individual 65 or over, $2,300; Married couple filing jointly, $2,300; Married couple, one spouse 65 or over, $2,900; Married couple, both 65 or over, $3,500; Married person filing separately, $600.

Your employer then has no option. He must discontinue withholding from your wages.

Do you have a big federal tax bill to pay this year in addition to what your employer has already withheld from your 1971 paychecks?

Withholding, at the regular rate, only covers the tax on your salary or wages and is inadequate if you have a large salary or earnings from sources not subject to withholding.

The law provides that you can agree with your employer to have him take more than the regular rate of withholding out of your paychecks so that you will have your taxes fully paid at the end of the year.

The W-4 slip you sign for your employer has a special place provided for this.

If you were short this year, then make such an agreement with your employer now so you won't be short next year.

If you are receiving a pension, you can now have the tax withheld by filing Form W-4P with the payor of the pension, stating the amount you want withheld and other information required. These forms are available at local IRS offices.

The payor of your pension will start making these deductions for withholding within three months after your request. They may start sooner if they can.

Also, you can have them deduct more than the tax on your pension so that you won't have to file an estimate at all. In other words, you can have enough deducted from your pension so that it will cover the tax on your interest, dividends and other income.

The only thing is, the withholding must be at least $5 per month and it can't be so large that it reduces the net amount of any payment you receive to less than $10. Here's a good way to save yourself the trouble of filing an estimated tax return.

Standard Oil May Test Oregon

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Standard Oil Co. may drill a test well in eastern Oregon about 80 miles north of McDermit, Nev., according to Gov. Tom McCall.

McCall told a meeting Thursday of the state Natural Resource Agency that the area is the most promising in Oregon for the discovery of oil.

Standard Oil has leases on both state and federal lands but has not yet applied to the division of state lands for a drilling permit. Such a permit will not be issued unless the state Department of Environmental quality and other agencies approve if the permit is requested on state lands.

"We are in the consideration stage, said R.W. Armstrong, division land manager for Standard. Armstrong said the site under consideration is on federal land.

The last test well drilled in Oregon was by Texaco near Prineville. No commercial amounts of oil or gas have been found in the state.

$100 Billion Goes Long Way

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you've ever wondered just how much a billion dollars is, try asking yourself how much is $100 billion.

C.I.T. Financial Corporation, which has financed that amount of business in the past 20 years, figured it out that 100 billion dollars in dollar bills would (a) reach to the moon and back 20 times, or (b) pay the cost of all new home construction started in the United States during the past three years.

If you're not home-owning happy or moon-minded, $100 billion would (c) provide $480 in cash for every man, woman and child in the United States, according to the company.

Airline Dropouts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only one in 25 girls who apply for airline stewardess jobs finally make it into the cabin, according to the Air Transport Association.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Splits, Dividend Influence Holding

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 72, single, retired, with monthly income of $360 plus interest from savings of $20,000. I hold 90 shares of McDonnell Douglas bought at $70 and now worth around $40. Should I sell same and buy a high yield utility? — J.M.

A. If you check your original total cost and divide it by the number of shares you now hold, your per share cost will be well below $70. Reason being that splits, stock dividends and the merger with Douglas Aircraft in 1967 have changed the capitalization over the years. However, since you do not state when your shares were purchased, or your total cost, I cannot give you the adjusted per share cost.

The picture at McDonnell has come into sharper focus this year, brightened by an upturn in contract awards. At Dec. 31, 1971, backlog stood at $3.4 billion with two-thirds representing commercial orders. Since the first of the year MD has been awarded a $382 million contract on a missile defense system, a $47 million order for two DC10s and a $49 million F4E Navy contract. Final quarter 1971 ended on a strong note with sales up 35 per cent year-to-year and earnings up 7 per cent. Similar improvement should be reported for the March, 1972 first quarter.

The 40 per cent annual dividend is certainly modest. However, the 3 per cent stock dividend gives you an additional 2 shares and cash in lieu of the fractional share later this month. Because of the recovery now in progress I would recommend holding shares.

Q. I hold 100 shares of Occidental Petroleum (NYSE) bought at 19¼. Do you see any chance for long-term recovery? — H.H.

A. When an issue is as far out of favor as OXY, holding becomes an exercise in patience. The 80 per cent decline in share price from the 1968 high reflects the companies vulnerable position in Lybia, which accounts for the bulk of production. Switch to investor favored Browning-Ferris (NYSE), a solid waste management concern.

Wall Street Stocks End Lower Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market closed mixed to slightly lower today under the weight of profit taking. Trading was active on the New York Stock Exchange.

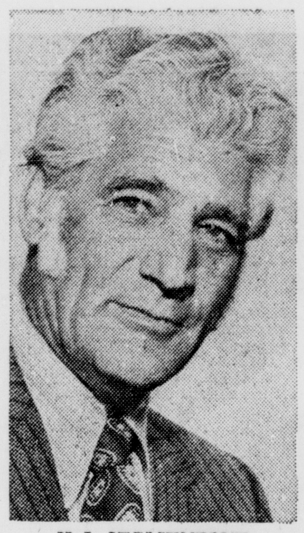
Advances and declines were almost even among the more than 1,780 issues crossing the tape.

The late selling and profit taking was normal in light of the big gains made last week when the Dow average advanced more than 21 points, analysts said.

Most analysts said the market should soon push forward because of a sudden blossoming of confidence in the economy and the technical factors working in it.

Advances led declines, 798 to 646, among the 1,753 issues crossing the tape. The four-hour turnover totaled 14,480,000 shares, compared with 13,570,000 traded during the corresponding period Friday.

Superior Oil rocketed ahead 24 points before trading was halted. It did not trade Friday.



H. L. VIGLIENZONE
Moves To 'Auto Row'

Auto Row Has New Addition

Groundbreaking and construction started this week on Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury's new plant on San Rafael's "auto row", at 475 Francisco Boulevard.

The new plant, with 22,500 square feet of floor area, will more than double the size of the present location at Third and Lincoln in downtown San Rafael.

Herk L. Viglienzone, president of Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury said he hopes to have the new sales and service building open about the first of August this year.

Viglienzone will have 22 working stalls for car servicing, some 3,000 square feet of showroom space, plus a parts department and office space. The new building will be on two acres of land, which will provide ample space for a used car area.

Viglienzone has owned Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury for the past 14 years. He provides a full leasing program in addition to sales and repair.

Marin's Answer To Import Shops Opens In San Anselmo Center

Flahive

Fenwick

Red Hill Imports, Marin's answer to Cost Plus and The Akron, held its grand opening yesterday at Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo, next to Pepperwood Coffee Shop.

Red Hill Imports, at 898 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, is operated by Russ Goodman and his wife Teri of Larkspur. Goodman was an assistant buyer with J. W. Robinson Co., a southern California chain store, and Teri formerly worked for Saks in San Francisco.

"We are competitive with stores like Cost Plus and The Akron but at the same time want our customers to walk in and feel at home," said Goodman. "If they want something we do not have, we will try to get it for them."

Red Hill Imports specializes in selected items china from England, rattan baskets, and kitchen gourmet items. The store has an earthy, homey atmosphere with bare ceiling and brick tile floor.

VILLA RAFAEL Motel at 1606 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, will get a cleanup and redecoration job under new owners.

The 45-unit motel was sold last week by Edgar Hannagan to three partners — Armand Goudy, and his son-in-law Romain Cherbero, and a cousin, Marcel Balestier, all of San Francisco. Goudy, who has been in the hotel business in San Francisco for 35 years, owns Hotel Atlanta.

Cherbero will move to Terra Linda, and Balestier will live at the Villa Rafael.

The three partners bought the motel, restaurant and bar and will operate only the motel. They leased the restaurant and bar to Anthony L. Cirelli of Burlingame. Hannagan, the former owner, will move to the Fort Bragg area to go into the bar business.

ROBERT JOHN FLAHIVE of Corte Madera has been appointed vice president in charge of the San Francisco office of The Ken Lehman Company.

The company sells advertising space for Harvard Business Review Magazine and trade publications in the 11 western states. Flahive established the office in San Francisco three years ago for his firm.

RUSSELL L. FENWICK of Novato has been promoted to vice president-planning in the San Francisco headquarters of Bank of America.

He succeeds R. Gene Conatser, who is becoming director of economic research. In his new post, Fenwick will be responsible for developing long range goals for the bank and coordinating plans of the major operating staff departments.

He has been vice president in charge of systems and equipment research since 1964.

MARKOS PAINTING and Decorating Center, a retail outlet for paints and wallpaper, has been opened at 1020 Reichert Avenue in Novato, by painting contractor Markos Perivolanis.

Perivolanis has operated his painting contracting business since 1963 at his home on Victor Court. He decided to expand into the retail business. His new store is open seven days a week.

REDWOOD EMPIRE chapter of the American Association of Nurserymen will meet tomorrow night at Nero's Restaurant in Ignacio.

The monthly meeting will start with no-host cocktails at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m. Scheduled speaker is Edward (Andy) Andersen of the Santa Rosa Press Democrat, who will discuss "Co-Op Advertising — Another Mother Lode."

Telephone Books To Be Delivered

Western California Telephone Co. will start delivery of new directories to 14,500 Novato area customers Wednesday and complete distribution in about one week, according to Gordon L. Lee, division manager.

Anyone who doesn't receive a new directory by April 21 can obtain one at the Novato business office, 1450 Grant Avenue, he said.

This year, he said, the directory will have a pink section in the middle displaying telephones and equipment available to customers.

The front cover will have a California scene, Lee said.

OFFICIAL NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR THE PURCHASE OF BONDS, EAST SAN RAFAEL DRAINAGE ASSESSMENT DISTRICT NO. 1, CITY OF SAN RAFAEL, MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENT ACT OF 1913 AND THE IMPROVEMENT BOND ACT OF 1915

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that sealed proposals will be received by the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, Marin County, California, located in the City Hall, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, at the hour of 2:00 P.M. on the 17th day of April, 1972, for the purchase of an estimated $2,200,000.00 principal amount of bonds for East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District No. 1, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California. Said bids will be publicly opened, examined and declared at said time and place. These bonds will be for an amount not to exceed $2,200,000.00. Additional bonds may or may not be offered at a later date.

These bonds are authorized to be issued, and the assessments are authorized to be levied, under the provisions of Resolution of Intension No. 3998, of the City Council of the City of San Rafael, adopted on the 18th day of January, 1971, as later amended, and proceedings subsequent thereto. The Resolution of Intention, as amended, provides with relation to said bonds as follows:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that serial bonds to represent unpaid assessments, and bearing interest at the rate of not to exceed seven per cent (7%) per annum, shall be issued herein in the manner provided in Division 10 of the Streets and Highways Code, the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, the last installment of which shall mature nineteen (19) years from the 2nd day of July next succeeding ten (10) months from their date.

MATURITIES AND AMOUNT OF BONDS: Said bids will be in the estimated amount of $2,200,000.00. All bidders, however, by submission of a bid, agree to purchase the total amount of bonds that may be issued. Bids will be calculated and award will be made on the basis of the following maturities regardless of the exact amount of the bond issue. The exact amount of the issue will be determined by subtracting from the estimated amounts stated herein the amount of assessments paid in cash during the thirty (30) day cash payment period following recordation of the assessment. The estimated maturity schedule on the bonds will be as follows:

ESTIMATED MATURITY SCHEDULE

1988	145,000.00
1989	145,000.00
1990	145,000.00
1991	145,000.00
1992	145,000.00
TOTAL	$2,200,000.00

NOTE: Bonds maturing in the years 1973 through 1977 are in $5,000.00 denominations. In the years 1978 through 1992, inclusive, the first five bonds maturing each year will be in $1,000.00 denominations and the balance of the bonds will be in $5,000.00 denominations.

DATE OF BONDS AND INTEREST RATE: Bonds are to be dated the 2nd day of June, 1972, and will bear interest from said date. Interest rate is fixed in the Resolution of Intention, as amended, at not to exceed seven per cent (7%) per annum. Such interest shall be evidenced by coupons attached to each bond, and each of said coupons shall represent six months' interest on the bond to which it is attached, except the first coupon will be for interest from June 2, 1972, to January 2, 1973.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: Said bonds are authorized to be issued by the City Council of the City of San Rafael, Marin County, California, by Resolution of Intention No. 3998, as amended, and proceedings subsequent thereto. The purpose is for the construction of storm drainage facilities, street improvements, sanitary sewers, the construction of a levee and all appurtenances thereto. These improvements are within the boundaries of the assessment district designated, "East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District No. 1, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California", and reference for details is made to the proceedings for the formation and completion of said assessment district.

PAYMENT: Both principal and interest are payable in lawful money of the United States at the office of the Marin County Treasurer, Civic Center Building, San Rafael, California.

Legal Notice

CALLABLE BONDS: All bonds are callable pursuant to the provisions of the Improvement Bond Act of 1915 twice each year. No bonds may be called except on July 2 or January 2, and there must be a sixty day notice of call. Any bond called will have interest to date of call and a premium of five per cent (5%) of the principal amount.

AUTHORITY FOR ISSUANCE: Said bonds were authorized to be issued by the proceedings in said assessment district, and said assessment district was organized and consummated under the provisions of the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 and bonds provided to be issued under the Improvement Bond Act of 1915 of the State of California.

SECURITY: Said bonds are payable from the redemption fund provided by law which is secured by all of the unpaid assessments within the boundaries of said district. Said bonds are further secured by a limited guarantee on the part of the entity which issued said bonds. Under the provisions of the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, any real property on which the owners have failed to pay installments of assessments as they fall due is sold for delinquencies by the City in the same manner as real property is sold for delinquent taxes. It is the duty of the City of San Rafael to bid such property in at such tax sale. It then becomes the duty of the City to transfer to the Redemption Fund the amount of the purchase. In the event there is not sufficient money in the General Fund to transfer this amount into the Redemption Fund, it becomes the mandatory duty of the City to levy a tax up to 10c on each $100.00 of assessed valuation of property within the boundaries of the City of San Rafael sufficient in amount to pay for the delinquencies. It becomes the continuing duty of the City, throughout the life of the bond issue, to levy such a tax and to pay for the installments upon property sold to the City for delinquencies. The maximum levy which the City is obligated to make in any one year is 10c on each $100.00 of assessed valuation. The assessed valuation of all taxable real property in the City of San Rafael for the fiscal year 1971/72 is the sum of $153,660,614.00. Ten cents on the $100.00 would therefore raise, in the City of San Rafael, the sum of $153,660.00.

LEGAL OPINION: The legal opinion of the law firm of Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglass & Anderson, 1322 Webster St., Oakland, California 94612, approving the validity of said bonds will be furnished to the successful bidder without charge. In the opinion of Counsel, interest on the bonds is exempt from all federal income taxes, and from State of California personal income taxes, under presently existing statutes, regulations and court decisions, and the bonds are also exempt from all California taxes except inheritance, gift and franchise taxes.

HIGHEST BID: Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates not exceeding seven per cent (7%) per annum in multiples of 1/8 or 1/20 of one per cent (1%). Each bidder must specify in his bid the amount and maturities of the bonds of each rate and all bonds maturing on the same date must bear interest at the same rate. No bid may name more than four interest rates, any of which may be repeated. No rate may be more than one and one-half per cent (1½%) higher than the lowest rate named in the bid. The interest payable on any bond on any interest payment date may, however, be represented by one or more coupons. A zero rate cannot be named for all or any of the time from the date of the bond to its stated maturity and the premium, if any, must be paid in the funds specified for payment of the bonds as part of the purchase price. No bid for less than 99% of par and accrued interest or for less than all of the bonds offered will be entertained. Unless all bids are rejected, the bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose proposal results in the lowest net interest cost to the issuer, and the net interest cost will be determined by deducting the amount of any premium paid from the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds from their date until their respective maturities.

RIGHT OF REJECTION: The City of San Rafael reserves the right at its discretion to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid. Any bid must be in strict conformity with this Official Notice Inviting Bids, and without any qualification.

PROMPT AWARD: The City of San Rafael will take action awarding the bonds or rejecting all bids not later than forty-eight (48) hours after expiration of the time herein prescribed for the receipt of proposals.

PROMPT DELIVERY: Delivery of the bonds will be made to the successful bidder at the office of the City Treasurer of the City of San Rafael, City Hall, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, as soon as the bonds can be prepared, but not earlier than the date of said bonds. Successful bidder, by making a bid, agrees to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within forty-eight (48) hours after notification by City that the bonds are ready for delivery, but bidder is not obligated to take delivery earlier than the date of the bonds. The successful bidder shall have the right at his option to cancel his offer to purchase if the bonds are not tendered for delivery within 45 days from the date of the bonds.

FORM OF BID: All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds herein offered for sale. Each bid, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, and endorsed, "Proposal for Bonds, East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District No. 1, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California."

BID CHECK: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $25,000.00 drawn on a bank or trust company transacting business in the State of California, payable to the order of the City of San Rafael to secure the City of San Rafael from any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. Checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned by mail upon the award of the bonds. Check of successful bidder will be credited upon the purchase price of the bonds, and no interest will be paid upon the deposit of any successful bidder. Check of the successful bidder will be forfeited to City if the bidder fails to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within the time provided for in this notice as liquidated damages.

NO-LITIGATION CERTIFICATE: The City of San Rafael will furnish to the successful bidder, at the time of the delivery of the bonds, a no-litigation certificate, certifying that there is no controversy or litigation pending or threatened concerning the validity of the bonds.

DATED: April 3, 1972.

One Count In Gunfight Is Dropped

A Marin Municipal Court judge has dismissed a felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon against an 18-year-old Tamalpais Hgh School student said to have been involved in a gunfight near the school March 25.

After hearing witnesses during a preliminary hearing, Judge Peter Allen Smith ruled Friday that David Spaulding of Sausalito had fired in self defense during the midmorning gunplay across Miller Avenue in Mill Valley.

The judge, however, continued the case to Thursday so that an amended charge could be filed.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter Evans said Spaulding still will face a misdemeanor charge of carrying a loaded gun, but a second misdemeanor, carrying a concealed weapon, will be dropped because witnesses yesterday said the gun was visible in his waistband.

The other youth involved in the gunplay is charged in Juvenile court since he is only 17. His name has been withheld by order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

No one was injured in the duel which police said stemmed from damage done to Spaulding's car.

SHADES OF TAMMANY HALL IN NOVATO??

In a recent paid political advertisement appearing in the Novato Advance, Arnold Baptiste and Wayne Sartain publically supported 3 of the 11 candidates aspiring to the public office of the City Council in the city of Novato. There is nothing wrong with Arnold Baptiste and Wayne Sartain, as private citizens publically supporting any candidates.

However, it seems as though some of the old Tammany Hall tactics are being exercised in our little city of Novato, when Arnold Baptiste, as Supervisor and Wayne Sartain, as City Councilman exercise the power of their office in supporting any candidate, especially when their office is supported by public funds and their salary derived therefrom.

I firmly believe that Supervisor, Arnold Baptiste and City Councilman Wayne Sartain are usurping the power of their office to dictate to the citizens of Novato, as to whom they should or should not vote for in this or any Municipal Election.

I further believe that these individuals are attempting to set a precedent in their dictates so as to put themselves in a position at any future time to name individuals to public office regardless of qualifications.

Isn't this a beautiful way to pay off a political debt?

NOVATO NEEDS RUEGG FOR COUNCILMAN

FRED RUEGG is retired with full time to devote to in depth research to obtain the facts necessary to make sound decision for the community.

FRED RUEGG is old enough to have experience and judgment yet young enough to have energy and imagination to search out the practical and possible solutions to Novato's problems.

FRED RUEGG is concerned about the environment, growth, planning and taxes. It is easy to say limit growth, protect the environment, pave the streets, etc., but in so doing, will Mr. Joe Citizen have to leave Novato because taxes are too high, leaving only the very affluent?

FRED RUEGG has the ability to make decisions that will preserve a maximum of the qualities of life we all cherish with the least intrusion on the individual right of all our citizens.

FOR PLANNED, BALANCED GROWTH AND MAXIMUM PRESERVATION OF OUR ENVIRONMENT, ALL WITH THE LOWEST POSSIBLE TAX LOAD:

REDUCE! WITH OUR Guaranteed RESULTS

Gloria Marshall says:

LOOK 10 YEARS YOUNGER FOR Mother's Day

Every woman wants to look a little younger, and she can, by losing those aging pounds and inches. Start now at Gloria Marshall's and you will be amazed at how quickly you will notice the results.

The face and figure transformation of Pat Chad

ALL PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN IN THE SALON

ALSO NOTE THE DRAMATIC CHANGE IN FACIAL FEATURES

(photo 3) In record time she has lost 63 lbs., and 55 inches . . . has gone from a dress size 24-1/2 to a 14 and is well on her way to her perfect dress size . . . a 12.

Pat says, "I tried everything to lose weight, but nothing worked. Now, thanks to Gloria Marshall, I am able to shop for and buy clothes in colors and styles I was never able to wear before. Believe me, when you wear a size 24-1/2, you have no choice!"

GLORIA MARSHALL'S GUARANTEED REDUCING METHOD

1 THE GLORIA MARSHALL GUARANTEE: Tell us the dress size you want to be. We will then analyze your figure and tell you exactly the number of inches you need to lose. We are so sure of your results that we Guarantee in writing that if your measurements are not as promised, you may continue your treatments at no charge until your goal is reached.

2 HOW THE GLORIA MARSHALL SYSTEM WORKS: On your first visit, for which there is no charge or obligation, you will receive a complete demonstration and sample treatment. You will be weighed and measured (this does not require disrobing) and a trained specialist will analyze your figure and prepare a personalized program for you.

3 Gloria Marshall's is not a spa or gym. The Gloria Marshall system is designed for the busy, modern woman. Many working women find the salon a more rewarding way of spending their lunch hours. Mothers and grandmothers enjoy the relaxing, almost effortless way of reducing, also, the added benefit of increased circulation and energy.

4 QUICKLY, SAFELY, LOSE WEIGHT. Our modern reducing machines help you firm and tone while you quickly and safely lose unwanted pounds and inches, without strenuous exercise, starvation diets or dangerous drugs.

Just call the Gloria Marshall Salon nearest you for your FREE personalized figure analysis. There is no obligation.

STILL ONLY $2.00 PER TREATMENT

✓ NO MEMBERSHIPS ✓ NO DISROBING
✓ NO STRENUOUS EXERCISES . . .

HAIL, HAIL, THE GANG'S AT HAMILTON

Planes and people covered the flight line at Hamilton Air Force Base yesterday as a record crowd, estimated at 60,000 by base officials, turned out to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Air Force. (Other photos, page 8.) Observers reported Highway 101 traffic in the base area was lined up north and south in the early afternoon prior to the feature attraction of the day, a demonstration by the Thunderbirds, precision flying team.

B52s Hit Key Port In North

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52s guided by precision radar dumped tons of explosives today on Communist supply areas on the outskirts of the North Vietnamese coastal city of Vinh, 145 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), military sources reported.

It was the furthest the B52s have ever penetrated in North Vietnam and the first time they have struck targets north of the DMZ in four years. They have steered clear of the north until now because of the Surface-to-Air (SAM) missiles to which they are vulnerable.

North Vietnam has sent thousands of troops across the border into South Vietnam and pilots flying over North Vietnam have reported long lines of tanks, supply trucks and more and more anti-aircraft guns and missile launchers strung out along Highway 1 north of the DMZ.

U.S. 7th Fleet destroyers and cruisers moved close inshore to bombard Communist concentrations with their naval rifles and missiles, and the U.S. command said two destroyers were hit by Communist shore batteries. No casualties were reported.

The military sources sid the B52 strikes were ordered personally by President Nixon as part of the retaliatory air strikes against the invasion into Quang Tri Province in the extreme northeastern section of South Vietnam. Monsoon rain and clouds prevented fighter-bombers from hitting the target areas today.

Vinh, capital of Nghe Province, is the birthplace of Ho Chi Minh, the late North Vietnamese president who fought for 20 years to "liberate" all of Indochina. It is North Vietnam's second most important port after Haiphong and pilots said it was jammed with war material.

Before today's B52 strike U.S. Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers had pounded the SAM sites in hundreds of raids. The military sources said the decision to send B52s against Vinh indicated the smaller fighter-bombers had been successful in eliminating the SAM threat.

None of the B52s has been downed by a SAM yet but one was damaged this weekend by shrapnel from an exploding SAM over Quang Tri Province and landed safetly at Da Nang.

Dispatches from Quang Tri today said a Communist tank attack had been beaten back with heavy losses after it drove to within a mile of Quang Tri City, but in the south, just to the northwest of Saigon, North Vietnamese forces captured another district capital.

Military sources said South Vietnamese troops withdrew from Bo Duc, 85 miles northwest of Saigon, under intense Communist pressure. Bo Duc is five miles northeast of abandoned Loc Ninh, and a flareup of fighting there indicated more Communist troops had poured across the border from Cambodia.

Earthquake Buries Thousands In Iran

Deaths May Total 4,000 In 250 Mile Long Area

TEHRAN (UPI) — A cataclysmic earthquake struck southern Iran today, leveling the crude adobe farming huts in dozens of villages and burying thousands of people in the rubble. A witness said it hit "like the end of the world on Judgment Day."

Manouchet Pirouz, Governor General of Fars Province where the earthquake struck along a 250-mile long area, said between 2,000 and 4,000 persons were killed and perhaps more. The area is about 610 miles south of Tehran.

(In Rockville, Md., the National Earthquake Information Center said the quake registered 7.0 on the open-ended Richter Scale but witnesses from the area said the quake had an intensity measure of 9.5, which would be one of the heaviest on record.)

Helicopter rescue teams flew to the area and began pulling bodies from beneath the debris. The Shah of Iran ordered six army planes to the area and sent his brother, Prince Mahmoud Reza, to the province to assist in relief operations.

"This was a disaster no one could ever imagine," one witness who returned from the scene said. "It was just like the end of the world on Judgment Day."

"We saw a woman with two of her children in her arms being pulled out dead from under rubble," the witness said. "There was even a woman who had just delivered a child. It was a gruesome sight."

Officials said most of the dead were women and children left behind in their homes as their men went to the fields before dawn.

The quake struck at 5:37 a.m. local time (9:07 p.m. EST Sunday.)

Initial rescue reports said at least five villages were almost totally razed by the quake. They included Karezin, Ghir, Hengam, Mobarakhad and Tange-Roum.

The hardest hit villages were mostly adobe and straw hut farming hamlets. The quakes was felt in larger towns and cities but damage was less because of the stronger structure of the buildings.

Witnesses said farmers who felt the quake in the hills rushed back to the villages to find their whole families lying dead beneath their collapsed homes.

"Men were crying like little kids," one witness said. "Some groans were heard from injured women and children still alive."

Marin, S. Sonoma Voters Make Choices Tomorrow

Marin and Southern Sonoma voters will settle 33 nonpartisan contests for municipal office in 12 cities tomorrow. Also on the ballot will be bond issues in Mill Valley and Rohnert Park, a Sausalito park plan referendum and a Fairfax zoning controversy.

In unincorporated Lucas Valley, residents will vote on a bond issue proposed to acquire open space.

San Rafael and Petaluma, both charter cities, will not have municipal elections tomorrow.

Polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Election results will be tallied at precincts, then reported to the county elections departments. Paper ballots rather than the computer-counted punchcard ballots will be used, probably resulting in a long night of counting in cities where there are many council candidates.

Here is how the election contests shape up for the various cities:

BELVEDERE — Five candidates for three city council seats.

CORTE MADERA — Five candidates for two city council seats.

FAIRFAX — Nine candidates for three council seats; three candidates for treasurer. Fairfax citizens will also decide whether the 23.5-acre Marin Town and Country Club, threatened with apartment development, should be rezoned to preserve it for park and open space use.

LARKSPUR — Seven candidates for three council seats.

MILL VALLEY — Six candidates for three council seats, plus a $275,000 bond issue intended to build a new fire station in East Mill Valley.

NOVATO — Eleven candi-

Bay Suspect Walks Into FBI's Arms

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—A tall, husky man inadvertantly walked into the arms of FBI agents Sunday night after he allegedly attempted to hijack a Pacific Southwest Airlines Boeing 727 following a formula nearly identical to one used by a hijacker two days earlier.

FBI agents subdued the would-be hijacker at Lindbergh International Airport here after he startled authorities by agreeing to leave the aircraft to pick up himself maps and weather information he had de-

Hijack Money Found In Suspect's Home

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The FBI today announced recovery of $499,970 in the home of the sky-diving college student held for the hijacking of a United Air Lines jet last week.

The disclosure came in a list submitted by the FBI to the U.S. magistrate on the results of a Sunday search of the Provo, Utah,home of Richard Floyd McCoy Jr., 29, a Vietnam veteran majoring in law enforcement at Brigham Young University.

Agents had dug up McCoy's backyard during the search, but the money was found in a box taken from his brick home. Among other items reported seized at the home were:

—A green military-type flight suit with two aerial flare cartridges in the pockets, and a second flight suit.

—A blue and white parachute with red trim and a black parachute harness.

—Two helmets, one crash type and one military jump style.

—A pistol and holster and clothing, which were in the box with the money.

—Two electric typewriters and a brown striped sport coat.

The UAL hijacker was given a $500,000 ransom in the escapade which started Friday over Colorado and included a landing in San Francisco and a bail-out over Provo.

FBI agents took four boxes and two suitcases from the McCoy home Sunday, saying they had "evidence" but refused to disclose if the money had been found.

McCoy taught Sunday School last year for the Mormon church, and a teen-age student

$3.5 Million Claim In Moratorium

Berkeley developer Edward R. Fitzsimmons and four co-owners of 162 acres on Wolfback Ridge have filed a claim for $3.6 million against the City of Sausalito.

Fitzsimmons, who has been seeking city approval of a development on the property for two years, said he planned to file a claim for damages against the city after the Sausalito City Council declared on March 28 a moritorium on subdivisions until April 29, 1973.

During that meeting City Atty. Leland H. Jordan told the council the city cannot declare a piece of property open space without compensating the owners for their land.

Fitzsimmons and his partners, his wife Elizabeth, Frank W. Lynch and his wife, Ellenora C. Lynch and Dorothea Melchers, claim the $3.5 million represents a fair market value for the land and $100,000 has Carrier Midway Leaves — For Asia?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The aircraft carrier Midway moved out of San Francisco Bay today apparently departing for Asian waters.

A spokesman at the 12th Naval District in Alameda refused to disclose the carrier's exact destination on grounds that "disclosure of troop movements" was top secret.

New Voter Registrants Total 154 After 'Hyde Park At Pepperland'

By JAY GOODWIN

Start with a new voter registration drive at Pepperland; add half a dozen rock bands, assorted singers and an improvisational theatre group; line the walls with booths for candidates and special interest groups; sprinkle the hall with orating politicians atop Carnation milk cartons; and what do you have?

You have the "Hyde Park at Pepperland" voter registration drive, which attracted about 1,000 teen-agers to the San Rafael dance hall Saturday afternoon.

Representatives from every conceivable cause and campaign turned out to speak with the young voters, distribute literature, hawk a button or two and, perhaps, grab some new recruits. (See photo, page 9.)

When it was all over 154 new voters had registered. Of these, 115 signed up as Democrats, 16 as Republicans, and 14 declined to state a party affiliation.

The total fell far short of an optimistic guess, early in the day, by Peter Meyer, county elections officer.

"I'm looking for 1,000 new voters," he said. "But from all indications, these young people are no more interested in elections than their parents." It seemed to be more important to them that they get the privilege of voting, rather than actually using the priviledge."

Betty Sturz, a coordinator for the all-day event, detected a "latent enthusiasm" for politics among young people. "A lot of them would like to register as non-partisans," she said. "But when they learn that they have to join a party to vote in the primaries, they sign up with the parties. As soon as they learn about the issues that are on the ballot along with all the candidates, they become very interested."

In mock local and national elections, Sen. George McGovern outpolled all his rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination with 58 votes. Runner-up was Shirley Chisolm with 26 votes.

Throughout the day, candidates for the Legislature, county board of supervisors and Congress hopped up on one of five Hyde Park styled "soap boxes" placed throughout the hall. From one to fifty people gathered around the speakers

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

New Treaty Started

GENEVA (UPI) — Legal experts began work today on a new space treaty which would ban use of the moon for military purposes.

Such a treaty was proposed by the Soviet Union at the last meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

The 28-nation legal subcommittee of the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space, is drawing up the terms of the accord. The 11th session which began today lasts until May 5.

Most delegates were confident that agreement will be reached although they said the drafting of legal articles and later approval by the major committee and the General Assembly probably will take two to three years.

Donation Dryer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new law that requires public disclosure of political contributions to federal campaigns probably will "dry up" single donations of $50,000 or more, according to Herbert Alexander.

Alexander, author of the book "Money in Politics," helped write the regulations for implementing the Federal Election Campaign Act that took effect Friday. It limits the amount of money that can be spent by candidates for Congress, president and vice president and requires candidates to reveal the names and occupations of contributors.

Alexander said that if the law had been in effect last year, International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.'s offer to contribute between $100,000 and $600,000 to the Republican National Convention would have been disclosed.

Ex-Virginia Gov. Battle Dies

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — John S. Battle, 81, governor of Virginia from 1950 to 1954, died yesterday in a nursing home. He had been ill for two years and suffered a stroke last Friday.

Battle

Battle, who called his education program his greatest contribution to the Commonwealth, is to be buried in Monticello Memorial Park today.

Shortly after his inauguration in 1950, his program, called the "Battle Fund," was passed by the General Assembly, where he had been a member for 20 years.

Virginia built and improved classroom facilities for more than 135,000 students during Battle's term.

After leaving office, he practiced law for several years, and served in the late 1950s as a member of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

Hunters Grounded

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Airborne polar bear hunters have been grounded for good by the Alaska Fish and Game Board which banned hunting the big white bears from the air.

The new regulation passed Saturday bans using aircraft in any manner as an aid in taking polar bears or in transporting the animals' hides or parts.

"The public is sick and tired of what's been happening in the aerial hunting of polar bears and it's time the Fish and Game Board took action to remedy the situation," said Board Chairman Oscar Syson.

Gallo Mourned

NEW YORK (UPI) — The young widow of Mafia figure Joseph "Crazy Joe" Gallo sat in stunned silence alongisde his polished metal casket Sunday as mourners paid their last respects and quickly left the funeral home.

Plainclothes officers outside kept a close watch on everyone who entered the Guido Funeral Home, not far from Gallo's South Brooklyn headquarters.

Gallo, gunned down early Friday while celebrating his 43rd birthday in a restaurant in the "Little Italy" section, was to be buried today in Greenwood Cemetery after a service at the funeral home.

Iraq-Soviet Pact

BEIRUT (UPI) — Iraq has allied itself with a major power for the first time since it pulled out of the Western Baghdad Pact 14 years ago and adopted a left-leaning neutrality. Its new ally is the Soviet Union.

Under the green dome of the grandiose Republican Palace in Baghdad, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Iraqi President Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr signed a document Sunday that linked their nations in a 15-year treaty of friendship and cooperation.

Kosygin ended his five-day official visit to Iraq today and returned to Moscow.

Insurance Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Commerce Committee meets this week to decide what to do — if anything — about reforming auto insurance.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., planned to press for adoption of their national no-fault insurance bill.

But even if their proposal overcomes stiff opposition by the administration, much of the insurance industry and a powerful segment of the legal profession, the bill stands little chance of becoming law this year.

Under the Hart-Magnuson bill, accident victims would be compensated for their injuries and their lost income by the insurance company covering the vehicle in which they were riding or which struck them.

Johnson Improved

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Dr. J. Willis Hurst said Sunday that Lyndon B. Johnson is showing "some signs of improvement" xut added that the former president's heart has suffered "permanent damage."

The heart specialist, however, said that it was safe for him to leave Johnson's bedside and return to his duties at Emory University in Atlanta.

Hurst treated Johnson, 63, after his first heart attack in 1955 and flew here Friday when the second occurred.

"Now is a safe time to go. Otherwise I would not go," Hurst said. He said Johnson's condition was "satisfactory with some signs of improvement."

Hurst stood by his prognosis of an 80 per cent chance of recovery for the former president.

James F. Byrnes Succumbs At 92

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI)— Flags flew at half staff at the White House and state buildings today in memory of James Francis Byrnes, one of the nation's most versatile and honored statesmen. He died at his home Sunday at 92.

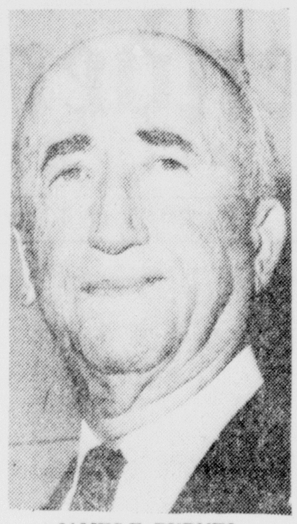
The body of the former Supreme Court justice, "assistant president," secretary of state and governor was to lie in state at the rotunda of the statehouse for 24 hours preceeding noon services Wednesday.

Byrnes, hospitalized three times in recent years, had been in declining health during the past few months. He died at 1:30 p.m. Sunday with his wife Maude and his private nurse at his side.

Byrnes served as "assistant president" under Franklin D. Roosevelt and was a key figure in mobilizing the nation for World War II and negotiating postwar treaties.

Byrnes had been named to the U. S. Supreme Court by Roosevelt in 1941 but a year later became head of the Office of Economic Stabilization at the President's request. In 1943 he shifted to head the war mobilization office and was dubbed "assistant president for the home front."

The short and dapper Byrnes was born May 2, 1879, a child of a recently-widowed mother at Charleston, S. C. He dropped out of school at 14 to help support his mother and launched his public career as a small-town prosecutor after teaching himself law.



JAMES F. BYRNES
Versatile statesman

He was elected to the House in 1910 and moved to the Senate in 1930, where his friendship with Roosevelt, then governor of New York, prospered.

Shortly after Roosevelt died, Byrnes became secretary of state under President Harry Truman, a post he held for 567 days filled with travel to 10 international conferences, numerous confrontations with the Russians and tough peace treaty negotiations.

Byrnes was secretary of state when the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan, and attended the Potsdam conference with Truman.

Sen. Hughes Admits He Has Smoked Marijuana

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, a member of the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, said Sunday that he had tried marijuana while in the Army during World War II and that "it had absolutely no effect on me."

"Marijuana is not new and it is used, as most Americans do not realize, by many business people, by many prominent people in America who suffer no ill effects from it," Hughes said.

"I think a part of the pain of what we are doing today is the fact that it is forcing us to review our total drug consumption, including alcohol, and that is very difficult for many of us to do."

Hughes, a former alcoholic, is chairman of the Senate Special subcommittee on alcoholism and narcotics. In its recent controversial report, the Marijuana Commission recommended a policy of discouragement by the government along with further liberalization of laws governing possession and use, but not sale of marijuana.

Hughes said that "for one simple reason" he endorsed that position.

"I don't want to unleash in our society another intoxicant that may or may not have the effects alcohol has had in our society," he said. "In fact, I'd like to see a policy of discouragement adopted in relation to alcohol because of the devastating effects that it has."

Scott Link To Scandal 'Rubbish'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott says any attempt to link him to a housing scandal here is "absolute rubbish."

The Philadelphia Sunday Inquirer, in a copyrighted story, said Scott helped Theodore Clearfield, a real estate broker and speculator convicted of fraud, to regain mortgage guarantees from the Federal Housing Authority (FHA) and the Veterans Administration (VA).

Clearfield's VA backing was suspended after his fraud conviction in 1962. His FHA license was not suspended until 1969, because the FHA was not notified of the VA suspension until that year, the Inquirer said.

The newspaper said Scott interceded in Clearfield's behalf following the FHA suspension, and both the VA and FHA licenses were reinstated later in 1969.

Scott said, "The attempt to implicate me in a housing scandal is absolute rubbish."

One of Scott's administrative assistants in Washington said Clearfield dealt directly with the VA.

The Inquirer said Scott wrote a letter in 1969 to Robert C. Coons, assistant director of the VA's loan guarantee division in Washington.

According to the Inquirer, Scott's letter referred to the "unfortunate circumstances" involved in Clearfield's 1962 conviction and stated, "I would appreciate your favorable consideration of having his name removed from the present restriction, if you feel this can properly be done."

Catholic Ultimatum Issued To Britain

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—The Roman Catholic civil rights movement today gave Britain 20 days to meet its demands or face "massive and nonviolent opposition."

A spokesman for the Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association told a news conference the association would consider defying a British ban and resuming the marches and demonstrations that have caused violence here.

Kevin McCorry, press officer for the association, said Britain must free interned Catholics, pull its troops off the streets where they are searching for Irish Republican Army (IRA) gunmen, and give Catholics the same civil rights Englishmen have in England.

"If at the end of this month there are no real moves toward the ending of internment, withdrawing troops to barracks and creating democracy in the north, then we will have no alternative but to lead the people again in massive and nonviolent opposition to continuing tyranny', he said.

McCorrq joined the city's Catholic bishops in condemning the violence of the IRA.

But he said Britain's abolition of the Protestant dominated Northern Ireland Parliament and imposition of direct British rule had failed to bring any real progress toward peace and justice.

In one violent incident Sunday, six youths and two young women dragged a five-months pregnant Catholic housewife from her Belfast home, beat her with sticks, coated her with red paint and feathers and strapped her to a lampost, police said.

Rappa's Views On Sausalito Police Flap

The comments of Leonard Rappa, candidate for Sausalito City Council, were accidently omitted from a report in Saturday's Independent-Journal presenting the views of candidates on the Sausalito Police Department.

Rappa had this to day:

"From my personal experience, I think the police are doing a good job, although I've heard complaints from many people that they are getting citations they feel they don't deserve. As an attorney I was not terribly upset by the (grand) jury report because I knew the department had no opportunity to present its side to the jury or cross-examine witnesses.

"But the charges made by former Officer Michaelsen of falsified reports are very serious and, if true, constitute conspiracy and criminal fraud."

(San Rafael policeman Richard C. Michaelsen, a former Sausalito officer, spoke out against department policies in a letter to the Sausalito City Council and has charged the department falsified reports.)

"An immediate investigation is needed and I think the council's investigating committee should include representatives from each of Sausalito's five geographical neighborhoods," Rappa said.

Chile stretches for 2,600 miles along South America's western coast.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Bay Area Air Pollution Control District has cited the Standard Oil Co. as a 10-time violator of antismog regulations.

McCOY

he had said "all he ever talked about was sin." McCoy, who told classmates at Brigham Young University that he "wanted to make his dent on the world by uncovering organized crime," was held without bail at Salt Lake County jail.

He was arraigned Sunday on charges of air piracy and interfering with an airline crew member. U.S. Magistrate A. M. Ferro declined to grant bail because of the seriousness of the crime, which carries a maximum penalty of death.

McCoy was accused of hijacking the United Air Lines 727 with 96 persons aboard over Colorado Friday and forcing it to land in San Francisco. The hijacker, who carried two guns, a grenade and plastic explosives, allowed 91 passengers to leave the plane after the airline paid $500,000 ransom. Then he allegedly forced the pilot to fly over Provo, about 40 miles south of here, where he bailed out with the suitcases full of money.

A casual conversation with a friend about skyjacking and the concern of his sister-in-law over his absence from home Friday evening turned suspicion on McCoy, the FBI reported.

The friend, Utah Highway Patrolman Robert Van Ieperen, said McCoy talked to him a few weeks ago about how a successful hijack could be pulled off.

The FBI, in a complaint filed with Ferro, said McCoy's handwriting was "identical" with the printing on a note retained by a stewardess during the hijacking and that a passenger on the plane had identikied the suspect's picture as that of the skyjacker.

McCoy appeared tired but unruffled during his appearance before the magistrate. His only comment to newsmen about the arraignment was: "It's embarrassing, let's face it."

McCoy was described by both friends and neighbors as an unassuming man living with his wife, Karen, a Welfare Department employe; and their daughter, Chante, 5, and son, Richard, 2, in a small brown brick house a few blocks from the BYU campus.

His major at BYU was law enforcement and his goal was to become a lawman who would "make his dent on the world by uncovering organized crime." A classmate called him an "organized crime freak" who wanted to break up the Mafia.

His hobbies were flying and parachuting. An instructor at a skydiving center where McCoy had made 30 to 40 jumps described him as an "inexperienced" diver who had never made a night jump.

District Board Meeting Tonight

The Dixie School District board, meeting at 8 p.m. today, will hear a report on reducing the teaching staff.

The district has 14 more teachers than positions for next year, and a lottery has been scheduled for April 19 to determine seniority of those teachers who started work on the same day.

Board members will also receive the initial wage proposal from the Dixie Teachers Association, calling for a salary schedule increase of 3.6 per cent, at an estimated cost of $77,000 to the district.

The board will consider spending $2,300 for timber form playground equipment at the Dixie School, $900 for softball backstops at both Dixie and Oak View schools and $800 for an extension of encing at the Santa Margarita School.

'World Affairs' Session Tonight

The College of Marin will open a six-part series on "World Affairs" tonight with a lecture by political science professor Dorothy Ritchie on "President Nixon's Peace Proposal."

All lectures will begin at 8 p.m. at the Tamalpais Retirement Center, Greenbrae. There will be an admission charge.

Upcoming topics include the President's economic policies, primary and presidential elections, the Middle East crisis and American foreign policy.

Controversial Developments Will Be Aired

The Corte Madera Planning Commission, meeting today at 7:30 p.m., will discuss two controversial developments, both now located on unincorporated land which will be annexed to the city.

Because of their location, neither the Madera del Presidio development on Highway 101 nor John Ribiero's Tamal Vista Boulevard project come under the jurisdiction of the city planning staff. Both will have "courtesy public hearings."

The Madera del Presidio project has sparked threats of a Corte Madera referendum, and the Tamal Vista Boulevard project has raised the ire of adjoining property owners.

VOTERS

— four or five at a time — for short talks and the question-and-answer periods which usually followed.

Unlike the orators in London's Hyde Park, however, the Pepperland candidates were neither heckled nor cheered.

The small clusters of teenagers remained polite and attentive but essentially unmoved.

Allan D. French, a congressional candidate from the 6th District, reacted to the format like most other candidates.

"I love these soap boxes," he said enthusiastically. "You can get down and really talk intimately with a small group of people. Sure, some of them don't understand the more technical aspects of what I've said, but they can make a judgement about whether or not I'm honest or trustworthy."

Thomas T. Storer, an independent candidate for the same seat, was the only speaker to express displeasure with the soap box format.

"My job as a candidate is to get my ideas across to as many people as I can," he said. "I didn't like the soap boxes because there were 400 people in the hall when I stood up I only reached 15 of them."

James Dougan, supervisorial candidate in the 4th district, looked a bit uncomfortable atop his red milk carton. After his audience of a dozen listeners broke up, he revealed, "This kind of thing is completely new to me. But it has its place. An event like this exposes youth to divergent points of view. I'm for it."

The young people listened to the political appeals and cheerfully accepted the literature they were handed, but were obviously more interested in the music. Clover, Alice Stuart and Sanke, Frank Biner Band, and Wiffen Puff were the day's attractions. Along with folksingers Betsy Chapman and Rita Abrams, and The Wing improvisational theatre, they kept the crowds entertained all afternoon.

The event was sponsored by the New Voter Education Coordinating Council of Marin, an umbrella organization that comprises about a dozen local civic groups. The council began planning Saturday's activities in December.

Pepperland was rented for $390 and other expenses were less than $400. All of the entertainment was provided voluntarily.

Amidst the booths, and milling people, and homemade crafts and literature-strewn floors, it could be heard: "This is really fun, we should do it more often."

Ross Trustee To Take Budget Look

Ross School District board, meeting today at 7:45 p.m. in the school library will discuss a $635,000 budget proposed for next school year by Supt. Thomas A. Anderson.

It will also meet in closed session to instruct Anderson on teacher requests for a 5.5 per cent salary increase and other benefits totaling between $29,000 and $54,000.

manded for a flight toward Miami.

"He doesn't appear to be the smartest hijacker I've heard of," one official said.

The FBI identified him as Stanley Harlan Speck, 31, of San Francisco. Police there said a man by that name was on two years probation for a disorderly conduct conviction in January.

The hijacker commandeered the jet shortly before its landing here as flight 942 from Oakland, and demanded four parachutes and $500,000.

The suspect, wearing Navy-type blue fatigues and with blond hair reaching to his shoulders, was apprehended as he walked down the ramp a few minutes after the 85 passengers aboard were released.

Authorities said the hijacker claimed to be armed with a pistol and a hand grenade and initially communicated to the crew only through notes, as a hijacker had done aboard a United Airlines jet commandeered Friday. In both instances $500,000 and parachutes were demanded.

PSA officials said a stewardess and at least one passenger saw the hijacker enter a restroom in the rear of the plane about 15 minutes before its scheduled landing. When he emerged, he handed the stewardess a note announcing the hijack and stating his demands for the parachutes and ransom.

The stewardess carried the note to Capt. Arthur Steck of San Diego, who radioed the hijacker's demands ahead.

Airline officials, working with the FBI, replied that they did not have that much cash on hand and it would be difficult to assemble on a Sunday.

Learning this, the hijacker released the flight's 85 passengers and demanded the maps and weather information for a flight toward Miami, saying he personally would pick up the material at the bottom of the ramp.

Ground crewmen were preparing to refuel the aircraft when the suspect descended the ramp and was apprehended by agents mingling among the workmen.

PSA president J. Floyd Andrews, security director Steve Gardella and five FBI agents wearing airlines jackets were hiding behind the ramp and wrestled the suspect to the ground.

"He apparently didn't see me," Gardella said. "I went for his legs."

San Francisco police records showed that Speck was arrested Jan. 26 on a charge of disturbing the peace at San Francisco General Hospital.

told UPI correspondent Kim Willenson in Da Nang that victories by South Vietnamese forces Sunday meant the Communist offensive in the Quang Tri area had been "stopped." Lam, military commander of the northern sector, said they will try again but now "they are defeated. We have stopped their invasion of Quang Tri."

Despite his optimistic statement front dispatches said North Vietnamese sent 500 regulars backed by tanks to within 150 yards of a strategic bridge on Highway 1 at Dong Ha, barely a mile north of Quang Tri, before being driven off by South Vietnamese Rangers.

And military sources in Saigon said they were not qualified to report that the Quang Tri offensive had been stopped.

The Communist offensive killed five Americans and wounded 25 in weekend fighting.

Fourth Inmate Stabbing Of Year Reported

The fourth inmate stabbing of the year occurred early this morning at San Quentin, according to prison Information Officer Joseph O'Brien.

Louis Valenzuela, 26, from Los Angeles County, was stabbed in the back at 6 a.m. while going to breakfast through the rotunda of the east block, O'Brien said. Valenzuela walked to the prison hospital, where he was reported in satisfactory condition with a six-inch wound.

O'Brien said a prison-made weapon had been used, and recovered in the rotunda, but no suspect was in custody.

Valenzuela was serving a one-year to life sentence for lewd and lascivious conduct, O'Brien said, and was due for parole consideration next week. Valenzuela had been at San Quentin since May 21, 1968.

been spent over the last two year in unsuccessful attempts to develop the property.

In the claim, five attempts to develop the land are outlined, all ending in failure, dating from April 1970 to the present.

The claim also says the "real purpose" of the moritorium "was and still is to stop any development on Wolfback Ridge and to deny claimants their full use and enjoyment of said property without just compensation."

The five also say Sausalito Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt knew during the two-year period that the Lynch couple were "subject to foreclosure proceedings on their interest" in the property and "by affidavit assisted creditors against" them in U.S. District Court.

The five claim the adoption of the ordinance was "arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable."

In an accompanying press release, the five say "While claimants recognize that Sausalito may have a legitimate interest in preserving open space in its ridge land, the answer does not lie in unreasonable and illegal ordinances directed against the claimants, who must now allow their land to remain unusable for an indefinite period.

"If Sausalito wishes to dedicate the land for open space then it should be prepared to pay for the cost of such action. That is the crux of the complaint herein."

The freeze on development of the land was voted by council, unanimously to give city staff time to make a complete inventory of remaining undeveloped land in Sausalito and prepare an acquisition plan for some of the open space.

Council indicated developments which do not conflict with city plans to acquire open space may be sanctioned through the variance process.

The city in the past has voted to pay for open land.

Angela Davis Trial Delayed

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Court was delayed in the Angela Davis trial today by a conference between attorneys and Judge Richard E. Arnason.

Arnason said the trial session might be delayed "for some time." He gave no reason.

Prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. was scheduled to call more witnesses to the 1970 Marin County Courthouse shootings. Harris has questioned 18 witnesses so far and said proceedings were going considerably faster than anticipated. pickup faster than anticipated.

OBITUARIES

Raymond Vogel Drowns In Bay Boating Mishap

Raymond N. Vogel, member of the Kentfield Fire Protection District board and local businessman, drowned Saturday in a boating accident in the Golden Gate. Three companions were saved.

Those rescued by a private boat after their 16-foot boat capsized were, Vogel's son, Thomas, 13, of the family home at 11 Ash Avenue; his brother-in-law and owner of the boat, Albert Gadoury, 51, of 27 Bayview Terrace, Mill Valley; and a friend, Russell Fabian, of 830 B Street, San Rafael.

The fishing party left Sausalito Yacht Harbor about 7:30 a.m., Gadoury said. It was about 11 a.m. when the boat was hit by a big wave and capsized off Fort Point, he said.

Vogel started swimming toward some nearby rocks, his son, Thomas, reported. He had almost reached the rocks when a big wave hit him and he was not seen again, Thomas said.

The three survivors were clinging to the overturned boat when they were picked up by an unidentified private boat and taken to Fort Point.

The Coast Guard found Vogle's body about 11:30 a.m. It was taken to the San Francisco coroner's office and then to Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Vogel, 41, was born in Willimantic, Conn. He and his family moved to California in 1957. He moved to Kenftield the following year and was assistant fire chief of the Kentfield Fire Department until he resigned in 1970 after being reduced from assistant fire chief to lieutenant. He started his own building maintenance business at that time.

On Feb. 10, Vogel was appointed to fill a vacant seat on the Kentfield Fire District board.

He is survived by his wife, Elsie; three sons, Grant of Fairfax, and Daniel and Thomas at home, and his mother, Veronica Nardi of Connecticut.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

dates for three city council seats.

ROSS — Five candidates for three council seats.

SAN ANSELMO — Eight candidates for two council seats; two for treasurer.

SAUSALITO — Eleven candidates for three council seats. Only one candidate has filed for city treasurer, but voters also must decide whether the traditionally elective office should be made appointive. Another measure on the city's ballot asks whether the voters want a proposed ordinance that would require a citizens' advisory election before carrying out any portion of the park plaza plan prepared by consultants in 1970. The future elections would decide the improvements that would be financed, and other issues.

TIBURON — Three candidates for two council seats.

COTATI — Seven candidates for three council seats.

ROHNERT PARK — Ten candidates for three council seats, and a $195,000 bond issue intended to improve city parks.

County Service Area 13 of Lucas Valley will ask its voters to decide whether the district should sell bonds up to $315,000 to purchase 285 acres, owned by Thomas A. Nunes, for preservation as open space.

Planned Area On Agenda

The Fairfax City Council tonight will consider adoption of an ordinance prezoning the proposed Canon Village and Tennis Club from first residential to planned development district.

The council will also receive nominations for "outstanding senior citizen of the year."

Guns Found In Burning House

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Police confiscated two rifles they found while investigating a fire in the home of a woman whose son-in-law had been executed mysteriously on the driveway of the house.

The search started Sunday when a blaze erupted on the roof of Mrs. Joan Hammer's house while she and 40 persons were inside.

Suspecting arson, patrolmen surrounded the area, but firemen said the flames resulted from a burning paper which flew from a fireplace and landed on the wooden roof. There was only minor damage.

Mrs. Hammer's daughter, Elizabeth, was the wife of slain James Carr, friend and admirer of black revolutionary George Jackson. Carr was shot and killed last week and so far there has been no arrest.

Tam Election Requirement To Be Waived

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The final step in freeing Tamalpais High School District from the necessity of holding a unification election in June will be taken Thursday by the state Board of Education here.

The board last November passed a resolution of intent to exempt the Tam district from the mandatory election, but the exemption could not be issued until the effective date of an enabling act which passed last year's Legislature. That date was March 4.

Granting of the exemption is scheduled as the third of a series of items at the 10 a.m. session of the state board Thursday in the State Resources Building auditorium.

Later on Thursday, Wilson C. Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, will recommend approval of an additional $862 in federal urban-rural grant for Sausalito School District.

School Panel Will Look Over Budget

The Marin County Schools Personnel Commission, meeting at 8 o'clock today, may adopt a smaller budget than the county schools administration believes it needs.

According to Personnel Director Thomas B. Lowry, the three-member commission may adopt a $20,000 budget, cut from $21,000 at its March 13 meeting.

Lowry said 80 per cent of the budget is earmarked for salary and fringe benefits for him and his secretary, the rest for operating programs. He said this year the commission has consistently operated below budget levels, and next year's budget has been cut.

Asst. County Supt. Robert E. Spain said the commission, which has been in operation less than a year, would be billed for pro-rated services such as printing costs, copying and telephone services, sometime in June, and might need the money.

To Study Welfare, Assemblyman Says

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman John Burton, DSan Francisco, says an investigation will be launched into an auditor general's report that the state Social Welfare Department hired 32 attorneys last year without authorization. Hobbs, deputy director of operations for the department has denied that there was any unauthorized hiring.

Burton said Sunday an Assembly Ways and Means subcommittee which he heads will begin a probe of the department's budget "within the next few days."

Hearing Set In Arson Case

Preliminary hearing for Jon Christian Ballard, 35, of Fairfax, on a charge of arson has been set for Friday.

Ballard, who has pleaded innocent, was arrested Jan. 13. He allegedly tossed a Molotov cocktail at the home of another Fairfax man with whom he had a heated argument minutes before.

The charge was dismissed Feb. 18 after a witness refused to testify, but later refiled.

approached.

Police said marijuana was found in the car.

Martinelli Ranch Development Opposed

The Inverness Improvement Association board has passed a resolution opposing any development of the Martinelli Ranch near Point Reyes Station as "incompatible with surrounding rural areas," according to president Howard Waite.

He also said the group believes development should be confined within Point Reyes Station until the town's open space is filled.

Plans were announced in January to develop a 260-acre portion of the Martinelli Ranch into 54 small "ranches" of about three acres each.

The county board of supervisors last month voted to rezone 60,000 acres of West Marin ranchland, requiring minimum lots of 60 acres per homesite. Hazel Martinelli, wife of the farm's owner, Elmer, said today she understood the rezoning would not affect development of the 260 acres.

Warrant Out In Drug Case

A bench warrant has been ordered issued for Donald Gilliam, 27, of San Rafael, who failed to appear in Marin Superior Court yesterday for sentencing on a heroin sales conviction.

Judge Thomas F. Keating ordered the warrant on Gilliam, who was convicted by a jury in Keating's court last month.

Gilliam was arrested for two sales allegedly made 13 months ago, but acquitted of one sale.

Gilliam was reportedly unable to be in court because he is hospitalized.

Radical Attorneys Still Skeptical Of 'System' After Soledad Trial

By RICHARD M. HARNETT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The acquittal of the "Soledad Brothers" by an all-white jury has not caused any great apparent revival of faith in the "system" by radical attorneys and those they represent.

The "Soledad Brothers," two black convicts at Soledad State Prison accused of killing a guard, were found innocent of all charges March 27. The case had been bitterly denounced by black militants and leftists from its outset as a straight political railroading.

"Most of you have doubted the system," Judge S. Lee Vavuris told the spectators in his heavily guarded courtroom as they cheered the verdict. "But now you know that it really works, and if anyone can come up with a better system, I'd like to see it."

Attorneys who represent radical defendants don't necessarily agree.

Attorney Charles Garry, defense counsel for the Black Panthers, said in an interview that Angela Davis will be acquitted also, because the case against her is "even weaker" than that against the Soledad Brothers.

"But for every Angela Davis, for every Soledad case, or Huey Newton, you have got thousands and thousands of people in prison who don't belong there," Gary said.

Garry said the Soledad case was "another example of a flimsy case with no evidence at all" with which the state was "tantalizing the community for 2 1-2 years."

The Soledad Brothers were cleared of killing a prison guard only because "the jurors had courage enough to withstand the political, emotional, psychological pressure" brought by the prosecution, he said.

Even though acquitted, the defendants John Clutchette and Fleeta Drumgo "are still in prison, are still in jail," Garry noted, saying he expects the state to delay as long as possible the release of Clutchette, who was eligible for parole two years ago.

Garry believes the "political" cases are created by state officials, working with the FBI "to keep the pot boiling."

"If I had my way, we would make a lot of radical changes in this country, from A to Z. We would eliminate prisons altogether and have hospitals for treatment of persons with emotional troubles ... Until you do that, you are going to have more killings, more prison breaks, more violence."

Floyd Silliman, the young Salinas attorney who defended Clutchette, said the Soledad trial "illustrates the wisdom of trial by the people and not by the government."

Silliman, 30, lost the rest of his law practice in Salinas because of his part in the trial, and suffered heavy financial losses because he was not a court-appointed counsel and still could not withdraw.

But he said he was committed to the case and had no regrets.

From such verdicts as those, in Soledad, and the cases of Huey Newton, Bobby Seale and the Panther 21, in which the prosecution failed to get convictions, Silliman said district attorneys should take a lesson. "It seems to me the point is that its time prosecutors started lining up and doing what is expected of them—to weed out cases that never should be brought to trial instead of actually, as in this case, purchasing testimony for prosecution."

The Soledad verdict was "not a vindication of the entire judicial system," Silliman said. "It just meant that there are 12 good people in San Francisco."

Check Case To Superior Court

A San Francisco man accused of buying a Porsche at a Mill Valley auto agency with a bad check has been bound over to Marin Superior Court.

Robert M. Newman, 56, has pleaded innocent to charges of grand theft and possessing a bad check, but must appear in superior court April 19 for arraignment.

Police said Newman bought a 1971 sports car from Mill Valley imports March 4 with a $4,029 check. His bank in Chicago said he had written more than $90,000 worth of checks on an account of only $800.

Red Hill Principal Is Named

Ivan D. Chappell, San Anselmo School district superintendent, has been appointed by the district board as interim principal for Red Hill School.

Chappell will serve the remainder of the school year, he said. The school has been without a full time principal since the death of Donald Shaw.

The board at its meeting Thursday night also reviewed a $2,001,639 preliminary budget presented by Chappell, but delayed action until April 27.

Chappell said that anticipated income for 1972-73 is $1,909,806, creating a projected $91,000 shortage. The new budget would contain no new proposals such as more staff or increased expenditures, Chappell said.

The preliminary budget is based on no new money being received from the state, Chappell said. However, he added, "it is possible the state will come through with some new money to help out."

Realtors Want Commission

Art store owner Jerome Flax gave the Town of Ross a valuable Benny Bufano statue when he sold his home there Jan. 4, but a real estate firm claims it wasn't treated quite so generously.

Coldwell, Banker and Co. filed suit in Marin Superior Court Thursday claiming Flax had not paid its $16,500 commission.

The giant real estate company claims that it found a buyer for Flax's $275,000 mansion at 101 Lagunitas Road and asks the court to order the commission paid with interest.

Students To Travel Among The Indians

Ten Marin County high school students and two student teachers that will take them a month-long pilgrimage more than 3,700 miles to learn first-hand about Indians living and dead.

The students attend the On Location school at Redwood High School. Co-ed Tinka Gordon said before departure the group will receive class credits for its journey, which will combine sociological studies of present-day Indian life with visiting the ruins of the Southwestern tribes' long past.

Undaunted by last-minute failure to find a sponsor to lend them vehicles for their adventure, the teen-agers talked parents into lending family autos. "We had hoped to travel in a bus or one or two vans, but we'll crowd four into a car" with all their camping gear, co-ed Tally Wren explained.

The students met en masse with parents Tuesday evening to go over the details of the trip they've been planning since January. The teen-agers said the adults appeared satisfied — and some even wished schools had offered them similar opportunity in their day. One of the student teachers has considerable experience in desert travel.

"We'll camp free in national parks all the way," added student Paul Haas.

Based on their extensive reading, the On Location students decided they want to visit a Navajo reservation in Arizona, stop at Gallup, N.M., known as "Indian Capital of the world," then on to the concentrations of Pueblo tribes and museums in Alburquerque and Santa Fe before swinging east to the historic Oklahoma Indian area.

"If we get interested in one aspect of the trip, that's what we'll study," noted Tom Guerin. They plan to stay with a friend in Tulsa, Okla., about April 24, then return via Kansas, Colorado and Utah to meet another, smaller On Location group headed by Duncan McSwain that plans to visit California's North Coast area late in April and early in May.

The teen-agers will make twice-a-week telephone calls to Tally Wren's parents, the Bennett Wrens of Tiburon. Wren is a Fairfax School District official. They also plan to send the Independent-Journal a series of reports during their trek.

Students making the trip are Miss Wren, Megan Walker, Guerin, Deb Cushman, Haas, Jay Lehman, Patti Chalender, Beth Brown, Miss Gordon and Stan Rainey.

AIR FORCE BIRTHDAY SHOW JAMMED

On the ground and in the air Air Force men put on a show yesterday that attracted what is believed to be a record crowd to Hamilton Air Force Base. The occasion was an open house observing the 25th anniversary of the Air Force. Cars jammed Highway 101 in the vicinity and base officials estimated the turnout at 60,000. During the day people viewed activities such as (right) members of the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron, demonstrating rescue techniques on a 31-foot plywood tower, or inspected equipment as the crowd (left) gathered to enter the massive tail of a C-141 Starlifter, huge cargo plane, of the 63rd Military Airlift Wing and explore its cavern-like interior.

Fairfax Man Found Dead At His Home

James R. McConnell, 27 of 163 Bothin Road, Fairfax, a partner in a yacht engine service in Oakland, was found dead at his home yesterday.

According to Coroner's Deputy Don H. Cornish, McConnell's body was discovered hanging from a railing over a stairway by his partners, Thomas Wallerick of Mill Valley and George Wallerich of San Anselmo at 11:45 a.m. Cornish said no note was found to indicate whether death was accidental or intentional.

He was last seen alive Wednesday, Cornish reported. McConnell was survived by a sister, Jenny Iverson of Lancaster, Los Angeles County.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

About $100 cash and undetermined items were taken by a burglar who ransacked the office of the Clover Dairy at 80 Dodie Court, San Rafael, early Friday, San Rafael police reported.

Townhouses Are Firmly Opposed

I. Thomas Zaragoza, candidate for the Corte Madera Town Council in tomorow's election, has taken a firm stand against the massive Meadowsweet Station townhouse development.

The Independent-Journal erred in Saturday's report in Marin Magazine on Corte Madera candidates when it said Zaragoza had opposed high-density development in general terms, but had taken no stand on the Meadowsweet proposal.

Zaragoza has not only objected to high desnity in general and the Meadowsweet project as presently planned, but has made of these a cornerstone of his campaign fight.

Candidate Takes Exception To Letter To I-J

William G. Fleckles, Larkspur city-councilman who is a candidate for re-election tomorrow, took exception today to a statement in a letter to the editor in Friday's Independent-Journal.

The letter, by Beth Reilly of Larkspur, said that at a candidates' night Fleckles took credit for good deeds done by the city council some of which "passed practically over his dead body."

Fleckles said the list he read at the candidates' night was drawn from official minutes of city council meetings since he joined the council in May, 1968. He had not opposed any of the measures for which he claimed credit, he said.

Youth Surrenders In Assault Case

A Larkspur youth said to have escaped from military police after they found him and a group of persons in a bunker at Fort Baker surrendered to Corte Madera police a few hours later, a military spokesman reported today.

Steven J. Delaney, 19, of 30 Tamalpais Avenue, was to appear before a U.S. magistrate in San Francisco today to answer to charges of assault, disturbing the peace and resisting arrest. Two other persons, Catherine Delaney of the same Larkspur address and Robert J. Downing of Daly City, were arrested Saturday at the same time by the military police, the spokesman said.

A group of persons was in the bunker about 12:30 a.m. Saturday when military police went by on patrol. An undetermined number fled, but officers captured the three. Delany refused to give his identification to officers, the spokesman said, and started fighting. When officers were taking him off military property after subduing him, he escaped, but at 4 a.m. surrendered to Corte Madera police and was turned over to the Army.

The spokesman said he did not know what the group was doing in the bunker. The other two arrested were also to appear before the magistrate on charges of disturbing the peace.

Brazil declared its independence from Portugal Nov. 15, 1889.

ROCK AND REGISTER ORDER OF THE DAY

Man Bruised During Highway 101 Accident

David Loring Richards, 32, of Marin Motel, San Rafael, was to see his own doctor for bruises received in an accident at 11:40 p.m. Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported yesterday.

Richards, northbound on Highway 101 north of San Rafael, swerved into the fence at the side of the highway when he reached on the floor of his car to get a burning rag, patrolmen reported.

Road & Track selects the Jaguar XJ6 as one of the world's 10 best cars.

Here's what Road & Track says: "When we first drove the XJ6 we said it was 'uncannily silent, gloriously swift and safe as houses.' We still like that description. It is also wonderfully comfortable in a traditional British way and certainly one of the best-handling sedans in the world as well. It has a hunky, planted-on-the-road look no other production sedan has and despite being entirely different from its predecessors it looks purely Jaguar..." Here's what we say: You owe it to yourself to find out why the Jaguar XJ6 was selected as one of the world's 10 best cars. Come in and we'll be glad to arrange a test-drive.

FBI Probes Accounts In San Anselmo Bank

Revelation that the checking account of a Corte Madera man was exposed by his bank to scrutiny by the Federal Bureau of Investigation today brought announcement that starting July 1, all banks will be doing the same thing to clients.

Richard Stark, 29, an artist and patron of radical causes discovered recently that his checking account at the San Anselmo branch of the Wells Fargo Bank had been reviewed by FBI agents.

He opened the envelope with his monthly statement and found an inter-department memo wrapped around his checks. The memo, which bank officials said was included in the envelope by mistake read: "This memo is to authorize you to read checks to the FBI before sending the statement to the customer."

Lawrence Hoge, a spokesman for Wells Fargo Bank, explained, "Sometimes if a guy flashes a badge, they'll come right through here. No employee is going to run to those thick memos to see if they can talk with him."

The bank spokesman said that as of July 1, all bank transactions exceeding $10,000 will be recorded on microfilm and forwarded to the Internal Revenue Service, in compliance with recently issued Treasury Department regulations.

"I presume these records will be made available to the FBI," Hoge said.

The Treasury Department regulations were received at Wells Fargo Bank last week, according to Hoge, confirming a report published in the Independent-Journal on March 1 that checking account surveillance was underway.

Stark, who lives at 122 Willow Avenue, Corte Madera, is the beneficiary of a trust fund set up years ago by his mother. He has conferred witp his lawyer about a possible lawsuit against Wells Fargo bank for breach of contract and invasion of privacy.

When Stark first discovered the misplaced memo, he was glad to find out, said his roommate, Richard Schwartz: "He was overjoyed. A lot of people, who aren't aware that the FBI does things like this, can now be aware of it."

Stark has been furding radical organizations and causes since 1964. Most recently, he sponsored the White Panther Party in Marin County and gave his home as its headquarters.

As a result, it came as no great surprise to him to learn that he was being watched.

In reaction to the disclosure, Wells Fargo Bank has circulated a staff memo to all its branches reminding its employees not to release financial information to government agents until July 1 unless there is a court order.

The bank has also notified the FBI, according to Orion A. Hill, chief auditor, that it will not monitor accounts in the future without a subpoena or a valid written order.

Election Returns

Election returns will be broadcast on radio station KTIM-FM (100.9) starting at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow from Civic Center election headquarters, with station manager Hugh Turner conducting the broadcast.

Petaluma Boy Killed On Highway

A 7-year-old Petaluma boy was killed yesterday when struck by a car at 12:25 p.m. on Old Redwood Highway, south of Ely Road, Petaluma.

Robin Rich Jr., 757 Goodwin Avenue, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital.

The Sonoma County Coroner's Office said the boy was walking south on the west shoulder of the road with two girls. Witnesses said he broke free from the grasp of one of the girls and darted into the path of a car driven by John M. Best, 27, of Santa Rosa.

He was the son of Robin and Evelyn Rich Sr.

He was born in Messa, Ore. and moved to California with his family four years ago and to Petaluma six months ago.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Schumachers Colonial Chapel, Auburn.

By FRANK FARRARA

Capt. Donald E. Nelson, an Air Force reservist with the 452nd Tactical Airlift Wing at Hamilton Air Force Base, probably has been America's most frequent visitor to the People's Republic of China in recent months.

As a navigator with Saturn Airways of Oakland, Nelson has flown four trips, carrying the portable television station used to transmit live coverage of President Nixon's visit.

"Three trips to Shanghai and on the last one we got to Peking," he said Saturday during a break in his reserve duty. By the last trip "it was a great deal as if we had gone back to say, Milwaukee, where we had developed some pretty good friends."

The Chinese he met were warm and friendly, but it was "hard for them to understand why we want to have heavy political influence 6,000 to 7,000 miles west of the United States, he said.

The U.S. has started to solve the China problem by opening communications and the second step, he said, is to accept "the reality we cannot dictate geopolitical structure in areas 7,000 miles away."

As for U.S. influence in Southeast Asia, Nelson wondered how the U.S. would react if the situation were reversed and China "tried to dictate in Cuba and the Dominican Republic . . . off our shores."

DONALD E. NELSON
Flies to China

Referring to past days when the U.S. had gunboats sailing Chinese rivers, Nelson commented: "We would look very poorly at Russian gunboats going up our rivers."

Nelson, who has navigated flights to many sectors of the world from the ice landing field at Spitzbergen, east of Greenland, to Central Africa, said: "We are more poorly educated in geography than any advanced nation."

China has 750 million people "and yet what do we know?" he said. "I don't think one half of one per cent of Americans know the way they (the Chinese) say their nation's name. They say 'chung-ko,'" Nelson said, but he wasn't sure of the spelling.

Nelson, a geography major who couldn't find a job teaching geography, said that "Geography to me is alive . . . people, their hopes and dreams, loves and dying."

In schools, geography is usually taught by someone "uneducated in that area or someone who has no enthusiasm and talks about how many barrels of oil or principal export products and the kids fall asleep."

On his trips to China, he said the Chinese were as friendly, if not more friendly after President Nixon's visit as they were before.

"There were a lot old enough to remember when commerce was open with the West," he said. He learned a few phrases in Chinese and when he used them, "the people would light up," he said.

Nelson praised presidential adviser Henry J. Kissinger as one of the best geopolitical advisers "we've ever had," and said this is the year for improving communications and relations with Russia and China.

He learned of his first flight to China a day before the takeoff he said. "They had another navigator set to go and they couldn't reach him," he said.

Saturn got the job of carrying the portable television station, owned by Howard Hughes, because its Super Hercules cargo aircraft, civilian modification of an Air Force plane, was the only type that could carry the station, he explained.

The station transmitted the pictures to the satellite, which sent them back to the United States.

Nelson flew to China last month to return the equipment to the U.S.

"We also took the television station to Persia for the 2,500th anniversary," he recalled.

As for the Super Hercules, he said, "It can get in anywhere and only needs a short runway. We've landed oil drilling equipment to an ice air strip in Spitzbergen and to places in Central Africa" where they don't have regular air strips.

On his trips to China, a Chinese navigator and radio operatorotook over on the stretch from Shanghai to Peking, "like a harbor pilot taking over," he explained.

Nelson, a bachelor from Alameda, declined to give his age saying: "It's one of my idiosyncracies."

Bluegrass For Soledad Inmates

SOLEDAD, Calif. (UPI) — A bluegrass band from Las Vegas, N.M., entertained about 500 inmates at Soledad State Prison Saturday, the first outside entertainment in more than a year at the racially troubled institution.

Members of "Sweetgrass" played their mountain-type music featuring banjos for about an hour before the cheering inmates.

"You might say the band had a captive audience," said Robert Anderson, prison recreation supervisor.

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

12 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, APRIL 10, 1972 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Why Your One Vote Is Really Important

The story that led page one of the Independent Journal on April 16, 1952 — 20 years ago next Sunday — started out this way:

"Reorganization of eight city councils in Marin last night was highlighted by the one-vote election of John J. Wiley to the Belvedere City Council . . .

"A full house watched the Belvedere City Counci tabulate 11 absentee ballots which gave Wiley a total of 173 votes to William Bailey's 172, although Wiley had trailed by three votes in the original count."

THAT STORY SHOWS why one vote — your vote — is so important in the municipal elections to be held tomorrow in 10 of Marin's cities, as well as in Cotati and Rohnert Park in southern Sonoma County.

The Belvedere election of 20 years ago was not unique in having a one-vote winner. It has happened within the last decade in Fairfax. And there are other instances here in Marin.

Anyone who says, "Why should I bother to vote? My one vote doesn't count for anything," is dead wrong. It is all those "one votes" that elect a governor of California or a president of the United States. But nowhere else does each vote loom so large as in the local elections.

Conversely, nowhere else does the failure to vote play such an important — and unfortunate — role.

There is far less glamor to the city council campaign than to those for governor or president — even when there are 11 council candidates, as in Novato, or 10 (actually 11 on the ballot but Peter Bowen has withdrawn) as in Sausalito. And because there is not the glamor, not the constant television exposure, not the polling and the endless speculation that attend state and national campaigns, too many citizens forget to vote in their municipal elections. This rots representative government at its grass roots.

THERE ARE CONTESTS in every one of the cities holding elections tomorrow. Belvedere and Corte Madera each has five candidates for three council positions; Fairfax, eight (plus a ninth, Edward T. Duncan, who has withdrawn but still appears on the ballot) for two council posts, and three aspirants for city treasurer; Larkspur, seven for three posts; Mill Valley, six for three; Novato, 11 for three; Ross, five for three; San Anselmo, eight for three council positions and two vying for treasurer; Sausalito, 10 for three; Tiburon, three for two; Cotati, six for three; Rohnert Park, 10 for three.

It matters which of these candidates get elected. The actions they take when in office will affect every resident of their cities. So every resident should have a voice in who gets the offices.

That voice is the ballot. Use it.

Bird Tapes And Records

A friend recently asked us if we knew where he could buy a record of common Marin County birds so he could learn to identify their songs. We didn't know. But we think we do now.

The Laboratory of Ornithology at Cornell University, 159 Sapsucker Woods Road, Ithaca, N.Y. 14850, has been collecting bird songs and other sounds of nature for over a generation. They put out records and tape cassettes of various kinds and will send a free catalogue on request. We just bought our first cassette — songs of North American Thrushes with commentary by Roger Tory Peterson — and are delighted with it.

REPUBLICAN INFIGHTING

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

This is going to come as an awful shock to the conservative friends of Robert D. Weinmann, but he put his foot in his mouth when some persons got the hint from him that he had the support of Paul R. Haerle.

He not only does not have Haerle's support, but Haerle is supporting Weinmann's arch foe in the Republican primary election in the Seventh Assembly District, incumbent William T. Bagley.

THE CERTAIN SHOCK to Weinmann's friends will come from their clear memory of close political agreement between their candidate and Haerle. Certainly no one forgets the bitter enmity with which Bagley and Haerle regarded one another for years.

Their mutual hostility peaked when Haerle was Gov. Ronald Reagan's appointments secretary. Until at least last year, it was almost axiomatic that if you were a member of the governor's loyal staff, you were no friend of the maverick assemblyman from Marin.

That this all has changed sharply is clear in a hot letter Haerle has written Weinmann advising him that Haerle has abandoned his previous neutrality in the local contest.

Haerle, now secretary of the Republican State Central Committee, conceded that he and Bagley "have disagreed in years past, but those disagreements are well over the dam and my experience in Sacramento and since has convinced me that he is an extraordinarily energetic legislator who well represents Marin. Specifically, but by no means exclusively, he has been of considerable assistance to the governor in his efforts to achieve meaningful tax reform in California."

HAERLE, A STRAWBERRY resident, ate Weinmann alive for "totally improper" suggestions that he had Haerle's "unofficial" support.

"I have reconsidered my initial position of neutrality," Haerle wrote, declaring, "I am now advising you just as explicitly as I can that I am supporting Assemblyman Bill Bagley for reelection."

His letter to Weinmann concluded curtly: "I trust that you ngw are in no dbout as to my sentiments in this matter."

Weinmann assured us that Haerle's letter was "a misunderstanding," but the letter left no doubt who had misunderstood.

TOUGH PROBLEMS have to be solved before bus commuters get an exclusive freeway lane in the evenings over the Waldo Grade. Originally promised for May 1, it probably won't get started until August.

Repaving and widening of the four-mile stretch of freeway just started last week, and will take months to complete. Only then can holes be drilled along the entire length of one lane for pylons to separate northbound buses from southbound traffic.

Also, a toll gate in the middle of the toll plaza will have to be rebuilt so the big buses can get into the left lane safely.

Another problem may come in the banking of the reverse lane, which is inclined the wrong way. Hold on, but don't hold your breath.

Many Do Not Act Like Citizens At All

Patriotism is a product that you cannot sell to those who ignore it, and the Constitution does not provide for first and second class citizens, so there is no argument with that point, but there are far too many Americans of today that certainly do not act like second or even third class citizens, when it comes to loyalty to their country, and those are the ones who are too narrow minded to care about patriotism or anything else except their own welfare, and they consider patriotism a lot of hogwash.

We all must remember that patriotism is everybody's business and our country will come back to an even keel, when the basic truth is realized and we have more love for our country and flag, and we become a troubled nation only when too many Americans believe that no obligations and no one can "cop out" and be a true American.

Too many have worked hard attempting to destroy our beautiful country, while others have fled the country to keep from fulfilling their duties as Americans, and they are the ones that cannot face the challenge or crisis in their lvies, so the question arises as to whether or not our present generation will be able to preserve and cultivate the God given heritage they have received.

Short cuts do not exist and those who are waiting for a marvelous new nation to develop to their liking, it will not work.

Today's generation do not realize all the trials and tribulations, the hard work and the sweat of their brow, the hardships endured by our forefathers and mothers, who fought for their lives to exist, to build this nation to be one of the strongest and richest nations yet, and this nation has never been a "yes men," and the Americans are a nation of reasonable people who remain free and do freely, and that is what makes us tick.

Remember that we can celebrate the current turn of events secure in the knowledge that common sense will prevail and that true Americans have been and will continue to be the ones who ensure that this nation will long endure.

Sheriff's Department Spurns Volunteer Help

Three years ago when we first moved to Marin County, my husband volunteered his services to the Marin County Sheriff's Reserve. Having served over 15 years as a volunteer deputy sheriff in San Mateo County, rising to rank of sergeant, having lectured on riot control, and other law enforcement subjects, he felt he had a contribution to make in his spare time to law enforcement in Marin County.

Several phone calls to the sheriff's department office over a period of time resulted in absolutely no response. Knowing his disappointment, and curious to see what response I would get, I recently called the sheriff's department office myself. The reply of the deputy on duty at the time was, "They're full up." When I protested that they couldn't be too active if they weren't interested in a volunteer with my husband's experience, he said, "They're as active as they want to be."

With the great increase in the incidence of crime —in Marin County as elsewhere — it seems incredible to me that one would get this kind of response from what is supposed to be the Reserve arm of the County's major law enforcement body. What makes for such appalling apathy??

Maybe one of your readers knows the answer to that question.

Tenure For Teachers: It Will Be Changed: Question Is 'How?'

Until recently it was considered inappropriate to question the wisdom of tenure for teachers. Within the profession, tenure —guaranteeing that teachers cannot be fired except for cause, and only after lengthy hearing procedures — was widely regarded as a bulwark of academic freedom. And even non-educators agreed that teachers at the university level who held unfashionable views, but otherwise were qualified and capable, needed protection from arbitrary dismissal.

But both attitudes have been slowly changing. And although 42 states still have tenure laws for teachers in their public colleges, high schools and elementary schools, several legislatures have been discussing whether to abolish or modify those laws.

THE PRO-TENURE position continues to lean heavily on the academic freedom argument. By and large, proponents insist that tenure is necessary to prevent ideological purges and bloodletting on campuses, that it is a cherished and essential protection for the teaching profession.

That argument has prevailed for most of this century, affirmed by local education associations no less than by the American Association of University Professors. And, on the university level at least, the argument for free inquiry is respectable and compelling.

That argument is far less compelling for teachers of primary and secondary schools, where research and intellectual innovation are scarcely central to the educational process. A candid member of Maryland's board of education put the argument in practical terms when he said that the tenure law's practical effect has been to prevent school boards from weeding out incompetent teachers during the past 25 years, when there had been a teacher shortage, but now that there is a surplus the state has the opportunity to clean house.

AT EVERY LEVEL from the university downward, for that matter, it has been possible for teachers after a brief probationary period to settle into lifetime careers of an intellectual vacuum, at the expense of their students and the taxpayers. . .

Beyond that, the threat that tenure has historically countered, the inflamed legislature or intolerant trustee, is no longer the chief menace to freedom of inquiry on campuses today. The threat comes istead from the university community itself, in the form of obloquy visited on professors who take such unpopular positions as supporting the Vietnam war, Richard Nixon or American society in general, and of the hooliganism to which the resulting atmosphere has so often contributed.

PERHAPS ON OCCASION tenure is some protection against this threat, but in fact it seldom seems to work that way. It did not prevent MIT from refusing to allow Walt W. Rostow to return to its faculty because he had sinned by advising the Johnson administration for too long a period. Nor was tenure much help to the number of professors who have been hounded from their campuses by verbal and even physical abuse from student radicals.

If the faltering steps universities have taken to end such abuses are the true measure of their regard for academic freedom, it's hard to see how they can rely on academic freedom arguments to protect their privileges. In any case, tenure seems increasingly irrelevant, and in the long run the issue is not whether it will be changed but how.

Wisconsin Vote Shows Mood Of Protest Growing Stronger

Wisconsin's political message — what does it mean? Clearly it means that the mood of protest is growing. It dominated the latest Democratic primary.

The two principal protest candidates — McGovern nd Wallace — were the beneficiaries. For the first time in any of this year's primaries, the voters nearest to the political center were in a minority.

Together McGovern with 30 per cent of the vote and Wallace with 22 per cent won 52 per cent of the vote while Humphrey, Muskie and Jackson, the political centrists, got only 39 per cent.

WHAT ARE THE VOTERS PROTESTING? They are protesting just about everything, and this is a warning to all politicians including Nixon.

They are protesting the Vietnamese war and what they feel to be unresponsive government, double-talk and promises without performance, high prices and high taxes.

WHO'S ON THIRD BASE? Among the Democrats, nobody. McGovern is benefited the most. He becomes a serious candidate but not a probable winner. Muskie is hurt the most. He becomes a greatly weakened candidate and a probable loser. More than ever, Humphrey looms as the Miami compromise.

NIXON IS HOME FREE. For renomination, that is. There never was really any doubt about it, but Wisconsin is the visible clincher. The anti-Nixon vote for left-wing McCloskey nd right-wing Ashbrook shrank to a mere 2 per cent.

UNITED STATES MOVING OUT OF SOUTHEAST ASIA. During the past 24 months, the United States has withdrawn 525,000 men from Southeast Asia. This is the Nixon doctrine in action, reducing our military presence abroad. It may be a risk to the peace but probably the only way to build up indigenous forces of self-defense.

MOSCOW SEEKING TO MOVE INTO SOUTHEAST ASIA. Russia is renewing its project to draw tha nations of Southeast Asia into a Soviet-dominated "collective security system."

Goal: to replace American influence with Soviet influence and to checkmate China. It tried this ploy once before and the Asian nations didn't buy it. Some of them want America out but they don't want Russia in.

PEKING HAVING SECOND THOUGHTS? The Chinese have been saying for years "Yankee go home." Now that the Yankees are going home in large numbers, they show signs that they don't want us to go too fast.

They are far more concerned about Russia than about the United States. One of the first things the Chinese mention to foreign visitors is that there are 41 divisions of combat -ready Soviet Union troops on China's borders. This fact dominates Chinese foreign policy more than anything else.

DILEMMA OF THE NIXON DOCTRINE. The President is very conscious that in seeking to reduce the nation's overinvolvement in peacekeeping, there is danger of underinvolvement — in Asia, in Europe, in the Middle East.

He sees the ingredients of overconfidence in the making and wants to guard against it.

If the Democrats keep on feuding the way they have in recent weeks and the economy keeps on improving the way it has in recent weeks, it might look like a Republican runaway.

Nixon doesn't see it that way. He figures a Humphrey-Kennedy or a Kennedy-Humphrey ticket would be formidable.

ECONOMIC SIGNS ARE MORE FAVORABLE. Gross national product is steadily rising. So is business investment. New housing starts are exceeding all predictions.

Nonpolitical professional analysts see accelerated growth reducing unemployment and lowering inflation.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Democrats' Also-Rans Should Drop Out Of Competition

WASHINGTON — John Lindsay, who from the start was a crasher rather than an invited guest in the Democratic Party, nevertheless has put on a late display of social grace, which should serve as an example to others in the presidential competition.

He has quit. So should Henry Jackson, Eugene McCarthy, Sam Yorty, Shirley Chisholm, Patsy Mink and Wilbur Mills — right now, before another ballot is run.

And, promptly after the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries, two weeks from now, Hubert Humphrey and Edmund Muskie should count their votes carefully and, unless they finish those two trials in a dead heat, the low man between them should quit, too.

After that, the Democratic primaries would take on some meaning, the political trend among party members in 1972 would emerge from the current chaos, and the primary process might strengthen instead of ripping apart whatever chance the party has to defeat Mr. Nixon in November.

WHILE NO GROWN-UP should expect the remaining candidates thus to put their party before their own ambitions, they must at least consider these truths made clear by the Wisconsin returns:

The widely lamented (or acclaimed, depending on who speaks) "polarization" of the Democrats does not exist in reality. It is a product of the multiplicity of choices available to the voters in both Florida and Wisconsin, and specifically of the Republican crossover allowed in Wisconsin.

That crossover accounted for a high fraction of the Wallace vote (up to half, by some estimates) and a considerable share of the McGovern turnout. Thus, the percentages won by the two front-runners in Wisconsin, ideologically at the poles of the party, must be discounted severely in measuring their appeal strictly within the Democratic Party.

Admittedly, gauging the crossover is an inexact science. But even when the McGovern and Wallace totals are left where they stand without a discount for crossover, the results show that the relative center of the party still stands as strong as either of its wings.

Put Wallace, with all his GOP votes included, on the right. Add to his percentage the turnout for Yorty and Mills, plus a few of the votes cast for Jackson. The right-wing total comes to less than 25 per cent.

Put McGovern on the left, all his votes counted, and add to his total the returns for Lindsay, McCarthy and Chisholm. It comes to approximately 39 per cent for the left wing.

Put Humphrey and Muskie in the center, and add most but not all the Jackson vote. No one maintains that either of these Democratic mainstream candidates benefited greatly from the crossover vote, yet the center comes out with about 38 per cent.

YOU WILL HEAR argument about just how many points from each minor candidate should be assigned in which direction. But the message is obvious. McGovern has come through as the strongest contender on the left, Wallace is unchallenged on the right, and the center has not made up its mind between Humphrey and Muskie. But, within the party as a whole, there is no mortal left-right division.

In fact, if an artithmetical mean could be struck on the basis of the Wisconsin results, it would place the heart of the Democratic Party where it has remained at least since 1932, despite persistent efforts to drag it off toward one extreme or the other. It remains slightly to the liberal side of the national political center, in the same broad band of the spectrum where the campaigns and policies of Roosevelt, Truman, Stevenson, Kennedy, Johnson and Humphrey placed it, just far enough left to outbalance the rightward tilt of the minority party.

THE FUNCTION of this interminable 1972 primary process should not be merely to decide which remote flank of the Democratic Party is stronger; neither is strong enough to win a general election. If the Democrats have any dream of winning, the primaries should instead determine where within the understood tradition of the party this year's candidate will stand as he challenges an acutely political incumbent President.

The continued presence of half-a-dozen minor candidates whose best hope is an outside shot at the vice-presidential nomination serves only to muddy the voters' choices. That is why Jackson, McCarthy, Yorty, Chisholm, Mink and Mills should immediately join Lindsay, Hartke, Bayh, Harris and Hughes among the dropouts.

And the continued presence of two major candidates splitting up the center of the party only lends unrealistic stature to the men on its left and right wings. That is why Muskie and Humphrey should make up their minds promptly who will do the noble thing.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

April 10, 1962

Philip W. Schneider was granted a two-year leave as superintendent of San Jose School District in North Marin to take a job with the International Development Administration in Liberia.

A delegation of 25 clergymen called on the Marin County Board of Supervisors to enact a county "fair housing" ordinance.

20 YEARS AGO

April 10, 1952

Only one incumbent failed to win reelection as 20 others were returned to office in Marin County municipal elections.

A. Clyde Olney, who established California's first public junior college in Santa Barbara in 1910 and was first president of College of Marin when it opened in 1926, died of a heart ailment at the age of 77.

Cotati Faces Second Invasion; This Time It's Commuters

Cotati has been known as the city with a split personality since Sonoma State College students invaded the small farming community. Now it may split with a third faction as commuters move in.

For decades Cotati was known as one of Sonoma County's sleepier towns. Everyone was tied to agriculture or ranching. Everyone knew each other, how the crops were doing, and the latest egg production figures.

The town incorporated as a city 10 years ago and things really haven't been the same since. It was only a few years later that the Sonoma State campus sprang up in an oat-field down the street and the invasion began.

Old-time residents saw hundreds of long-haired young people lounging on their street corners and flaunting a new life style. The dress and manners of the newcomers resulted in a form of cultural shock.

TO A MAJOR extent, the students and oldtimers have learned to live with each other. The young people really like the small-town atmosphere of Cotati and the longtime residents who seem to give them a sense of history and a tie to simpler days.

Now comes the commuter. His family is moving from Marin or some other part of the Bay Area to the quiet, country living promised at Cotati's first subdivision, Holiday Park. He will bring still another life style to Cotati.

As the young people have become part of the community and have taken an interest in civic affairs, so will the commuter. While some oldtimers continue to grumble about the rising population and changing character of Cotati, in the end, it may be the newcomers who resent the coming of the commuter the most.

IT SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE, but wristwrestling time is almost upon Petaluma again. On May 20 the musclemen will take over the Veterans Memorial Building for a test of strength and courage.

In recent weeks the wristwrestling "bug" has struck the Petaluma Police Department. To the amazement of rookie cops, Capt. Henry Eslick, only a couple of years away from retirement age, is easily besting all comers. Although smaller than most of the officers, Eslick has beaten men young enough to be his son. He's also walking about a foot taller these days.

Accounting System Overhaul Due Study

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting Tuesday at 9 a.m. at Civic Center, will consider a new accounting system aimed at obtaining an additional $200,000 per year from the federal government.

The plan, proposed by Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, calls for keeping separate record and accounting systems to show the allocation of "indirect costs" to both federally aided and nonfederally aided programs. Indirect costs are generally described as overhead costs.

Mitchell said the new "cost allocation plan" probably will be required of all counties by next year.

He proposes that Marin contract with the accounting firm of Arthur Young and Co. of San Francisco to set up the new procedure.

Immediate cost to the county will be about $37,000 for Young's services and another full time auditor, he said, but added that there is a "stick and carrot."

"The completion of this plan will allow a retroactive claim to be filed back to January 1970, which I would estimate to be about $185,000," he said.

"This new program will actually be of great advantage to Marin County property taxpayers, namely, that we would be able to claim greater federal and state reimbursements as a result of taking into account all indirect costs. . ."

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Agenda also includes:

FLOOD CONTROL — A proposal to disband the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone 9-A, which includes all unincorporated areas of the Ross Valley Flood Control District. The proposal has been submitted by the Zone 9-A advisory board.

POOL HALLS — A proposal to repeal a section of the county's ordinance on pool halls which prohibits persons under 18 from entering. That section of the ordinance was approved in 1947.

CREEK — A proposal to include the lower reaches of Lagunitas Creek, from Point Reyes Station west, under the provisions of the county's tidal waterways ordinance. The ordinance regulates development in tidal areas.

OPEN SPACE — A proposal to amend state law to allow the county board of supervisors to sit as the board of directors of a countywide park and open space district.

Bangladesh Ailing Infant With Amateur Physicians

By PHIL NEWSOM

For many of the more than 70 million inhabitants of Bangladesh independence has meant exposure to profiteers, looters, starvation and other ills attendant upon a government in paralysis.

And the fact that some 60 of the world's nations, including the United States, have recognized the new nation does little to ease the agony of its birth.

In Dacca, Prime Minister Sheik Mujibur Rahman receives an endless line of petitioners, each of whom must lay their troubles before him, and makes government decisions down to the smallest detail.

It is not the way to run a government.

UNDER THESE enormous pressures it is little wonder that Sheik Mujib tells visitors he is feeling worn out and ill. Worst of all, he is considered the one man capable of holding Bangladesh together.

Although the United States accorded diplomatic recognition to Bangladesh only belatedly, it has been among the most generous of the world's nations in its offers of aid.

Total aid pledged by all sources comes to about $350 million. Of this, U.S. aid comes to about $100 million, including grains, vegetable ils, emergency shelter supplies and a little more than $35 million to help move emergency food supplies out of clogged ports and into the hands of those facing death from starvation farther inland.

Despite trailing far behind the United States in the total of its aid, the Soviet Union has laken advantage of the U.S. delay in according formal recognition to move far ahead in the propaganda field.

Mujib has lifted the ban on Communism and Soviet-Bangladesh friendship societies have sprung up throughout the country, leading the attack on the United States as an enemy of Bangladesh and backer of Pakistan.

IT HAS BEEN estimated that nearly 230,000 tons of food lie aboard ships in Bangladesh harbors, kept there by a shortage of transport and a web of bureaucratic red tape much of which is attributed to United Nations headquarters in New York.

Toni Hagan is the Swiss head of U.N. relief operations in Dacca. He asked for 30 barges to move food inland and got two.

He estimates $30 million is needed for bridges, culverts and 5,000 trucks to carry food supplies. And as of today, even if additional badly needed food were to arrive, he would have no place to store it.

A difficulty is that most of those attempting to administer Bangladesh are amateurs. Thousands of East Bengal technicians still are being held in West Pakistan, apparently as hostages for future peace negotiations.

The personality of Sheik Mujib has been the glue which held together Bangladesh's largest party, the Awami League. But the league is breaking down into factions and many of its lesser leaders are accused of open profiteering.

Guerrilla leaders are setting up their own fiefdoms and refusing to surrender their weapons. Leftwing student groups, their sentiments ranging from orientation toward Moscow to Maoism, have joined the jockeying for control.

It's a sick country which needs considerably more than diplomatic recognition to assure survival.

Berkeley Police Disperse Crowd

BERKELEY (UPI) — Street people attempted to turn Telegraph Ave. into a mall—a "festival-like situation" Sunday, but Berkeley police, using a low key approach, broke it up.

Officers said a crowd started throwing water balloons at passing autos about 1:20 p.m. and within an hour 300 persons were blocking the street.

One person was cited for throwing the water-filled balloons and people began pulling newspaper stands and bicycle racks into the street and lighting fire.

A sign that said: "Telegraph Avenue Closed on Sundays" was put in an intersection.

Commander Shot

Nixon 'Would've Disobeyed Court'

PALO ALTO, (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says President Nixon was prepared to disobey if the U.S. Supreme Court ordered him to halt the Amchitka nuclear test in Alaska in November.

The court did not order a halt to the controversial underground test, which was held in the Aleutians, despite objections from environmentalists who feared an earthquake. None occurred.

"The President said to me, 'Even if the Supreme Court ruled that I could not do it I have determined that as commander-in-chief it is my responsibility and I am going to do it anyway,'" Reagan told the California Republican Assembly Saturday night.

Our new 280 SE 4.5 costs almost three times as much as the "average" car. But we think there are 10,000 Americans who can appreciate the difference.

The average car buyer could be taken aback at the price of our new Mercedes-Benz 280SE 4.5.

At over $10,000, it is not only well above average, it is some $2,500 more expensive than the highest priced domestic luxury sedan.

Whether it's worth that difference to you may be answered only by what you expect of a motor car.

The 280SE 4.5 is a touring sedan in the best European tradition.

Designed to provide every motoring comfort for a party of five. And engineered to cope with driving situations that vary from the descending switchbacks of an Alpine pass to the 100 mph cruising speeds of an Autobahn.

A concept so different from that guiding the design of a domestic "luxury" car you may find driving something to do—instead of something that must be done.

Its engine is unlike any you'll find in an American car. An overhead-cam, fuel-injected 4.5 liter V-8.

It has no carburetors. Instead, a computer monitors engine speed and load, temperature and altitude, then electronically meters fuel to each cylinder. This precise method of fuel delivery is the most advanced way of providing efficient, high-speed touring capability.

The fully independent suspension was designed for ruts and bends, not just boulevards and turnpikes. It's so roadworthy, Road & Track contends that "no domestic luxury sedan is even in the same ballpark."

And to match its performance abilities, Mercedes-Benz engineers have equipped it with four power-assisted disc brakes, ventilated in front to resist fading.

The result is an automobile that can perform with equal aplomb on the 174 curves of Nürburgring, or the unwavering ribbon of a thruway.

And an automobile that is further endowed with almost every comfort. Power brakes and steering. Electric windows. Air conditioning and tinted glass. Electrically heated rear window. An AM-FM receiver. Even a central locking system that secures all four doors, the trunk and even the gas port at the touch of a button.

In addition to the 280SE 4.5, Mercedes-Benz builds two other V-8 touring sedans in similarly miniscule quantities.

The 280SEL 4.5 is identical to the SE except that it is longer. Longer in the Mercedes-Benz sense—an increase of four inches that is translated directly into rear-seat leg room.

The 300SEL 4.5 adds air suspension to the list of performance features unavailable on any domestic automobile.

In total, these three high-performance touring sedans will account for less than one of every 400 cars sold in the United States this year.

If you can accept a car that "different," take a thorough test drive. Discover the real differences in a car built to be the best—not the best seller.

Mercedes-Benz of North America, Inc.

"One has to pay through the nose for the best, but for those who can afford it...the 280SE with the V-8, in either the regular or the L version, is the best available today." Road & Track

Bangladesh: A New Nation But Almost In Name Only

By DAVID WINDER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The sheer magnitude of Bangladesh problems — regarded here as comparable to the dislocations of Europe after World War II — is cause for growing international concern.

Basically, the problems are outstripping the solutions with the next six weeks considered critical on the food front.

An aerial view of the densely populated, swampy land laced with rivers would reveal the enormity of the situation:

Thirty million people dislocated by war. More than 1.5 million homes destroyed. Nine million refugees returning from India to rebuild their lives and homes. War damage drastically reducing rail traffic. Key rail and road bridges destroyed.

In addition, food is scarce and prices are rising — a situation exacerbated by poor distribution.

Except for the Bengali euphoria at having won independence and their respect for their prime minister, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, Bangladesh is considered almost devoid of any of the attributes of a nation.

The Pakistani invasion wiped out the country's administration talent.

"The needs are so tremendous, so unbelievable" is how a senior official of one of the United Nations agencies with a close involvement in the problem describes the situation.

In his report of February 15, U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said that additional assistance, in excess of the $565 million targeted for 172, would be required for the remainder of the year. And that was only to meet the most immediate needs to avert large scale misery and hunger.

Against the projected $565 million target, some $350 million so far has been pledged in cash or kind, most of it in kind.

What has been delivered is far short of that. But how short can't be accurately determined, because some aid is funneled directly through the U.N. some given bilaterally, and the rest through voluntary agencies.

Thus far, donated gain shipments exceeding 100,000 tons have been delivered to Bangladesh ports. Present requirements are at least 200,000 tons a month. The latest weekly tally filed at U.N. headquarters shows present stocks down to only some 240,000 tons.

A shipment with 23,000 tons of wheat left Texas recently but will take 45 to 55 days to reach Bangladesh. A further 48,000-ton shipment will follow from Seattle.

The situation has not been helped by press reports of bickering among agencies, frustrations of U.N. officials on the spot, and charges of inefficiency and bureaucratic delays both in the Bangladesh Government and at U.N. headquarters in New York.

Pressed by the questioner at a news briefing whether the U.N. was denying reports of bungling over relief operations, William Powell, director of information, replied: "No we're not. We're not miracle people."

Conversations among officials at U.N. headquarters, indicate some of the little-known difficulties under which they work.

For instance, some countries prefer to give direct assistance, informing the U.N. afterward. In some cases, the gift is inappropriate. In one case, a European country had the satisfcation of announcing it would send trucks to Bangladesh, but the U.N. was then expected to maintain them.

Delays are bound to happen, moreover, when donor countries impose stipulations on how the money should be spent.

Much of the ralief difficulties center on the urgent need to clear the Bay of Bengal of mines and sunken hulks, consequences of the Pakistan war, so that large relief shipments can be brought in swiftly.

U.S. Recognition But No Aid Vow

By COURTNEY R. SHELDON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — Formal United States recognition of Bangladesh carries with it no new large scale aid programs or guarantees.

But, U.S. officials say, it can make it easier to channel the already sizeable efforts of the United Staes to make the fledgling Bangladesh a viable nation.

There are no illusions here about the immensity of the task. Proper distribution of available food is the most immediate aspect.

Establishing internal order and effective administration is seen as very difficult for a country which was left with few trained officials when it won its independence from Pakistan four months ago.

The beginnings of political opposition to the government of Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman are noted. On the other hand, with the exit of the Indians, the plight of the minority Biharis has not eased. Also, the Indians took with them the West Pakistani prisoners of war.

Beyond these domestic problems is the long-term maneuvering of the big powers for influence and allies in the subcontinent.

But when the broad context is considered, U.S. officials say, the time had become ripe for U.S. diplomatic recognition.

It was based on these developments:

1. Indian troops were withdrawn on March 12 and the return of some to help quell on uprising by tribesmen in the southeast is not considered a reversal.

2. The government of Sheikh Mujib is judged to be in actual physical control of Bangladesh.

3. U.S. officials talked with President Bhutto of West Pakistan before conferring the recognition. Though Bhutto at first retaliated against some countries for recognizing Bangladesh, he has about-faced.

4. World opinion, as expressed in the recognition of Bangladesh by more than 50 nations, establishes Bangladesh as a member of the family of nations.

5. The desire to improve relations with India and nurture the dialogue that is starting gingerly after the U.S. tilted its policy toward West Pakistan in the Indian-Pakistan war.

U.S. officials, in this regard, pointed to the reports out of New Delhi that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was now "in direct touch" with Pakistan.

In the absence of a decision on recognition of Bangladesh, a reported comment of Henry A. Kissenger that if Bangladesh were to become a "basket case" it would not be the U.S.'s basket case, loomed larger than it might have been intended. President Nixon has been actively involved in Indian-Pakistan matters from the start.

The preference of many diplomats is for recognition of a government, whether its political coloration is liked or not, once it has established control.

In this instance, U.S. officials do not have reservations about Sheikh Mujib as a potential political enemy.

Despite the U.S. actions during the war, they are convinced that much good will toward the United States is resident in Bangladesh because of past friendship and assistance.

U.S. officials say that no single factor was dominant in reaching a decision on recognition. It is obvious, however, that the departure of the Indian Army and the alteration of Bhutto's attitude broke the logjam.

In this respect, it was noted that the Soviet Union did not rush forward with its recognition of Bangladesh as speedily as others. Also, the Soviet Union does not send its aid through the U.N.

The People's Republic of China has not made any move toward recognition and very likely will not in the foreseeable future.

U.S. officials do not disclose what Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai said to each other in Peking in February. There is no evidence that the United States is warming up relations with Bangladesh now in concert with any actions by China.

DIRECTOR OF the San Rafaal Cooperative Nursery School, Mrs. Jo Egenberger, works on an electricity project with (from left) Scott Robinette, Karl Thunstrom and Jimmy Betts. After an 18-year search for a permanent site for the school, permission was given two years ago to use the abandoned schoolhouse at San Quentin Village. Both the school and the prison have benefitted, according to Mrs. Egenberger.

QUENTIN PROPERTY

Unlikely Location For Nursery School

By JOAN LISETOR

The children who attend the San Rafael Cooperative Nursery School think that everyone's automobile trunk gets inspected on the way home from nursery school, and that every nursery school has maintenance men who wear blue denim dungarees.

Their nursery school, a cheerful, busy, two-room school on approximately three-quarters of an acre of land, is located inside the gates of San Quentin Prison, and the men in dungarees are minimum security prisoners, who really keep things in shape, according to Susan Torres, a nursery school mother.

Nursery school has been held on the site of the former San Quentin School for two years, after an 18-year quest for a permanent location. The school, which was incorporated in 1948, previously held classes in the old Coleman School, the basement of a private home, the now demolished American Legion Hall in San Rafael and the World War II surplus buildings at San Rafael High School.

"WE WERE in need of a permanent site when a former nursery school family moved to San Quentin Village and discovered that the San Quentin schoolhouse had been abandoned since the mid 1960s," said Jo Egenberger, director of the nursery school for the past 20 years.

With the help of the San Rafael High School District, the State of California and San Quentin Prison, arrangements were made for the nursery school to occupy the schoolhouse.

"Nursery school parents were so delighted that the search for a permanent location had ended that they all pitched in and cleaned up the years of accumulated dust and grime," Mos. Torres explained. "The school runs on a normal keel. It is not bizarre, and there is no fear because we are quite a distance from the actual prison."

"For the men, the nursery school serves in a way as a half-way house," Mrs. Egenberger said.

"IT GIVES men who will soon be paroled an opportunity to have a relationship with children and women. The men love working in the school os much they break their backs to help. The ones who work on the grounds outside stop, look and wave at the children. Many have been in prison a long time and haven't seen women and children in so many years that they are fascinated."

When the weather permits the children romp in the enormous yard.

"They are so scattered it is difficult to realize we have 36 children enrolled," Mrs. Torres said.

Equipment like bicycles and wagons have been donated by parents, some in poor condition, but the maintenance men keep things in perfect order, explained Chris Robinette, another nursery school mother.

Two years of directing a nursery school within the gates of a prison has shown mutual benefits to the school and the prison, according to Mrs. Egenberger.

WITH EQUIPMENT kept in top condition by San Quentin prisoners who serve as maintenance men, San Rafael Cooperative Nursery School children, Scott Robinette and Eric Summa, work on a carpentry project at the nursery school, located inside of the gates of the prison.

Variety Is Word In Dress Lengths

Still don't know what length the dress ought to be? Variety is the word. And how you look in various lengths may depend on the stockings and shoes you wear.

To look taller, for example, designers recommend an unbroken line, regardless of the skirt length. This often is accomplished by keeping one color from neck to toe, stockings and shoes or boots included.

Most Important For Attendants

The most important "do" for bridal attendants is to look their prettiest the day of the wedding. If it's formal or semi-formal the maids wear floor-length or shorter dresses, with short or long sleeves, and a simple cap or hat with or without a short veil.

Mail Courses Report Has Lesson For All

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — A report just published on the use of correspondence schools by veterans is aimed directly at officials of the Veterans Administration. But it carries some lessons for anyone considering taking educational courses by mail.

The report, published by the General Accounting Office, is based on a survey of 1,000 veterans who had taken correspondence courses. It shows that only about one out of every four veterans signing up for such programs actually completed them.

Overa five-year period ending last June, 519,000 veterans enrolled in correspondence courses at a local cost to the Veterans Administration of $156 million.

One of GAO's main concerns is the amount of refunds due because of uncompleted courses. It found that 84 per cent of the veterans who did not complete their courses had paid for uncompleted parts of the courses.

POTENTIAL REFUNDS ranged from $10 to $900, with an average of $180. Yet, according to the report, most veterans did not know they had to request the refunds in order to get them.

The main point of the GAO report, however, lies in the results of certain questions. When asked whether they would have enrolled in the same course if they knew how many veterans actually drop out, only one-third said they would have done so.

Dropout rates were highest for commercial art courses. Some 96 per cent of enrollees quit before completing such courses, according to the GAO survey.

Next highest were accounting and drafting programs; the dropout rate for them was 93 per cent.

Other types of courses and their non-completion rate were:

Electronic technician, 91 per cent; electronic operations, 91 per cent; secondary school courses for high school and college preparation, 90 per cent; engineering technician training, 88 per cent; performing arts, 85 per cent; radio and television broadcasting, 79 per cent; computer technician training below college level, 78 per cent; electronic mechanic and repairman training, 76 per cent; auto mechanics and repair, 74 per cent; other business and commerce, 73 per cent; electrical trades, 70 per cent; air conditioning and refrigeration, 69 per cent; mechanical couses, 63 per cent; protective services, 56 per cent; salesmanship, 44 per cent; real estate and insurance, 36 per cent; and hotal and motel training, 36 per cent.

TO THE EXTENT that the experience of veterans parallels the experience of non-veterans, the GAO report may be instructive to the general public.

A surprisingly large number of people sign up for high-priced courses that are available without charge from local goverment and school programs. Marguerite O. Tollefson, of the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, said she frequently runs across such cases.

In one case, she said, a person signed up for a correspondence course to provide a high school education costing $456 — including a $36 finance charge — without knowing that an equivalent set of courses was available free from the Adult Education Divison of the Montgomery County Board of Education. The full amount was due whether or not the course was completed.

Mrs. Tollefson became involved when the prospective student asked her for help in cancelling the course despite the signed contract. It was too late.

Wedding At Church In San Rafael

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael was the setting for the marriage of Sandra Susan Samson of San Rafael and Robert Churchill Clark of San Francisco on Sunday afternoonm

A reception at Dominic's Restaurant followed. The newlyweds are on a wedding trip to Hawaii and will live in San Francisco when they return.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Samson of San Rafael, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clark of Irvine.

The Fitted Look Makes A Return

Ensembles in spring and summer Paris fashion shows featured short, fitted jackets. Most of these were cut with sleeve in one piece with the back, giving a rounded shoulder line which emphasized the nipped-in waistline.

Flat collars and small lapels tapered to a single button are other marks of the jacket from Paris designers.

Kaufman's Fabric Land

JOAN CROSSLEY

Rayon is a material that is bathed and shredded! It's true! Rayon starts out as sheets of cellulose. These are bathed and steeped in a caustic sofa solution. After some time has passed, the excess solution is pressed out. Then the rayon is shredded. Crumbs, fine crumbs of cellulose, are what rayon is made of! Several other chemical reactions take place before these crumbs can be made into a fabric for wear.

KAUFMAN'S FABRIC LAND, 836 4th St. is the place to come for all types of drapery and upholstery fabrics. We have a complete drapery department at this location plus a Shop at Home Service for Decorating — see us for an appointment ... Open: Mon-Tues-Thurs-Sat 9:30AM - 5:30PM, Wed-Fri 9:30AM - 9PM, Sun Noon - 5PM.

HELPFUL HINT:
Never wring out or twist a garment of rayon. Allow it to drip dry.

Over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition

HERE'S HEALTH!

by JUNE EMBURY

Today I want to tell you about a new book. It had me so excited, I couldn't put it down before I had finished it! It is "Nutrition Against Disease" by Roger F. Williams.
Dr. Williams is a true scientist, with a deep concern for his fellow man. His wide experience in the field of nutrition gives him the evidence to back up his claims. He has the conviction that nutrition can play a vital role in the prevention of disease and he wants us to attend to our "internal environment" through high quality nutrition.
He claims that the most basic weapons in the fight against disease are the numerous nutrients our bodies need. All nutrients work together in balance, all are needed for health and vitality.
I know, that after you read this book, you will agree with me that Dr. Williams deserves our thanks for his untiring efforts in behalf of nutrition.

Mill Valley P-TA Council Sponsoring Bike Safety

The Mill Valley Parent-Teacher Association Council is sponsoring a bicycle safety week today through Friday because of the great increase in bicycle accidents, according to Mrs. Jack Eatherton, health and safety chairman for the council, who is coordinating the program.

Special events planned will culminate in a "stop-on-a-dime" demonstration put on by the Mill Valley Police and California Highway Patrol at each school. They will also set up a safety check on all bikes brought to school on the day of the demonstration and inspection at each school.

Parents are invited to attend the demonstrations according to this schedule: tomorrow morning, Alto School; tomorrow afternoon, Tamalpais Valley School, Wednesday morning, Marin Terrace School; Thursday morning, Homestead School; Thursday afternoon, Old Mill School; Friday morning, Park School; and Friday afternoon, Strawberry Point School.

During the week children will also see movies about bike safety, and pamphlets appropriate for different age levels will be available for distribution. A Mill Valley shop is cooperating by having a sale on safety related items at 25 per cent off regular prices.

At Edna Maguire Middle School the highway patrol will make a classroom presentation later in the year covering such items as mini-bike use and parents' legal responsibility for children.

Chairmen handling the event in the various schools are Mmes. William Admerand, Alto; Kurt Levi, Homestead; C. R. Woodhouse, Old Mill; James Potts, Park; M. L. Israel, Strawberry; and L. E. La Dage, Tamalpais.

Men's Fashions Described With Two Expressions

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two expressions are being used these days to describe current men's fasions—"the updated classic look" and "contemporary classics." But it takes a new movie laid in Berlin in the 1930s to show exactly what the expression means.

German costume designer Charlotte Flemming put together a set of classic wardrobes for the men in the smash hit "Cabaret" based on the Christopher Isherwood stories of decadent pre-war Berlin and since immortalized on Broadway and in Hollywood.

"Cabaret" started out as Isherwood's Berlin stories, became the play "I am a Camera" by John van Druten and went on to be a long-running musical in New York. Now it has ended up on the screen starring Liza Minelli and Michael York.

Some of the classics include blue blazers, the doublebreasted suit, the trenchcoat, wide brimmed hats, striped shirts worn with plaid ties, three-piece single breasted suits, chalk stripe suits with pleated pants and two inch cuffs, argyle V-neck sweaters and knickers for bicycling.

ALTHOUGH THEY are the styles of the 1910s, when Adolf Hitler was just bringing the Nazis to power in Berlin, many as seen in the picture could be worn today as the epitome of the updated classic that has replaced the recent more flamboyant fashion eras.

It was more than a year ago that people quit talking about the peacock revolution and began speaking hopefully of a return to the classics. As Ken O'Keefe of the Men's Fashion Association (MFA) put it at a fashion seminar last summer, it was "the end of the costume party."

Manufacturers were delighted —it meant the end of producing clothes that would go out of style in a few months, thus annoying and probably losing old customers. But they weren't exactly sure what it meant and there were some cries of alarm.

They were all partly right and partly wrong. Designers currently have taken the best of the classic looks of the '30s and '40s and turned them into wardrobes that combine the best of everything. There are a few white shirts, but most are colored. There are a few button downs, but they are still n the minority.

THE REASON the men's wardrobes in "Cabaret" are so successful is that Miss Fleming captures the feeling of understated elegance — which is what fashion is supposed to be about. She does so for York, who plays the part of poor British language student Brian Roberts. And she does so for Helmut Griem, who plays the part of Baron Maximilian von Heune, who is rich. The same goes for Fritz Wepper who plays the role of Fritz Wendel, who is poor and toys with the idea of becoming a gigolo.

One of the classic costumes worn by York is in an opening scene when he arrives in Berlin wearing a trenchcoat and wide-brimmed hat. Underneath is anothar classic — a three-piece chalk striped flannel suit worn with a long pointed white shirt and striped repp tie.

Griem, as the rich baron, carries it a bit further — a navy blue blazer with classic gray flannel pants, a light colored vest, a white shirt and dark tie. Or in a wide-lapel suit with flapped pockets worn with dark blue shirt and white pinned collar and a figured tie. Wepper is splendid in a straw boater worn with a light three-piece suit.

The costumes are at their best in the leisure scenes. York in one wears a Fair Isle sweater with jacket and matching knickers for bicycling. Griem is neat and tidy in a blue-gray-white V-neck Argyle sweater worn also with knickers. And from time to time they wear dark blazers — the most classic look of all.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Fact Or Fiction, That Night Long Ago Is Best Forgotten

DEAR HELEN:

Most people don't know the blood types which would disprove a paternity suit and prove a paternity suit and that's lucky because other men might find themselves in my predicament.

I'll start from the beginning. Myra and Gene are my friends from high school days. At one time I thought I was in love with Myra but we were both over it by the time she married Gene.

There was only one night when we even remembered the old relationship, and I've never been able to remember just how far it went. That was at a dance when Gene and Myra had a fight and he walked off with another woman. I took her home, we drank quite a lot (I was feeling sorry for myself, too) — and later we all laughed about the one and only big brannigan Myra and Gene ever had.

Which brings me to the present, 16 years later. Their son, Gene Jr., age 15, was in an automobile accident and required blood transfusions. I'm in the lab of the local hospital. In the course of taking blood samples and making analyses, I found out that the boy could not be Gene's son! Possibly their family doctor already knows this, but I'm sure neither Gene nor Myra does. Gene Jr. looks like his mother, but has so many of his father's mannerisms that people think they're dead-ringers for each other. I have never seen a father and son so close.

I know you are thinking that this has got to be fiction. I wish it were! You see, my blood type IS compatible with Gene Jr's. The time element checks (as near as I can recall). But that night 16 years ago is a total black-out for me.

Should I ask Myra, tell Gene, or continue to wonder all my life if my best friend's son is really mine? For two months, I've thought of little else.

If you print this, please do so before May when they will be home from a cruise and reading the paper again. Also I've changed details so that friends won't recognize the family. — PLEASE — NOT A FATHER

DEAR NOT:

I'd say: erase the results of the blood tests from your mind as thoroughly as you blanked out what happened on that long-ago night. There's a strong possibility that Myra or Gene (maybe both) already know Gene Jr. isn't his father's natural son. If this doesn't bother them — and you most definitely don't want to claim the boy — then don't share your suspicions with anyone, except (if you feel compelled) their family doctor. I'm sure he'll keep the secret, too. — H.

NOTE TO READERS: Is this letter fact or fiction? Advice columnists never really know, but my "radar" tells me that if "Not a Father" were fabricating, he'd have carried the story a step further, giving himself a daughter who was in love with Gene Jr. Right? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Our child is hopelessly retarded, deformed; he lies in a crib, almost a vegetable. And he'll never be any better. We have three wonderful, normal children. I can't care for him. Heaven help me, I can't even love him. I have deep pity for him — so much that I wish mercy death were legal. Yet we must make every effort to keep him alive — for what? To remain in an institution where he'll die a slow death?

I never thought much about euthanasia before, but now I know that it is the kindest way. Why can't hopeless cases be mercifully put to sleep, either at birth or as soon as it is definitely determined there is no hope?

And why must incurably ill and suffering people be kept alive when they themselves cry out for death?

Human life is only valuable when it can be of value. People fear that legalized euthanasia would make us the all-powerful judges of who's to live or die. Don't we already do this when we wage war — which dooms some tremendously worthwhile people to death? We do it, too, with legalized abortions.

I know I'll be condemned for wanting my child to die, but I had to say this. Don't answer me, Helen — just print it! — SORROWING MOTHER

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Sometimes A Player Stumbles Into The Exciting Vienna Coup

The Vienna Coup, for the benefit of those who haven't been reading the box tops, is a spectacular play in which you set up a high card for an opponent and then squeeze him out of it. (A bit cruel, perhaps, but nobody's perfect.) In the days of whist, only two or three players in the world were expert enough to execute the play. Today we know more about such exotic plays.

WIDE OPEN

South should not have bid two no-trump with the hearts wide open. However, his poor bid gave him the chance to execute a Vienna Coup without even knowing what was going on.

At any rate, South lost the first four heart tricks. On the fourth heart he discarded a diamond from the dummy and a club from his own hand.

West signaled with the nine of clubs on the fourth heart, and East then led the seven of clubs. South wasn't the best player in the world, but he did know his playmates. West was incapable of signaling with the nine of clubs unless he had a high club.

DECLINES FINESSE

South therefore put up the ace of clubs and ran the four spades, discarding the last two clubs from his hand. This left him with the four diamonds. South wasn't trying to do anything difficult. He just hoped that his four diamonds would all turn out to be good.

On the last spade West had to come down to four cards. He had the king of clubs and four diamonds to the jack. What could he discard? Dummy had the jack of clubs, and South had just discarded the queen of clubs.

RUNS DIAMONDS

So West discarded a diamond, and South thereupon took four diamond tricks. West had been squeezed out of his diamond stopper.

North, a fine player, had been watching with great excitement. "Marvelous," he exclaimed at the end of the hand. "A Vienna Coup!"

"Think nothing of it," South demurred. "It was easy."

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids two no-trump, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 9 8 5 2
♥ - A Q 9 8
♦ - 7 5
♣ - 7 5 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three clubs.

This asks partner to show a major suit. If he has none, he bids three diamonds and you will then bid three no-trump.

Vera Zorina: Ready To Play Joan Of Arc Again

By IRA KAMIN

Vera Zorina sat by herself in a Veterans Memorial Building dressing room yesterday, while some 250 musicians and singers were gathering on stage for a rehearsal of tomorrow evening's performance of Honegger's "Jeanne D'Arc Au Bucher" (Joan of Arc At The Stake).

Miss Zorina has performed this work countless times, with many major orchestras throughout the world. She has recorded it twice, in English and in French. She was in its 1950 American debut with the New York Philharmonic.

Still, she was as nervous and fidgety as one who needs cue words hidden in her fist while narrating the role of Joan. But she doesn't need any prompting for the role. She has her part memorized — and everyone else's, to boot.

Miss Zorina is a small, slender, attractive woman who might be approaching 60, but, if so, is doing it with verve. She isn't telling.

She was born in Berlin as Brigitta Hartwig. She left Germany for England and France at 13 to train as a ballerina and ended up with the Russian company, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

"That's how I got the name I have now," she said. "Everyone had to have a Russian name. They handed me a list of 20 names to choose from, and I took the only one I could pronounce."

The next phase of her career began in London where she was asked to do a musical comedy, "On Your Toes." This she did. What followed were 10 Hollywood musicals under contract to Samuel Godlwyn, ("I hated movies," she said. "I hated sitling around all day waiting for the production.") There were also leading Broadway roles in musicals of the 1940s, like "I Married An Angel," and more serious roles, like Ariel in Margeret Weston's production of "The Tempest."

The more serious side has been developed since then. Besides narrating the role of Joan, she has directed seven operas and would like to do a movie with Ingred Bergman.

Five of the operas were done with the Santa Fe opera company. The other two were done with the New York City opera company.

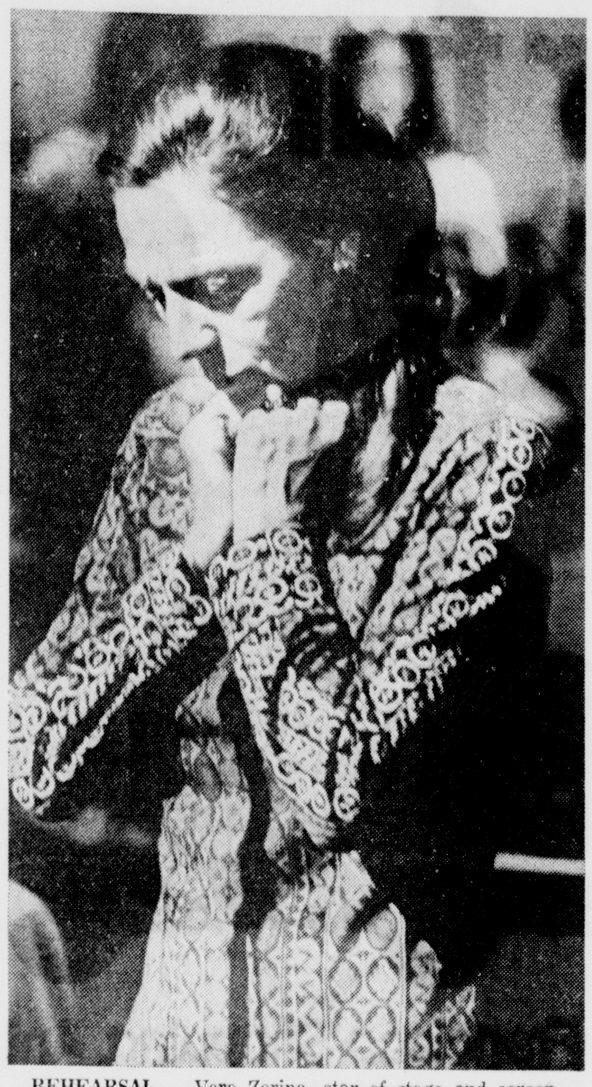
She and her husband, Goddard Lieberson, a senior vice-president of CBS, have homes in New York City and Santa Fe, and when she's not traveling around the world doing Joan, they spend the rest of the year in Norway, the birthplace of her mother.

She has given up the rigorous ballet training, and now keeps her shape by playing tennis.

As it came time for her to join the rest of the comapny for rehearsal, she chewed her nails and her eyes girlishly darted around the small dressing room. "I'd like to do some introspective roles; I guess that's why I'd like to work with Bergman. The question is, would he like to work with me?"

She then quietly, anonymously, walked on stage, hidden in the tumult of the Marin Symphony Orchestra tuning up and 200 singers of Contra Costa College, the Carmel Bach Festival Chorus, the Special Children's Chorus from Marin Country Day School and St. Luke's Episcopal Church. It was the start of a long, rough rehearsal under Sandor Salgo's baton. She took her seat next to Scott Beach, who will read the part of Brother Dominic, her legs shaking, her whole body restless.

Then the piece began, and Miss Zorina stepped to the microphone. As if she wrote the part herself, Miss Zorina became Joan, as she surely will tomorrow when the curtain rises for the audience at 8:30 p.m. in this ambitious undertaking sponsored by the Marin Symphony Association.



REHEARSAL — Vera Zorina, star of stage and screen, immerses herself in the mood and character of Joan of Arc facing the stake. Miss Zorina was rehearsing yesterday for tomorrow night's performance sponsored by the Marin Symphony Association at the Veterans Memorial Building.

Soprano Bogard Returns

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Last night's special concert of the candlelight series at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley was not only the Bach-to-Mozart group at its best but a gala welcome back to soprano Carol Bogard, with devotees coming from all over the Bay Area to hear her again.

Singing better than ever ans still as beautiful as a blond Botticelli Venus, Miss Bogard, who had been soloist with the group for six years, left five years ago to go on to build international reputation. Since then she has developed other facets of her talent and her voice is stronger, but she remains the superlative interpreter of Bach and Handel or any baroque music.

No singer I have heard can produce such liquid trills and handle highly ornate embellishments with such consummate ease while sustaining tone.

Response of the audience of some 200 people was enthusiastic but not as tumultuous as it used to be in Brown's Hall, where the Homestead Valley community holds its regular series. However, this could be largely explained by the formal concert setup of the clubhouse instead of the usual cabaret arrangement of Brown's Hall with the audience seated at candlelit tables sipping wine or coffee.

The effect was nostalgic as Miss Bogard thrilled her audience with four of the numbers that were favorites during the time she sang regularly with the Bach-to Mozart ensemble.

She opened the concert with the aria "Destero D'all Empie Dite" from Handel's "Amadige," and once again was heard the incomparable beauty of Edward Haug, though at times the trumpet was a little too loud. Also impressive in this work were the trumpet and oboe passages with the latter played by Raymond Duste.

Even more brilliant was the soprano-trumpet combination in the aria "Let the Bright Seraphim" from Handel's "Samson." But the piece which drew most rave comments was the aria "Ah, Spietato," also from "Amadige," in which Miss Bogard produced an incredibly fine spun and long sustained pianissimo in the highest register and was emotionally deeply moving.

Her final number, the famed Bach Cantata 202 (wedding") was a triumph of gaiety and instrumental suppleness of technique.

Other numbers on the program were a quartet for clarinet and strings by Karl Stamitz featuring Frealon Bibbins and the quartet for strings no. 14 in E flat K. 428 by Mozart. In the Stamitz Quartet violin, viola and cello deserved much credit, but Bubbins' clarinet-stole the show with his usual virtuoso performance, particularly in the final rondo. The Mozart Quartet was played for the most part with fine balance but lacked elan.

Other members of the Bach-to-Mozart group performing were George Nagata and Donna Salarpi, violins; Asbjorn Finess, viola; Teressa Adams, Cello; and Erika Matthes, Harpsichord.

Temple's Exhibit 20 Deserved More Than One Night Stand

By LAURA DEVENDORF

A show as fine as Congregation Rodef Sholom's Exhibit 20, which both opened and closed at a Saturday evening meet-the-artists party, deserved more than just a one-night stand.

Touted as a museum quality show, it largely lived up to its billing. However, this presentation of numerous works by twenty outstanding Marin artists and craftsmen did not constitute an art show in the usual sense, which is why its limitations were forgiveable.

Used, now, for the second year as a fund raiser for the Temple's permanent art collection, Exhibit 20 had the unique feature of being subsidized in advance through the use of artist's sponsors and patrons, plus contributions from other sources. Consequently, the evening show was more of a festive, beautifullly adorned celebration. And while sadly few were able to share it, that sort of thing just doesn't run for weeks on end.

Those who did attend were able to see quite a number of works by each of the participating artists. These were talents rarely seen at local festivals, talents ordinarily enjoyed only piecemeal on appearance in local shows.

At exhibit 20, you could, for example, have the lavish experience of over half a dozen Gayle Luchessa soft sculptures. They hung in lumps of yarn-wrapped knobs, cascaded in golden ropes or erupted sedately from the static environment of wall hangings.

You could see several subtle variations on a theme in Fritz Rauh's sponge-like painted patterns where colors changed fluidly almost the way light does on coral beds in shallow sea water. Or you could sample several selections from Eleanor Bender's Indian motif print series which, while stark in design, are as lush as velvet in their hazy, metallic colors.

Few ideas or styles were repeated. There was the enduring marble calm of Ralph O'Neill's abstract sculpture and the natural serenity of Ernest Braun's photographic blow-ups of cool spring grass and flowers. There was a searching uncertainty in Kent Rupp's skulls and organs isolated in chunks of black, red or white, or watched by a figure cast against the same. And there was the certainty of nature in Phillis Taplitz' architectural landscapes.

Most artists of this stature continue to grow and change. Change has always shown in Ada Garfinkel's work, and here it came across as a simplified use of space, a crisper and almost spring-like sense of color and freshness in her drawings and paintings. In Gwen Stone's collages it appeared in swarms of tiny, similar objects like formations of flying birds in colored space.

Orther artists in Exhibit 20 included Carol Herschleb, June Lederman, Warren Logan, Alton Raible, Martin Stoelzel, Catharine Gibson, John Ihle, Othello Michetti, Charlotte Patera, Dale Rausch and Tony Williams, altogether, a feast of local talent with a much too limited opportunity for consumption.

Central Marin Boys' Club Office Opens

The Central Marin Boys' Club has opened an office at 830 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael and hired Hubert Voight as fund raiser and Barbara Parks as secretary.

It has set a general meeting for noon Friday at the San Rafael Elks Club to select a general campaign chairman, large donations chairman and a permanent steering committee.

The Central Marin Boys' Club was organized last month, with a goal of $500,000 to be raised for a central club, possibly in San Rafael and smaller clubs in the central part of the county.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Gretchen And Goblins' Is Great For The Kids

By KAY KSANDA

It's goblins and wicked people at the castle of King Karl the Cruel, and it happens Saturday afternoons through the month of April at the Mill Valley Center For The Performing Arts.

It's kiddie theater, with a "darkest before the dawn" plot in the production of "Gretchen And The Lonely Goblin," by Mary Brauer. It's rated "G," and though it is goshawful for adults it's great for the kids. They sing, squeal, and go "yeeagh!"

The production is by a new group called Children's Theater, mostly Mill Valley residents, who plan to tour their shows around the Bay Area, much like the Actor's Workshop. Their portable sets are small, clever, and clear. The costumes are fresh, and the acting by the eight adults and three youngsters is good.

The actors obviously have a great time. Two little well-scrubbed kids wander into the forest where they meet giggly Gretchen (Marney McArthur) in a snappy dirndl outfit with red bows in her hair, and false eyelashes on her lids. She tends the pigs for King Karl the Cruel. She used to grace the castle, but she giggled all the time, so the king threw her out. The rest of the people in the castle are either wicked or woebegone.

In the deep dark forest there's a goblin (Craig Scott) who's up to no good. He negotiates a tade with the king, i.e., his dingy dark forest for all the kingdom's laughter. Gretchen escapes, but all the rest stay put, and sing a ditty about how grim it all is. Also, Laughter (Laurie Truman) isn't doing too well in the forest with a polka-dotted goblin. There's a lot of "Oh, alas, alack!" which shows the kiddies just where the world is at without laughter, especially in a drafty castle.

Performances are Saturdays, April 8, 22, 29, at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m., 267 Buena Vista Ave., Mill Valley.

"GRETCHEN AND THE LONELY GOBLIN," a children's play with story by Mary Brauer and music by Richard Bartaman. Directed by Don Stubbs; producer, Bill Teed for The Children's Theater. Budding Talents Are Displayed

By ROBERT M. NESS

Virtuoso pianist Vincent J. DeRosa joined the scholarship winners of the Marin County Branch of the Music Teachers Association in a display of budding talent before a capacity audience Saturday night in the Choral Hall at the College of Marin.

Guest artist DeRosa, a high school senior from Los Angeles, brought an impressive list of prizes, scholarships, and honors with him. For three consecutive years he has taken first prize in the International Recording Competition of the National Guild of Piano Teachers. He has also appeared as soloist with numerous orchestras.

His program Saturday consisted of the Bethoven "Moonlight Sonata," Debussy's "Images, Book I," and Chopin's B Minor Scherzo —an impressive group of pieces to say the least.

It was in the virtuosic portions of the program that DeRosa shined the brightest. That monstrous last movement of the Beethoven had the rhythmic drive and power of an avalanche.

His most sensitive playing came in the Debussy. Surging dynamics and precise technic gave these "Images" a sensational musical impact.

The Chopin Scherzo illustrated the depth of DeRosa's unusual technical facility, but didn't quite make it as a musical expression.There was a lack of continuous thought behind the performance.

Of the scholarship winners, Thomas Macfarlane's performance of Schumann's "Fantasiestucke, Op 12" revealed him to be an exceptional musical talent. Though not possessing the same technical facility and flamboyancy as DeRosa, Macfarlane demonstrated a more careful and sensitive musical expression in his performance.

Patrick Terry's performance of Poulenc's "Toccata" was authoritative and musical, as was Leslie Anderson's performance of the complex, contrapuntal Bach "French Suite in G Major."

Donna Sakima played the flamboyant "Impromptu, Op. 90, No. 4" of Schubert with an exceptional sense of dynamics and phrasing.

The only nonpiano winner performing was Michael Mulryan, who gave a facile performance of the Kuchler "Concertino in D" for violin and piano. The remaining winners were younger pianists.

Ken Burton gave a manly rendition of Beethoven's "German Dance in D;" Kirin Coburn whipped through the Allegro in F major by Haydn; John Vonk handled C.P.E. Bach's "La Caroline" with ease; Dana Miranda Phillips' performance of Grieg's "Grandmother's Minuet" sparkled with humor; Marina Michaelian played the Waxman "Water Music" with feeling; and Abigail Burton, with a great deal of authority, performed a Haydn "Vivace."

This was the second scholarship benefit recital featuring a Yung Artist' Guild member by the Marin Chapter of the Music Teachers Association. The proceeds will go towards next year's scholarship program.

Seven Music Major Soloists Spark Fast Moving Production

Seven soloists — all music majors at the college — joined conductor John Myers and the College-Community Orchestra in movements from major solo works before an enthusiastic capacity audience at the college's Fine Arts Theatre.

The most overpowering performance came from trumpeter Stephen Salgo, a student of Joseph Alessi, who performed the Allegro from the Hummel Trumpet Concerto. Salgo played with a crystal clear tone and took advantage of every chance to articulate phrases with dynamic shadings and contrasting textures. Most striking was the authority and confidence he exhibited. He seemed to know exactly what he wanted and exactly how to get it.

Robin Williat is a flutist with a style of her own. A very beautiful sensuous work by Chaminade, "Concertino for Flute and Orchestra, Op. 107" was given a musical expression usually not associated with the instrument. She was able to get a large range of dynamic levels and actually create textures of considerable variety. Miss Williat, a student of Jean Chandler, seems completely oblivious to the expressive limitations of the flute.

The sparkling third movement of the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto was aptly performed by Mary Helen Weinstein, the concertmaster of the orchestra and student of Charles Meacham.

Another violinist, David Poteet, performed the Allegro from the Mozart Third Violin Concerto. Though somewhat nervous at the beginning, he went on to exhibit a beautiful tone and sensitive understanding of the music. The virtuosic cadenza at the end was thrilling.

Clairellen Waldeck, well known for her operatic and musical appearances at the college, sang Michaela's heartrendering "Je dis, que rien" from the second act of Bizet's "Carmen."

The Allegro from the Richard Strauss Concerto No. 1 for horn was played by Kevin Omi. Despite the horrendous, technical demands and typical Straussian leaps, Omi played with confidence and musical fluidity.

Pianist Carol Krueger performed the Allegro Movement from the Third Kabalevski Piano Concerto with vigor to conclude the evening.

While there was a fair share of rough spots in these performances, on the whole the performing calibre was remarkable. Myers and the orchestra were in top shape last night. The strings in the Strauss, the horns in the Bizet, and the whole orchestra in the Chaminade were particularly excellent. The obvious musical enthusiasm that went into each work made this concert one of the highlights of the College of Marin's musical season. R. N.

"Take a look at Larkspur. It's getting harder to see the Creek, and some slopes are already scarred with unsightly development. Larkspur must change direction and tighten up control of the remaining undeveloped areas. The city must adopt a sense of urgency and act now to solve its problems."

DeMont Takes 3rd In AAU Swimming Meet At Dallas

By PAUL CANE

What can you say about a skinny, 15-year-old Terra Linda schoolboy who can swim faster than all but a couple of the college men in the United States?

Even coaches Peter Daland of USC and James "Doc" Counsilman of Indiana are speechless when it comes to discussing Rick DeMont.

DeMont knocked 20 seconds off his previous best time Saturday to place third in the 1,650-yard free-style in the National Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Championships in Dallas, Texas.

The 5-foot-11, 140-pounder covered the distance in 15:36.0, 54 hundreths of a second behind second-place Mike Burton, 24, and only a few bodylengths short of defeating American record holder John Kinsella of Indiana U.

"Oooh, I'm a stud now," DeMont chortled gleefully following his amazing performance.

DeMont is with the Marin Aquatic Club under coach Don Swartz, but competed unattached in this meet because he is engaged currently in the high school swimming program.

Should Rick repeat or better this third place performance at the U.S. Olympic Trials in August, he would qualify to represent America in the Summer Games in Munich, Germany.

In his heat of eight swimmers, DeMont trailed the entire field for nearly 400 yards. He said, however, that this is his strategy — to swim the race progressively faster, instead of going out quickly and tiring out.

"I just cruise easily for the first 500, then I step it up from there," he related. "This way, I don't start to really hurt in my stomach until long after the other guys do. I felt really good until around the 1,200-yard mark.

"I hope to make the Olympic team," he mused on the plane flight back from Texas. "Hopefully, I will improve at a faster rate than the college guys, but I will really have to crank at the Trials — people will swim incredible races there."

High school swimming competition in Marin County, Rick declares, "is bush." For example, a girl swimmer from Southern California (Kim Peyton) has swum the 200 free faster than anybody in the MCAL has done this year — 1:52 (the fastest MCAL time for men in 1972 is 1:54).

It is customary, at big meets like the national championships, for competitors to shave all the hair from their bodies, a practice which Rick employed for the first time in Dallas. "The feeling of slickness that you get makes you feel good, and when you feel good you can always swim well," DeMont confided.

Rich, a junior, is not certain of his college choice at the moment, but is leaning toward USC. "The Trojans have a great program and a fine coach in Daland," DeMont feels.

Two other best-ever performances wrapped up the Nationals Saturday for the Marin A.C.

Jo Hislop, a 17-year-old San Rafael High junior, improved her own 1,650-free time by 20 seconds to 18:07, but did not place.

Denise Ham, a senior at San Rafael, lowered her 200-yard individual medley time to 2:15.5, although she, too, failed to qualify for the finals.

Nicklaus Masters Victor

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)— Grudgingly — because just thinking about it almost caused him to blow a Masters championship that he had in the bag — Jack Nicklaus conceded today it is now "possible but not very likely" that he can complete the first professional "grand slam" in golfing history.

"I'd say the odds have gone down from about 100,000 to 1 to about 1,000 to 1," laughed Nicklaus, shrugging those big shoulders under the green coat that he earned for the fourth time as winner of the Masters.

"But it's too soon to really be talking about the chances. If I can win the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, Calif., in June, and if I can win the British Open at Muirfield in July, then will be the time to talk about my chances of completing it by winning the PGA.

"You know, the talk about the grand slam made it much tougher for me to win the Masters this time," Nicklaus added, and now the 32-year-old super star of the links wasn't laughing. "It was like putting an anvil on my shoulders."

"The speculation about the slam is good and fine," he hastened to add. "The trouble was I got to believing it myself and that adds to the pressure on me. It was very hard to relax and play with all of that on my mind."

Nicklaus very plainly showed the pressure in the last nine holes of Sunday's final round as he collected three bogeys and saw a five-stroke lead cut down

Federal Help In Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The baseball strike which has snarled the opening of the season remained deadlocked today after a two-hour meeting of player and owner representatives with the government's chief labor mediator.

J. Curtis Counts, Director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said after the session that the talks had been productive in spelling out the issues but no progress had been made toward reaching a settlement on the dispute over pensions.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players' Association, and John Gaherin, representing the owners, returned to New York after meeting with Counts. They plan to report to their respective sides and possibly will meet again together later in the day.

Counts brought both sides together in his labor department office after President Nixon expressed hope the 10-day strike could be settled and regular season play begin.

Miller said he was hopeful that the dispute could be ended. But when asked if today's bargaining discussions brought settlement closer, he replied, "I can't say that they did."

Gaherin also said he as "always hopeful" of ending any labor dispute and added: "I think Mr. Counts' involvement has been helpful and I'm glad he is taking an interest in this case."

Miller expressed disappointment that the mediation meeting had not "made the kind of substantive agreement that leads to a solution."

Gaherin on behalf of the owners said he thought the dispute would be "soluble with the assistance of Mr. Counts."

Counts summarized the situation for newsmen as follows:

'Bullship' Winner A Woman

Nancy Farnum of the Fremont Yacht Club Saturday became the first woman in 12 years and only the second in history to win the "bullship" race from Sausalito to San Francisco, negotiating the nine-mile course in approximately one hour and 10 minutes.

The 19th annual race, for El Toro class boats only eight feet in length, was sponsored by the Annual Bullship Regatta Association, and had 79 entries.

Mrs. Farnum's victory was the first since Lynn Murphy of the Lake Merritt Sailing Club of Oakland won in 1960, and broke the three-year winning streak of Henry Jotz of San Francisco. Jotz did not finish in the top 30.

Another woman, Shirley Small of Lake Merritt, finished second. There were only six women in the field.

Mark Briggman of the San Jose Sailing Club, past North American champion in the El Toro class, came in third, and was the first man to finish. Walt Ratcliff of Berkeley was fourth and Dennis Silva of Oakland fifth. Both belong to Lake Merritt. The maiden voyagers' perpetual trophy was won by Dave Edwards of the Richmond Yacht Club.

There were no capsizes reported, despite the risky course across the Golden Gate.

Buck Defense Stops Lakers In Playoffs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Milwaukee Bucks reminded everyone Sunday they are the defending champions of the National Basketball Association —not the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Lakers enjoyed the best season ever by an NBA team in 1971-72, winning a record 69 games including an incredible 33 in a row, and many have all but conceded this year's championship to Los Angeles.

But the Bucks showed the Lakers Sunday they aren't about to give up their title without a fight. Playing one of their strongest defensive games of the season, the Bucks crushed the Lakers, 93-72, to take a 1-0 lead in their semifinal playoff series.

In other action, Boston won its quarterfinal series with Atlanta, four games to two, by whipping the Hawks, 127-118; and New York moved ahead 3-2 in its quarterfinal series with Baltimore by beating the Bullets, 106-82.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 33 points for the Bucks in the their rout of the Lakers, but the story of the game was Los Angeles' horrid shooting from both the field and the free throw line. The Lakers, normally one of the league's top shooting clubs, connected on less than 25 per cent of their field goal tries and on only 50 per cent of their free throws. They scored only eight points in the third quarter and their 72-point total was the second lowest in NBA playoff history since the 24-second clock was installed in 1954-55. The lowest total was 71 points by Syracuse in the 1955 playoffs.

"We don't need too much to fire us up because we're the champs," Abdul-Jabbar said when asked if the Bucks were more emotionally involved in this game because they were playing the Lakers.

The Lakers will get a chance to even the score Wednesday night at home. The series then shifts to Milwaukee for the third and fourth games Friday night and Sunday.

Boston won its game with Atlanta on the strength of a 55.6 field goal shooting average and

Redwood '9' Gets Share Of Lead

Gene Frey of Redwood High School came within one batter of pitching his second no-hitter of the season as he hurled the Giants into a share of the Marin County Athletic League lead with a 3-1 victory over San Marin Saturday night at Albert Park.

With two men out in the seventh inning, pinch-batter George Hoberg of San Marin lined a clean single over the second baseman's head to ruin Frey's gem.

Frey who does not lead the league in luck, pitched seven no-hit innings March 27 against Hoover of Fresno in a tournament only to lose, 2-0, in eight.

Redwood bunched three runs in the fourth inning. Mike Connor singled, stole second, and scored on Bob Brown's ground-rule double. Daryl Edralin singled Brown home, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch, and came in on a catcher's throwing error.

San Marin's only run was unearned, the result of two errors and a passed ball.

The victory left Redwood tied for first place with Drake and San Rafael at 2-0. San Marin is tied for fourth with Novato at 1-1.

Frey, a junior right-hander, struck out 12 men and walked four. He whiffed out the first two men in the seventh inning, and after Hoberg's single, fanned the final batter as well.

Sonoma State Track Team Gains 1st Win

Sonoma State College won its first track and field meet in two years Saturday, scoring 85 points to 75 for the Redwood City Striders and 33 for Santa Clara University in a non-league triangular meet in Rohnert Park.

Dennis Hudson won two events and set a Sonoma State record in a third. Hudson threw the discus 153-feet 2½ inches to top the old mark of 146-7 set in 1965 by Jerry Gromer. The throw was good for a second place finish.

Penguin Playoff Hopes End, 2-0

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sudden death was very, very sudden for the Pittsburgh Penguins Sunday night.

Pit Martin's goal after only 12 seconds of play in the sudden death overtime-the quickest sudden death goal in National Hockey League history—enabled the Chicago Black Hawks to defeat the Penguins 6-5 and sweep their best-of-seven West Division playoff quarterfinal.

Martin slammed a shot off the skate of Pittsburgh defenseman Tim Horton and the puck skidded past goalie Jim Rutherford for the deciding score after Bobby Hull had registered a three-goal "hat trick" to rally Chicago from a 4-2 deficit.

"The puck hit my skate and went into the net," said a dejected Horton. "It wasn't very complicated. I saw it coming but it was just one of those things. Believe me, if I could have gotten out of the way, I would have. I think I was mesmerized there or something."

Pittsburgh erupted for four goals in the second period to take a 4-2 lead but Hull collected his second and third goals and brother Dennis hit his first of the playoffs in the third period to pull the Black Hawks to a 5-4 advantage. Bob Leiter's goal at 17:52 tied the game.

Chicago will now meet the winner of the New York-Montreal series, in which the Rangers took a 3-1 advantage Sunday night with a 6-4 victory. Boston stopped Toronto 5-4 to take a 3-1 lead in their East Division series while St. Louis nipped Minnesota 3-2 to tie their West Division series at two games apiece.

College Baseball Race Led By Cal

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The University of California Bears were perched on top of the Pacific-8 Southern Division Baseball standings today as a result of sweeping three games from UCLA in the opening series of the league season.

Southern California and Stanford had been favored to battle it out for the division lead but they split their doubleheader Saturday to give the Cardinals a 2-1 edge in the series.

After pounding out a 4-2 win over the Bruins Friday, California came back Saturday to sweep their doubleheader 4-2 and 4-1. Gary Hernandez, who had homered for the Bears on Friday, got another four-bagger in the first game Saturday but went hitless in the second game. That ended a Pacific-8 record streak of 18 games in which he had hit safely.

Stanford, ranked No. 1 in the nation, scored a 2-0 victory Friday and then took the opener Saturday by a 2-1 score. But the Trojans, defending NCAA champions, came back in the nightcap on Tim Steele's sixth inning, two-run homer to score a 3-2 win.

UCLA and Southern California travel north this weekend with the Trojans meeting the Bears Friday and in a doubleheader Saturday while UCLA has three games with Stanford.

Tars In 2-Mile Relay Win

The College of Marin two-mile relay team of Joe Kinn, Steve Silvey, Paul Norman and Jeff Westerberg won its event at the Sacramento State College Relays Saturday with a time of 8:17.1.

The four-mile relay squad of Vian Collier, Joe Mouille, Lee Hotchkin and Mike Arago set a school record but finished second at 17:58.8. Ken Blasingame finished fourth in the 120-yard high hurdles at 15.4. No team totals were kept.

The Tars will resume Camino Norte Conference dual meet competition Friday against Contra Costa College in San Pablo.

NBA DRAFT

Loyola Center Martin Heads List

NEW YORK (UPI)—LaRue Martin, a skinny 6-foot-10 center from Loyola of Chicago who distinguished himself this season with back-to-back impressive showings against superstars Bill Walton of UCLA and Jim Chones of Marquette, is expected to be the first player taken today when the National Basketball Association conducts its annual college player draft.

The Portland Trail Blazers, the worst team in the NBA this season, earned the right to choose first in the draft by winning a coin flip with the Buffalo Braves, and the Blazers announced over the weekend they plan to select Martin, a lithe 200-pounder who averaged 1:.5 points and 15.7 rebounds per game this season.

The draft will be held via telephone hookup at the office of Commissioner Walter Kennedy and will begin at 1 p.m. EST.

Harry Glickman, executive vice-president of the Trail Blazers, said the club had thought of going for 6-4 junior forward Robert McAdoo of North Carolina, a second team All-American who qualified for the draft under a hardship ruling. But the Trail Blazers backed off when they learned McAdoo had signed with Virginia of the American Basketball Association.

"We could afford McAdoo," said Glickman, "but we couldn't afford the legal liabilities in terms of possibly losing him to the other league. At best, the team which takes McAdoo has a 40 per cent chance of losing him. You might take that kind of gamble on a Lew Alcindor, but not for a Robert McAdoo."

While Martin's name was relatively unknown outside the Midwest, the scouts consider him one of the better big men among this year's senior class. He was especially good in the games he played against All-Americas Walton and Chones.

"He's very active under the basket, very quick and an intimidator," said Stu Inman, the Blazers' player personnel director.

On the whole, this year's draft is considered by pro scouts to be among the thinnest in recent years in terms of overall talent. Most teams feel they will be lucky to get "any" quality players after the first round.

The 17 teams will draft in inverse order according to how they finished during the regular season, except that four clubs —Atlanta, Cincinnati, Golden State and Baltimore —all lost their first round picks last September when they selected hardship draft players.

Houston also is without a first round pick. The Rockets had the No. 4 pick in today's draft but traded it to Phoenix Saturday in exchange for center Otto Moore. A year ago Moore had been obtained by the Suns from Detroit in exchange for a first round draft pick, which the Pistons will exercise today.

Buffalo will choose second and the Braves may go for either Tom Riker, a 6-10 forward from South Carolina, or Brian Taylor, a 6-4 guard from Princeton. Taylor, like McAdoo, is one of eight eligible hardship cases in this year's draft.

Cleveland, which had the No. 1 pick a year ago and took Austin Carr, will draft third followed by Phoenix, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, Seattle, New York, Detroit, Boston, Chicago, Milwaukee again and Los Angeles. The Bucks get two first round choices as a result of a trade made with Houston earlier this year.

Among the players expected to go high in the draft are centers Greg Northington of Alabama State and John Gianelli of Pacific; forward Travis Grant of Kentucky State, Bud Stallworth of Kansas, Bill Chamberlain of North Carolina; and guards Freddie Boyd of Oregon State, Harold Fox of Jacksonville, Jim Price of Louisville and Paul Stovall of Arizona State.

Most of the top seniors in the college ranks have already been drafted by the ABA and another brutal signing war between the two leagues is expected. The ABA has already signed Chones and 7-foot David Brent of Jacksonville to pro contracts, and both players had a year of collage eligibility remaining.

49ers Lose Hindman To Retirement

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Defensive lineman Stan Hindman of the San Francisco 49ers is retiring from pro football at the age of 28 to pursue a career in art.

The 6-3, 243-pounder from Mississippi stepped in as a starter in his first year as a pro in 1966. He spent two seasons nursing injuries and another on the bench.

"I really don't think I'll change my mind," said Hindman. "I told (coach) Dick Nolan to go ahead and plan for this year as if I won't be there."

2nd Spot Fight Set In Prep Net

By LEW CODDINGTON

The real battle will be for second place in Marin County Athletic League tennis this year.

Redwood High School has reached the point where it generates news only if it loses — and it hasn't made much news lately. The Giants have won four straight MCAL titles, 51 consecutive league matches, and uncounted gasps of awe from rival coaches.

The league season will open tomorrow with a full schedule of four matches. Redwood will be at Terra Linda, 3:30 p.m.; Tamalpais at Drake, 3:30 p.m.; San Marin vs. Marin Catholic at College of Marin, 3:30 p.m.; and Novato at San Rafael, 4 p.m.

There is no end in sight to Redwood's dynasty. In fact, Redwood's No. 1 player is a sophomore, Dan Tierney, who is already considered well above the other players in the league. "He will probably go back East later this year to seek national recognition," said coach Stan Buchanan.

Buchanan is new at the Redwood helm. He took over for Glen Dickey, who is on leave. Buchanan's tennis coaching experience previously was confined to a co-ed team in Vallejo.

Buchanan heads a large phalanx of new coaches, including the world's most experienced rookie, Bob Fitzhenry at Drake. The veteran former basketball mentor never coached tennis until he took over for Reynolds Crutchfield this year.

Also new are Ed Fuchs at Marin Catholic, replacing Bill Thiercof, who moved on to College of Marin; Hart Smith at Tam, replacing retired George Gustafson; and Chris Ahern at Terra Linda, replacing Francis Lum.

In addition to Tierney, Redwood has Steve De Martini, Gary Walter, Mark Rodnick, and a good freshman, Henry Jacobson. And more. "We're strong all the way down to No. 12," said Buchanan.

The depth will help Redwood take advantage of a change in format this year. Teams will play five singles matches (plus two doubles), instead of the three singles and two doubles last season.

Drake, a leading candidate to be "best of the rest," also will benefit from the five-singles rule. The Pirates have "the finest turnout we've ever had — 40 kids," in Fitzhenry's words, giving them enviable depth. Drake blends experience, with first-singles player Greg Kalemba a senior, and youth, including a good freshman named Gene Lechelt.

Terra Linda has no seniors, but plenty of talented underclassmen, making Ahern optimistic about the present and ecstatic about the future. His No. 1 player, Doug Carlisle, is a freshman, and the second man, Jamie Lee, is a sophomore.

Tamalpais has only three seniors on its squad, one of whom is Bob Goldfien, a good No. 1 player. John Liff is developing rapidly as a sophomore. "We have a good chance for second," Smith says.

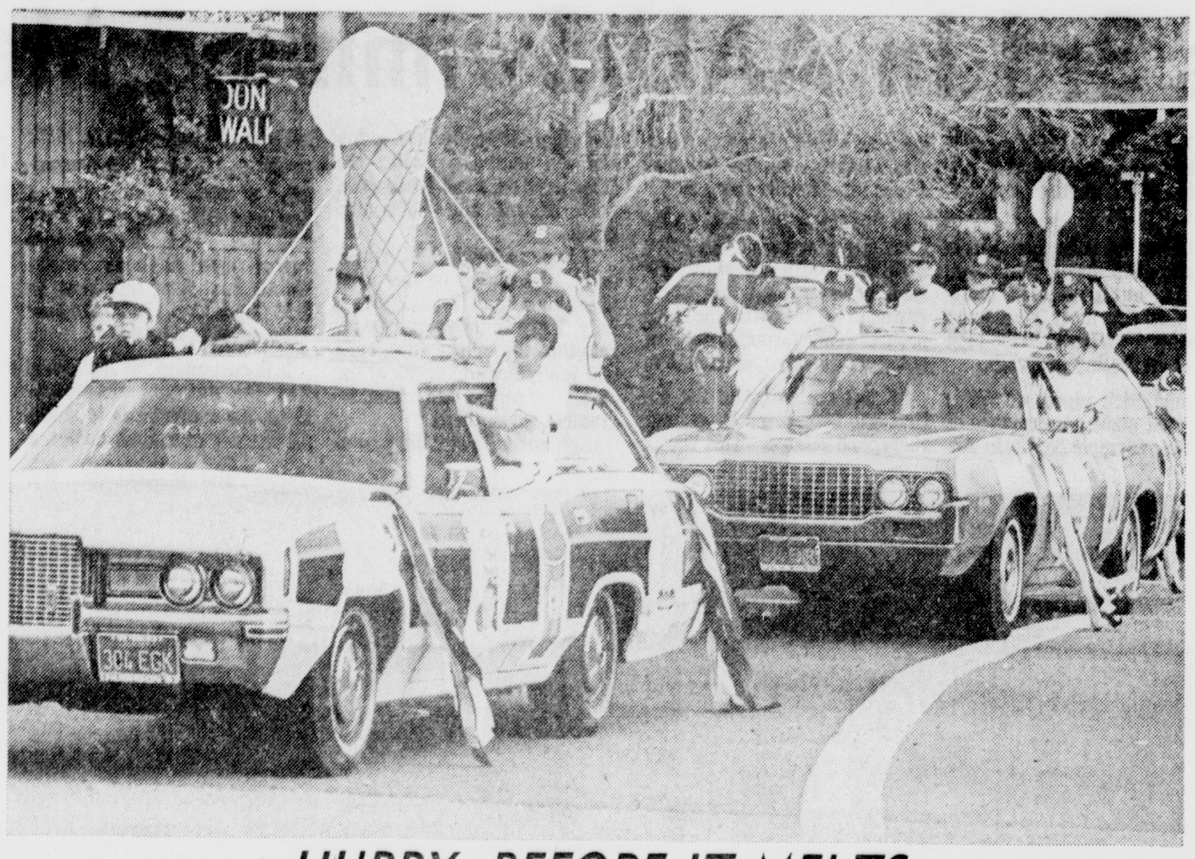
San Rafael also has a team made up predominantly of underclassmen, except for the top two players, Dave Bacon and Steve Sockolov. "We probably will be in the middle somewhere," says Coach Milt Hain.

Marin Catholic likewise will depend on youth. "We have no seniors, and just four players up from the junior varsity," said Fuchs. Tony Trembley currently is playing No. 1 for the Wildcats. Marin Catholic tied Drake for second last year at 10-4 (Redwood was 14-0), but the entire varsity graduated.

Novato and San Marin tend to gravitate toward the bottom of the league in tennis. "The kids up here don't play the game the year around," said Novato coach Jim Caranica. "They don't belong to the Belvedere Tennis Club or any of those."

San Marin's Rick Whitney reports an upswing in tennis enthusiasm at his school, which never has won a league match. "We only had seven or eight kids out last year," he said. "Now we have 19."

San Marin and Novato both will be inexperienced. Stuart Swabacker currently is playing No. 1 for Novato, while Joe Lusk is San Marin's top player.



HURRY, BEFORE IT MELTS

One of the cars in the Terra Linda Athletic Association parade Saturday was decorated with a favorite of young baseball players everywhere, a huge ice cream cone replica. Nearly 500 boys and girls and their parents participated in the parade which started at the Terra Linda fire station and ended at Vallecito Junior High School's baseball field. The regular Terra Linda Athletic Association baseball season will start next Saturday.

Spitz Wins 3 In Dallas Swim

DALLAS (UPI)—Mark Spitz and Susie Atwood got most of the rave notices in the wake of their respective three gold medals apiece in the National AAU Short Course Swimming Championships, but teenaged Barbara Shaw could care less. She got what she came after.

The 18-year-old Apple Valley, Calif., high school senior who swims out of the Riverside, Calif., Aquatic Association, came to the meet with one idea in mind —the record of :52.10 in the 100-yard freestyle held by Jane Barkman of Philadelphia's Vesper Boat Club.

She got her chance in the finals on the fourth and final night of the meet Saturday. She won the event, but only tied Miss Barkman's record.

"That's what I was going for," she said. "I got a real late start and I think that late start is what spurred me on. It made me want it even more."

Miss Shaw got still another chance later in the evening and made the most of it. She swims the leadoff leg on the Riverside 400-yard freestyle relay team.

Her team wound up a disappointing fourth nearly two seconds behind the winning Santa Clara Swim Club' 3:35.11, but it wasn't Miss Shaw's fault.

She got away to a great start this time and posted a :51.6 opening leg. That counts as a new American and meet record, AAU officials announced later, because rules say first legs of relay events may be considered for records.

"I really wasn't thinking about the record that time," Miss Shaw said.

Outfielder Dennis Staub, hitting like his major-league namesake Rusty, belted six hits in seven trips to the plate (including a home run) and drove in five runs to lead Suburban Auto of San Rafael to a doubleheader Sweep Saturday night.

Suburban defeated Concord, 9-4 and 11-8, in Golden Gate League softball action at Hayward Park in San Francisco, boosting its GGL record to 3-1 and over-all log to 10-4.

Staub and pitcher Morey Swarm each hit homers in the opening game. In the nightcap, Suburban surrendered four runs in the top of the first inning, but retaliated with 10 in the bottom of the frame.

Pole Vault Record Set By Isaksson

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

AUSTIN, Tex. — The world record of 18-1 set in the pole vault Saturday by Sweden's Kjell Isaksoon came under — to say the least — unusual circumstances.

Isaksson, a handsome, 24-year-old, had quite a bit going against him when he cracked the old mark of 18-0 ¼set two years ago by Chris Papanicolaou.

First as Isakkson loped down the runway in the closing moments of the 45th Texas Relays, he was looking straignt into a setting sun. And there was a strong wind blowing, which Isakkson said later was blowing crossways as he dashed toward the bar.

Then there was the vaulting pit itself. The pit was set close — seemingly dangerously close — to a chain link fence which runs around one end of Memorial Stadium.

But Isakkson said none of those factors concerned him. And apparently he was not bothered, either, by the members of the Texas Longhorn football team who clattered out on the Astroturf in preparation for a scrimmage that wound up their first week of spring training.

a 41-point first quarter. The Celtics shot an incredible 6! per cent in the first half as they had their patented fast break going at full speed.

Dave Cowens and John Havlicek each scored 26 points to pace the Celtics, who will meet the winner of the Knicks-Bullets series in the semifinals. Pete Maravich scored 37 points for Atlanta

The Knicks, who had lost seven consecutive playoff games at Baltimore, finally broke that string with a superb defensive effort. The Knicks broke the game open in the third quarter by outscoring the Bullets, 27-12.

The series shifts back to New York Tuesday afternoon.

Trout Restocking In Marin Waters

Three Marin County reservoirs — Phoenix, Lagunitas and Bon Tempe — were scheduled to be restocked with catchable size trout this week, the Department of Fish and Game announced today.

The department reminded anglers that water levels are low in many lakes and reservoirs in the state and stocking will be suspended if conditions become unsuitable for trout.

For the day, he had an unchampion-like two-over-par 74 for a 72-hole score of 286, only two strokes under par and the highest Masters winning total since he himself won with 288 six years ago.

Except for Nicklaus, it was a blanket finish Sunday with not a single other competitor under par for the 72 holes. Crampton, Mitchell, and Weiskopf were at 289, and five players were at 290—Bruce Devlin, Jerry McGee, Homero Blancas, Jerry Heard, and Jim Jamieson.

Denver Defeats Indiana

DENVER (UPI) —The Denver Rockets have managed to hold their own with the Indiana Pacers on the backboards in their best-of-seven American Basketball Association quarterfinal playoff series and as a result have extended the series to the limit.

The Rockets, who were not considered a serious threat to the Pacers at the beginning of the series, evened their match at three games apiece Sunday night by whipping the Pacers, 106-99, behind the rebounding of Julius Keye and the shooting of Byron Beck.

Keye grabbed 18 rebounds as the Rockets swept the backboards, 59-44, and Beck scored 24 points to lead a balanced attack.

The deciding game in the series will be played at Indianapolis, Ind., Thursday night with the winner advancing to the Western Division finals against Utah.

In the Eastern playoffs, the New York Nets, who hold a surprising 3-2 edge over Kentucky in their best-of-seven quarterfinal series, meet the Colonels at Uniondale, N.Y., tonight, and a victory would send the Nets against the Virginia Squires in the East finals.

Indiana trailed throughout its game with Denver but drew to within three points in the final quarter only to have Beck cool the rally with a three-point play with two minutes left to play.

The Rockets got 19 points from Ralph Simpson, 16 from Dave Robisch and 15 from Larry Brown in their balanced offense. Mel Daniels led Indiana with 26 points and 23 rebounds.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

What You Might Want Done If You Have A Big Refund Coming

If you have a big refund because you are entitled to a lot of itemized deductions like taxes on your home, interest on your home, heavy medical expenses, etc., you can file a new form W-4, Schedule A, with your employer based on your 1971 tax return and your withholding for 1972 will be reduced by the amounts that you claim.

If you think this applies to you, be sure to get Schedule A, W-4, and read the nstructions carefully and complete it exactly according to the instructions and chances are your take-home pay will be increased.

If you incurred no income tax liability for 1971 and don't believe you will incur any tax liability for 1972, then you should get Form W-4 E, Withholding Exemption Certificate, read the instructions carefully, and if they apply to you complete this form exactly as per the instructions and give it to your employer.

You will not have to file an income tax return for 1972 unless your income will be at least:

Single individual, $1,700; Single individual 65 or over, $2,300; Married couple filing jointly, $2,300; Married couple, one spouse 65 or over, $2,900; Married couple, both 65 or over, $3,500; Married person filing separately, $600.

Your employer then has no option. He must discontinue withholding from your wages.

Do you have a big federal tax bill to pay this year in addition to what your employer has already withheld from your 1971 paychecks?

Withholding, at the regular rate, only covers the tax on your salary or wages and is inadequate if you have a large salary or earnings from sources not subject to withholding.

The law provides that you can agree with your employer to have him take more than the regular rate of withholding out of your paychecks so that you will have your taxes fully paid at the end of the year.

The W-4 slip you sign for your employer has a special place provided for this.

If you were short this year, then make such an agreement with your employer now so you won't be short next year.

If you are receiving a pension, you can now have the tax withheld by filing Form W-4P with the payor of the pension, stating the amount you want withheld and other information required. These forms are available at local IRS offices.

The payor of your pension will start making these deductions for withholding within three months after your request. They may start sooner if they can.

Also, you can have them deduct more than the tax on your pension so that you won't have to file an estimate at all. In other words, you can have enough deducted from your pension so that it will cover the tax on your interest, dividends and other income.

The only thing is, the withholding must be at least $5 per month and it can't be so large that it reduces the net amount of any payment you receive to less than $10. Here's a good way to save yourself the trouble of filing an estimated tax return.

Standard Oil May Test Oregon

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Standard Oil Co. may drill a test well in eastern Oregon about 80 miles north of McDermit, Nev., according to Gov. Tom McCall.

McCall told a meeting Thursday of the state Natural Resource Agency that the area is the most promising in Oregon for the discovery of oil.

Standard Oil has leases on both state and federal lands but has not yet applied to the division of state lands for a drilling permit. Such a permit will not be issued unless the state Department of Environmental quality and other agencies approve if the permit is requested on state lands.

"We are in the consideration stage, said R.W. Armstrong, division land manager for Standard. Armstrong said the site under consideration is on federal land.

The last test well drilled in Oregon was by Texaco near Prineville. No commercial amounts of oil or gas have been found in the state.

$100 Billion Goes Long Way

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you've ever wondered just how much a billion dollars is, try asking yourself how much is $100 billion.

C.I.T. Financial Corporation, which has financed that amount of business in the past 20 years, figured it out that 100 billion dollars in dollar bills would (a) reach to the moon and back 20 times, or (b) pay the cost of all new home construction started in the United States during the past three years.

If you're not home-owning happy or moon-minded, $100 billion would (c) provide $480 in cash for every man, woman and child in the United States, according to the company.

Airline Dropouts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only one in 25 girls who apply for airline stewardess jobs finally make it into the cabin, according to the Air Transport Association.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 72, single, retired, with monthly income of $360 plus interest from savings of $20,000. I hold 90 shares of McDonnell Douglas bought at $70 and now worth around $40. Should I sell same and buy a high yield utility? — J.M.

A. If you check your original total cost and divide it by the number of shares you now hold, your per share cost will be well below $70. Reason being that splits, stock dividends and the merger with Douglas Aircraft in 1967 have changed the capitalization over the years. However, since you do not state when your shares were purchased, or your total cost, I cannot give you the adjusted per share cost.

The picture at McDonnell has come into sharper focus this year, brightened by an upturn in contract awards. At Dec. 31, 1971, backlog stood at $3.4 billion with two-thirds representing commercial orders. Since the first of the year MD has been awarded a $382 million contract on a missile defense system, a $47 million order for two DC10s and a $49 million F4E Navy contract. Final quarter 1971 ended on a strong note with sales up 35 per cent year-to-year and earnings up 7 per cent. Similar improvement should be reported for the March, 1972 first quarter.

The 40 per cent annual dividend is certainly modest. However, the 3 per cent stock dividend gives you an additional 2 shares and cash in lieu of the fractional share later this month. Because of the recovery now in progress I would recommend holding shares.

Q. I hold 100 shares of Occidental Petroleum (NYSE) bought at 19¼. Do you see any chance for long-term recovery? — H.H.

A. When an issue is as far out of favor as OXY, holding becomes an exercise in patience. The 80 per cent decline in share price from the 1968 high reflects the companies vulnerable position in Lybia, which accounts for the bulk of production. Switch to investor favored Browning-Ferris (NYSE), a solid waste management concern.

Wall Street Stocks End Lower Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market closed mixed to slightly lower today under the weight of profit taking. Trading was active on the New York Stock Exchange.

Advances and declines were almost even among the more than 1,780 issues crossing the tape.

The late selling and profit taking was normal in light of the big gains made last week when the Dow average advanced more than 21 points, analysts said.

Most analysts said the market should soon push forward because of a sudden blossoming of confidence in the economy and the technical factors working in it.

Advances led declines, 798 to 646, among the 1,753 issues crossing the tape. The four-hour turnover totaled 14,480,000 shares, compared with 13,570,000 traded during the corresponding period Friday.

Superior Oil rocketed ahead 24 points before trading was halted. It did not trade Friday.

Moves To 'Auto Row'

Auto Row Has New Addition

Groundbreaking and construction started this week on Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury's new plant on San Rafael's "auto row", at 475 Francisco Boulevard.

The new plant, with 22,500 square feet of floor area, will more than double the size of the present location at Third and Lincoln in downtown San Rafael.

Herk L. Viglienzone, president of Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury said he hopes to have the new sales and service building open about the first of August this year.

Viglienzone will have 22 working stalls for car servicing, some 3,000 square feet of showroom space, plus a parts department and office space. The new building will be on two acres of land, which will provide ample space for a used car area.

Viglienzone has owned Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury for the past 14 years. He provides a full leasing program in addition to sales and repair.

Marin's Answer To Import Shops Opens In San Anselmo Center

Red Hill Imports, Marin's answer to Cost Plus and The Akron, held its grand opening yesterday at Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo, next to Pepperwood Coffee Shop.

Red Hill Imports, at 898 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, is operated by Russ Goodman and his wife Teri of Larkspur. Goodman was an assistant buyer with J. W. Robinson Co., a southern California chain store, and Teri formerly worked for Saks in San Francisco.

"We are competitive with stores like Cost Plus and The Akron but at the same time want our customers to walk in and feel at home," said Goodman. "If they want something we do not have, we will try to get it for them."

Red Hill Imports specializes in selected items china from England, rattan baskets, and kitchen gourmet items. The store has an earthy, homey atmosphere with bare ceiling and brick tile floor.

VILLA RAFAEL Motel at 1606 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, will get a cleanup and redecoration job under new owners.

The 45-unit motel was sold last week by Edgar Hannagan to three partners — Armand Goudy, and his son-in-law Romain Cherbero, and a cousin, Marcel Balestier, all of San Francisco. Goudy, who has been in the hotel business in San Francisco for 35 years, owns Hotel Atlanta.

Cherbero will move to Terra Linda, and Balestier will live at the Villa Rafael.

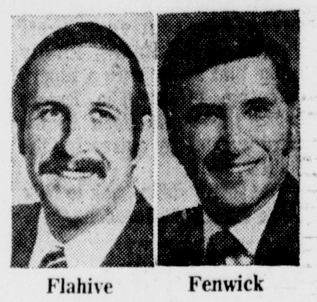
The three partners bought the motel, restaurant and bar and will operate only the motel. They leased the restaurant and bar to Anthony L. Cirelli of Burlingame. Hannagan, the former owner, will move to the Fort Bragg area to go into the bar business.

ROBERT JOHN FLAHIVE of Corte Madera has been appointed vice president in charge of the San Francisco office of The Ken Lehman Company.

The company sells advertising space for Harvard Business Review Magazine and trade publications in the 11 western states. Flahive established the office in San Francisco three years ago for his firm.

RUSSELL L. FENWICK of Novato has been promoted to vice president-planning in the San Francisco headquarters of Bank of America.

He succeeds R. Gene Conatser, who is becoming director of economic research. In his new post, Fenwick will be responsible for developing long range goals for the bank and coordinating plans of the major operating staff departments.



Flahive Fenwick

He has been vice president in charge of systems and equipment research since 1964.

MARKOS PAINTING and Decorating Center, a retail outlet for paints and wallpaper, has been opened at 1020 Reichert Avenue in Novato, by painting contractor Markos Perivolanis.

Perivolanis has operated his painting contracting business since 1963 at his home on Victor Court. He decided to expand into the retail business. His new store is open seven days a week.

REDWOOD EMPIRE chapter of the American Association of Nurserymen will meet tomorrow night at Nero's Restaurant in Ignacio.

The monthly meeting will start with no-host cocktails at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m. Scheduled speaker is Edward (Andy) Andersen of the Santa Rosa Press Democrat, who will discuss "Co-Op Advertising — Another Mother Lode."

Telephone Books To Be Delivered

Western California Telephone Co. will start delivery of new directories to 14,500 Novato area customers Wednesday and complete distribution in about one week, according to Gordon L. Lee, division manager.

Anyone who doesn't receive a new directory by April 21 can obtain one at the Novato business office, 1450 Grant Avenue, he said.

This year, he said, the directory will have a pink section in the middle displaying telephones and equipment available to customers.

The front cover will have a California scene, Lee said.

OFFICIAL NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR THE PURCHASE OF BONDS, EAST SAN RAFAEL DRAINAGE ASSESSMENT DISTRICT NO. 1, CITY OF SAN RAFAEL, MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENT ACT OF 1913 AND THE IMPROVEMENT BOND ACT OF 1915

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that sealed proposals will be received by the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, Marin County, California, located in the City Hall, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, at the hour of 2:00 P.M. on the 17th day of April, 1972, for the purchase of an estimated $2,200,000.00 principal amount of bonds for East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District No. 1, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California. Said bids will be publicly opened, examined and declared at said time and place. These bonds will be for an amount not to exceed $2,200,000.00. Additional bonds may or may not be offered at a later date.

These bonds are authorized to be issued, and the assessments are authorized to be levied, under the provisions of Resolution of Intension No. 3998, of the City Council of the City of San Rafael, adopted on the 18th day of January, 1971, as later amended, and proceedings subsequent thereto. The Resolution of Intention, as amended, provides with relation to said bonds as follows:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that serial bonds to represent unpaid assessments, and bearing interest at the rate of not to exceed seven per cent (7%) per annum, shall be issued herein in the manner provided in Division 10 of the Streets and Highways Code, the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, the last installment of which shall mature nineteen (19) years from the 2nd day of July next succeeding ten (10) months from their date.

MATURITIES AND AMOUNT OF BONDS: Said bids will be in the estimated amount of $2,200,000.00. All bidders, however, by submission of a bid, agree to purchase the total amount of bonds that may be issued. Bids will be calculated and award will be made on the basis of the following maturities regardless of the exact amount of the bond issue. The exact amount of the issue will be determined by subtracting from the estimated amounts stated herein the amount of assessments paid in cash during the thirty (30) day cash payment period following recordation of the assessment. The estimated maturity schedule on the bonds will be as follows:

ESTIMATED MATURITY SCHEDULE

1989	145,000.00
1990	145,000.00
1991	145,000.00
1992	145,000.00
TOTAL	$2,200,000.00

NOTE: Bonds maturing in the years 1973 through 1977 are in $5,000.00 denominations. In the years 1978 through 1992, inclusive, the first five bonds maturing each year will be in $1,000.00 denominations and the balance of the bonds will be in $5,000.00 denominations.

DATE OF BONDS AND INTEREST RATE: Bonds are to be dated the 2nd day of June, 1972, and will bear interest from said date. Interest rate is fixed in the Resolution of Intention, as amended, at not to exceed seven per cent (7%) per annum. Such interest shall be evidenced by coupons attached to each bond, and each of said coupons shall represent six months' interest on the bond to which it is attached, except the first coupon will be for interest from June 2, 1972, to January 2, 1973.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: Said bonds are authorized to be issued by the City Council of the City of San Rafael, Marin County, California, by Resolution of Intention No. 3998, as amended, and proceedings subsequent thereto. The purpose is for the construction of storm drainage facilities, street improvements, sanitary sewers, the construction of a levee and all appurtenances thereto. These improvements are within the boundaries of the assessment district designated, "East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District No. 1, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California", and reference for details is made to the proceedings for the formation and completion of said assessment district.

PAYMENT: Both principal and interest are payable in lawful money of the United States at the office of the Marin County Treasurer, Civic Center Building, San Rafael, California.

Legal Notice

CALLABLE BONDS: All bonds are callable pursuant to the provisions of the Improvement Bond Act of 1915 twice each year. No bonds may be called except on July 2 or January 2, and there must be a sixty day notice of call. Any bond called will have interest to date of call and a premium of five per cent (5%) of the principal amount.

AUTHORITY FOR ISSUANCE: Said bonds were authorized to be issued by the proceedings in said assessment district, and said assessment district was organized and consummated under the provisions of the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 and bonds provided to be issued under the Improvement Bond Act of 1915 of the State of California.

SECURITY: Said bonds are payable from the redemption fund provided by law which is secured by all of the unpaid assessments within the boundaries of said district. Said bonds are further secured by a limited guarantee on the part of the entity which issued said bonds. Under the provisions of the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, any real property on which the owners have failed to pay installments of assessments as they fall due is sold for delinquencies by the City in the same manner as real property is sold for delinquent taxes. It is the duty of the City of San Rafael to bid such property in at such tax sale. It then becomes the duty of the City to transfer to the Redemption Fund the amount of the purchase. In the event there is not sufficient money in the General Fund to transfer this amount into the Redemption Fund, it becomes the mandatory duty of the City to levy a tax up to 10c on each $100.00 of assessed valuation of property within the boundaries of the City of San Rafael sufficient in amount to pay for the delinquencies. It becomes the continuing duty of the City, throughout the life of the bond issue, to levy such a tax and to pay for the installments upon property sold to the City for delinquencies. The maximum levy which the City is obligated to make in any one year is 10c on each $100.00 of assessed valuation. The assessed valuation of all taxable real property in the City of San Rafael for the fiscal year 1971/72 is the sum of $153,660,614.00. Ten cents on the $100.00 would therefore raise, in the City of San Rafael, the sum of $153,660.00.

LEGAL OPINION: The legal opinion of the law firm of Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglass & Anderson, 1322 Webster St., Oakland, California 94612, approving the validity of said bonds will be furnished to the successful bidder without charge. In the opinion of Counsel, interest on the bonds is exempt from all federal income taxes, and from State of California personal income taxes, under presently existing statutes, regulations and court decisions, and the bonds are also exempt from all California taxes except inheritance, gift and franchise taxes.

HIGHEST BID: Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates not exceeding seven per cent (7%) per annum in multiples of 1/8 or 1/20 of one per cent (1%). Each bidder must specify in his bid the amount and maturities of the bonds of each rate and all bonds maturing on the same date must bear interest at the same rate. No bid may name more than four interest rates, any of which may be repeated. No rate may be more than one and one-half per cent (1½%) higher than the lowest rate named in the bid. The interest payable on any bond on any interest payment date may, however, be represented by one or more coupons. A zero rate cannot be named for all or any of the time from the date of the bond to its stated maturity and the premium, if any, must be paid in the funds specified for payment of the bonds as part of the purchase price. No bid for less than 99% of par and accrued interest or for less than all of the bonds offered will be entertained. Unless all bids are rejected, the bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose proposal results in the lowest net interest cost to the issuer, and the net interest cost will be determined by deducting the amount of any premium paid from the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds from their date until their respective maturities.

RIGHT OF REJECTION: The City of San Rafael reserves the right at its discretion to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid. Any bid must be in strict conformity with this Official Notice Inviting Bids, and without any qualification.

PROMPT AWARD: The City of San Rafael will take action awarding the bonds or rejecting all bids not later than forty-eight (48) hours after expiration of the time herein prescribed for the receipt of proposals.

PROMPT DELIVERY: Delivery of the bonds will be made to the successful bidder at the office of the City Treasurer of the City of San Rafael, City Hall, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, as soon as the bonds can be prepared, but not earlier than the date of said bonds. Successful bidder, by making a bid, agrees to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within forty-eight (48) hours after notification by City that the bonds are ready for delivery, but bidder is not obligated to take delivery earlier than the date of the bonds. The successful bidder shall have the right at his option to cancel his offer to purchase if the bonds are not tendered for delivery within 45 days from the date of the bonds.

FORM OF BID: All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds herein offered for sale. Each bid, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, and endorsed, "Proposal for Bonds, East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District No. 1, City of San Rafael, Marin County, California."

BID CHECK: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $25,000.00 drawn on a bank or trust company transacting business in the State of California, payable to the order of the City of San Rafael to secure the City of San Rafael from any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. Checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned by mail upon the award of the bonds. Check of successful bidder will be credited upon the purchase price of the bonds, and no interest will be paid upon the deposit of any successful bidder. Check of the successful bidder will be forfeited to City if the bidder fails to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within the time provided for in this notice as liquidated damages.

NO-LITIGATION CERTIFICATE: The City of San Rafael will furnish to the successful bidder, at the time of the delivery of the bonds, a no-litigation certificate, certifying that there is no controversy or litigation pending or threatened concerning the validity of the bonds.

DATED: April 3, 1972.

One Count In Gunfight Is Dropped

A Marin Municipal Court judge has dismissed a felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon against an 18-year-old Tamalpais Hgh School student said to have been involved in a gunfight near the school March 25.

After hearing witnesses during a preliminary hearing, Judge Peter Allen Smith ruled Friday that David Spaulding of Sausalito had fired in self defense during the midmorning gunplay across Miller Avenue in Mill Valley.

The judge, however, continued the case to Thursday so that an amended charge could be filed.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter Evans said Spaulding still will face a misdemeanor charge of carrying a loaded gun, but a second misdemeanor, carrying a concealed weapon, will be dropped because witnesses yesterday said the gun was visible in his waistband.

The other youth involved in the gunplay is charged in Juvenile court since he is only 17. His name has been withheld by order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

No one was injured in the duel which police said stemmed from damage done to Spaulding's car.

The N.E.C. method may be the answer. It has proven in thousands of cases that it can stop bed-wetting (Enuresis)* when not caused by organic defects or diseases ...in just two to four weeks. Not a drug or diet, just a simple conditioning technique. The N.E.C. method was developed by a doctor... prescribed by many doctors. A recognized family service for more than 25 years.

SHADES OF TAMMANY HALL IN NOVATO??

In a recent paid political advertisement appearing in the Novato Advance, Arnold Baptiste and Wayne Sartain publically supported 3 of the 11 candidates aspiring to the public office of the City Council in the city of Novato. There is nothing wrong with Arnold Baptiste and Wayne Sartain, as private citizens publically supporting any candidates.

However, it seems as though some of the old Tammany Hall tactics are being exercised in our little city of Novato, when Arnold Baptiste, as Supervisor and Wayne Sartain, as City Councilman exercise the power of their office in supporting any candidate, especially when their office is supported by public funds and their salary derived therefrom.

I firmly believe that Supervisor, Arnold Baptiste and City Councilman Wayne Sartain are usurping the power of their office to dictate to the citizens of Novato, as to whom they should or should not vote for in this or any Municipal Election.

I further believe that these individuals are attempting to set a precedent in their dictates so as to put themselves in a position at any future time to name individuals to public office regardless of qualifications.

Isn't this a beautiful way to pay off a political debt?

NOVATO NEEDS RUEGG FOR COUNCILMAN

FRED RUEGG is retired with full time to devote to in depth research to obtain the facts necessary to make sound decision for the community.

FRED RUEGG is old enough to have experience and judgment yet young enough to have energy and imagination to search out the practical and possible solutions to Novato's problems.

FRED RUEGG is concerned about the environment, growth, planning and taxes. It is easy to say limit growth, protect the environment, pave the streets, etc., but in so doing, will Mr. Joe Citizen have to leave Novato because taxes are too high, leaving only the very affluent?

FRED RUEGG has the ability to make decisions that will preserve a maximum of the qualities of life we all cherish with the least intrusion on the individual right of all our citizens.

FOR PLANNED, BALANCED GROWTH AND MAXIMUM PRESERVATION OF OUR ENVIRONMENT, ALL WITH THE LOWEST POSSIBLE TAX LOAD:

REDUCE! WITH OUR Guaranteed RESULTS

Gloria Marshall says:

LOOK 10 YEARS YOUNGER FOR Mother's Day

Every woman wants to look a little younger, and she can, by losing those aging pounds and inches. Start now at Gloria Marshall's and you will be amazed at how quickly you will notice the results.

The face and figure transformation of Pat Chad

ALL PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN IN THE SALON

(photo 3) In record time she has lost 63 lbs., and 55 inches . . . has gone from a dress size 24-1/2 to a 14 and is well on her way to her perfect dress size . . . a 12.

Pat says, "I tried everything to lose weight, but nothing worked. Now, thanks to Gloria Marshall, I am able to shop for and buy clothes in colors and styles I was never able to wear before. Believe me, when you wear a size 24-1/2, you have no choice!"

GLORIA MARSHALL'S GUARANTEED REDUCING METHOD

1 THE GLORIA MARSHALL GUARANTEE: Tell us the dress size you want to be. We will then analyze your figure and tell you exactly the number of inches you need to lose. We are so sure of your results that we Guarantee in writing that if your measurements are not as promised, you may continue your treatments at no charge until your goal is reached.

2 HOW THE GLORIA MARSHALL SYSTEM WORKS: On your first visit, for which there is no charge or obligation, you will receive a complete demonstration and sample treatment. You will be weighed and measured (this does not require disrobing) and a trained specialist will analyze your figure and prepare a personalized program for you.

3 Gloria Marshall's is not a spa or gym. The Gloria Marshall system is designed for the busy, modern woman. Many working women find the salon a more rewarding way of spending their lunch hours. Mothers and grandmothers enjoy the relaxing, almost effortless way of reducing, also, the added benefit of increased circulation and energy.

4 QUICKLY, SAFELY, LOSE WEIGHT. Our modern reducing machines help you firm and tone while you quickly and safely lose unwanted pounds and inches, without strenuous exercise, starvation diets or dangerous drugs.

Just call the Gloria Marshall Salon nearest you for your FREE personalized figure analysis. There is no obligation.

STILL ONLY $2.00 PER TREATMENT
